Seaport in Panic as Bandits Advance.

BULLETIN.

PUERTO CABEZAS, Nicaragua, April 14.—(AP)—Refugees who have spent two nights aboard the fruit steamer Cefalu prepared to board her again tonight, for a heavily armed group of insurgents was reported less than two miles away, preparing to attack. Ships and schooners in the harbor were ready to sail on short notice in case of trouble.

New Orleans, La., April 14.—(AP)—Standard Fruit and Steamship company officials said tonight they had received reports from Nicaragua indicating eleven Americans and an undetermined number of British subjects have been killed by insurgents, who were reported moving on Puerto Cabezas.

The Americans killed were mostly employés of the fruit company and its subsidiary, Bragman Bluff Lumber company, the officials said. They were working in the interior, they explained, and Americans at Puerto Cabezas were in no danger, as the United States gunboat, Asheville, and two of the Standard Fruit and Steamship company boats were standing by ready to offer refuge.

The officials said the insurgents were not molesting native Nicaraguans, but were centering their antagonism against American and British residents. The insurgents, the company reports said, greatly outnumbered the Guardia Nacional. Names of those killed were not available today, the company said.

BLUEFIELDS, Nicaragua, April 14.—(AP)—Organized banditry received a severe blow in the eastern area of Nicaragua today in a long and severe combat with the American officered Guardia Nacional at Logtown, a Standard Fruit company settlement north of Puerto Cabezas. A large number of bandits were killed.

The disorders continue all along the railroad. The town, Puerto Cabezas is panic stricken. Upwards of four hundred American residents are there. About 300 people spent the night aboard the fruit steamer Cefalu.

Several Americans are missing. There was an unconfirmed report that a majority of those missing have been killed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 14.—Several Americans have been killed and three are reported missing as the result of a reopening of bandit activities against the Moncada government in Nicaragua, according to reports reaching the navy department today from the base at Asheville. These dispatches declare that Gen. Augusto Sandino and Blandon and Pedron, bandit chieftains associated with him, are rapidly transferring their field of operations from the northwestern provinces of Nicaragua to the east coast, with Puerto Cabezas as their objective. The names of two of the missing Americans were given as Hugo and Lehman.

The new outbreaks have precipitated another serious problem for President Moncada and American naval forces and marines now operating in Nicaragua. The state department, which at first refused to believe that the new rebel demonstrations on the east coast could gain serious proportions, today directed the commander of the Asheville to land forces to protect 300 American citizens at Puerto Cabezas.

American Forces Landed.

Tonight the navy announced that the Asheville landed forces immediately upon its arrival at Puerto Cabezas. The American troops, it was announced, will remain on the scene until Nicaraguan national guard forces have arrived in sufficient strength to meet the emergency. According to navy officials, the marines will be withdrawn when the guard arrives and Americans at the 300 in danger as desire will be moved out. At present, according to the reports, guards and marines are in contact with the bandits in the jungle on the Coco river. Lieut. Clyde Ultsch of Springfield, Ill., who was reported killed yesterday, is alive and in charge of a detachment actively in the current fighting.

Chicago firemen were praised as heroes yesterday afternoon when Coroner Bundesen opened the inquest into the deaths of 11 men trapped by fire and poisonous gases on Monday night in an intercepting sewer tunnel of the sanitary district under construction 35 feet below the surface at 22d and Laflin streets. Fifty-four men were injured in the disaster, believed to have resulted from the igniting of sawdust in the tunnel by a workman's candle.

The death toll included a fire captain, three firemen, and seven tunnel workmen. The body of the captain, James O'Neill of truck company 14, was not recovered until 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, several hours after 16 other men who had spent a night of horror in an air chamber in the tunnel had been brought safely to the surface by heroic rescue measures.

Crowd Waits at Tunnel.

Grief-stricken relatives crowded the inquest room at the county morgue, but around the tunnel entrance there were thousands who remained to witness the ending of the rescue work with the safe recovery of the 16 firemen and laborers and the finding of Capt. O'Neill's body. A smoke ejector, raced here from Kenosha, Wis., in 88 minutes, made possible the saving of the 16 men whose relatives had waited fearfully all night.

The men, led by Division Marshal Patrick Pierce, had spent the night face to face with death, and their deliverance brought mighty cheers from the watchers. But when all who could be found had been brought up and the roll was called, Capt. O'Neill was missing.

Rescuers Brave Death.

All day firemen braved death by going down into the smoking tunnel equipped with oxygen tanks and mine rescue apparatus, seeking Capt. O'Neill and some laborers believed to be there. Nearby groups of men dug feverishly beneath the pavement of 22d street to reach the concrete tunnel, the top of which is seventeen feet below the surface, and break holes in it, hoping to save O'Neill and the others.

Shortly before 2 o'clock rescuers entered the east end of the tunnel, and after a call for "stretchers" Capt. O'Neill's body was sent up. No others were found. The casualty list was complete: 11 dead, 54 injured. In addition a policeman lost his life as an indirect result of the fire.

Fails to Follow Comrades.

Capt. O'Neill had failed to follow his comrades to safety. Firemen said he probably went back for a last search to make sure no suffocated laborers were behind him. Too late he had started for safety.

There was only one outlet from the inferno of the tunnel until the diggers had enabled other openings to be made. That was the shaft in which there was an elevator. It was down this shaft that fireman after fireman was lowered during the morning hours yesterday, Fireman Irving Strom going down fifteen times, until Chief Michael Corrigan forbade him to go again. Others went down eight or ten times, and during the night they were bringing up bodies—bodies of men who might have lived had they heeded the words of caution of the veteran smoke eater, Marshal Pierce. But in their panic they failed to follow Pierce.

This shaft was forty feet south of the 22d street car tracks. It entered into what the engineers called the monkeydrift, a spur leading to the main tunnel, which is under 22d street and which, when completed, is to be a sewer emptying into a sewage treatment plant to be constructed at Stickney, Ill.

Where Men Sought Safety.

To the right and to the left of the junction were fireproof and airproof doors. Back of the one to the west Marshal Pierce and the fifteen saved with him had spent the night. Further east was another fireproof and airproof door, and it was back of this that the fire sent forth its smoke and heat.

Pierce and his companions were safe from suffocation because the smoke and gases did not penetrate into their chamber. The fire was outside the concrete wall that surrounded them. The wood forms, called cants, used to brace the earth after the digging was done, and against which the concrete tube was formed, were burning. The air pressure forced the flames and smoke toward the monkey drift which was between the trapped men and the shaft to the street level.

It was in this emergency that the

F. E. DAVIDSON, ARCHITECT, DIES ON LOOP STREET

Frank E. Davidson, an architect, former member of the board of local improvements and former president of the Illinois Society of Architects, fell dead of heart disease yesterday on the sidewalk in front of 335 South Dearborn street.

Becoming ill in his office in the Monadnock block, Mr. Davidson set out for the Great Northern hotel to take a nap, but en route was seized with an attack and tottered into a drug store. An attendant telephoned Dr. John G. Luttenberger, who had attended Mr. Davidson in former years. Together they started for the hotel, but Mr. Davidson had taken only a few steps when he fell and died.

Since the death of his wife, Emilie, in 1925, Mr. Davidson had lived at Holland, Mich. His body was sent to his home there last night.

2 LAW STUDENTS LOOT HOMES OF $250,000 IN GEMS

New York, April 14.—(AP)—Two youthful law students were arrested tonight for the theft of $250,000 in jewels from uptown apartments which, police said, they admitted having rifled while selling magazines.

The prisoners, who are charged with grand larceny, were booked as Morris Rozner, 24, and Leon Tiger, 23.

At first making their house to house calls with periodicals, to pay their way through law school, the youths, detectives said, had confessed robbing between 200 and 250 homes. They did not reveal what had become of the loot.

Threat to Bomb City Hall in New York Stirs Police

New York, April 14.—[Special.]—New York's historical city hall was under a special police guard tonight because of an anonymous threat received by telephone that the building was going to be bombed "as a protest against official inactivity in behalf of the unemployed." Additional patrolmen were assigned to search and later to guard the building and members of the bomb squad were hurried to the scene, but without result. No evidence of any planted explosive was found, nor of any unauthorized person in or about the structure.

Cermak Opens Campaign for a Polite City

Mayor Cermak, in a telephone conversation yesterday with his secretary, Henry Sonnenschein, instructed the latter to take immediate steps to inaugurate a courtesy campaign among city employés, policemen in particular, with a view to making Chicago more attractive to visitors.

At the mayor's suggestion Sonnenschein prepared a letter to Acting Police Commissioner Alcock directing that hereafter sightseers and tourists must be treated as guests and shown every possible consideration.

"During my trip I have been impressed by the fact that Chicago can do a great deal more to accommodate its visitors," the mayor told his secretary. "I want you to inform the heads of all departments that under my administration 'rough stuff' by policemen and every kind of discourtesy to the public by city employés will bring reprimands and punishment. Special attention should be shown to out of town visitors. We're going to get into the courtesy habit before the World's Fair."

Mayor Cermak's message brought a quick response from Acting Police Commissioner Alcock, Commissioner of Public Works Sprague, and Corporation Counsel Busch. Alcock said that he probably would issue a general order on the subject and that he would discipline any member of the force who disregards it.

Commissioner Sprague declared that to win back the confidence of outsiders in Chicago as a place to trade and visit was a matter of "good business." He said he expected to do his own part by making courtesy and service the rule at Navy pier and at municipal parks, playgrounds, and bathing beaches.

Gets Complaint from Visitor.

Commissioner Sprague said that he had referred to Acting Commissioner Alcock a complaint made to him by a visitor who was insulted and knocked down by a policeman because the visitor had parked his car in the wrong place near the Board of Trade building yesterday. Alcock ordered an investigation.

Commissioner Sprague declared that to win back the confidence of outsiders in Chicago as a place to trade and visit was a matter of "good business." He said he expected to do his own part by making courtesy and service the rule at Navy pier and at

How You Can Help Yourself By Buying a New Automobile

America's giant industry is making and selling automobiles. A half a million people are employed manufacturing cars in normal times. Another half million are kept busy selling cars and accessories for them. Workers in other industries prosper when the auto industry thrives. Auto makers consume one-sixth of the steel, one-fourth the lead and nickel, three-fifths of the leather upholstery, three-fourths of the plate glass and seven-eighths of the rubber consumed in this country.

The longer you continue to ride around in your old car the longer you keep these various industries from getting back to their normal pace. Your own income, directly or indirectly, is influenced by the state of affairs in the automobile industry.

Think of the fun you could get out of a brand-new automobile. Remember, moreover, that never did your dollar buy so much motor car as it does today. This week Cook County auto dealers are making special showings. Step in at the salesrooms most convenient for you and see how the new cars have it all over your old one!

NOBLES RUSH TO FRANCE; CARRY JEWEL HOARDS

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HENDAYE, France, April 14.—The frontier between France and Spain was temporarily abolished tonight while triumph and tragedy went their respective ways without benefit of passport.

Even before the news of the flight of King Alfonso arrived in this little border town the red, yellow, and purple flag of the new Spanish republic was hoisted for the first time in France over a café across from the railway station, and a mob of several thousand French Basques gathered to cheer the discarding of the hated Castilian yoke. At six o'clock tonight the Bordeaux train arrived carrying Spanish exiles from all points north. It was received with a delirious welcome. At seven o'clock there was a parade.

Headed by 50 Basque exiles, the monster procession started toward the border of France and Spain, carrying French and Spanish flags, roaring weird Basque national hymns and the "Marseillaise."

Border Guards Step Aside.

At the international bridge they were met by a mob of 5,000 from Irun, on the Spanish side, headed by a band. Border guards on both sides stepped aside, asking no questions. In the middle of the bridge Spanish political prisoners released from the San Sebastian prison and other jails embraced their exiled compatriots while the crowds cheered.

Before the bridge was cleared a different sort of procession started from the Spanish side. Spanish aristocrats, with their worried families and other fleeing monarchists, were crowding the roads. The republicans paid no attention to them, even when they plowed through the mobs with their automobiles.

Even the French customs guard waived visa formalities and customs inspection, although some of the fleeing monarchist women were loaded with jewels and their automobiles were packed with valuables.

Queen's Brother Arrives.

The night train from Spain was crowded. Among the passengers was the marquis of Carisbooke, brother of the queen of Spain.

"It is all over with them," he said, shrugging his shoulders.

He declared that he was not worried, except for his wife, who is ill at Madrid. The young prince of Orleans, Alfonso's nephew, was stopped by Spanish agents who paced the platform. The prince spent the night at Hendaye.

Many fugitives of a new order are also arriving from Spain. They are those who are in financial difficulties due to the fall of the peseta. One monarchist refugee with a pocketful of Spanish money in small denominations was unable to cash it because of a sudden wariness by the money changers regarding small bills. He ran around in circles until he found some one who lent him the fare for a third class passage to Paris. The monarchist did not have enough French centimes to buy a cup of coffee, let alone a meal in the dining car during the long journey to Paris.

PROF. MICHELSON STILL HELPLESS, BUT IMPROVING

Pasadena, Cal., April 14.—[Special.]—Dr. A. A. Michelson, famous Chicago scientist, now bedridden here, is taking treatment to restore use of his arms and legs. This was learned today. Dr. Michelson lost ability to step or move about five weeks ago.

His has obtained considerable relief from massage treatments. Dr. Michelson's wife is his constant attendant and chief nurse. The scientist's condition, announced as "neither critical nor alarming," is attributed to a nervous collapse and general debility. He is 79 years old.

It was also reported that five schools in Kenosha county, Wisconsin, were robbed by the book bandits.

ALFONSO SAILS, YIELDING CROWN WITHOUT FIGHT

BULLETIN.

CARTAGENA, Spain, April 15 (Wednesday).—(AP)—King Alfonso XIII., and the Infante Alfonso, Spanish crown prince, left Spain before dawn today aboard the cruiser Principe Alfonso, bound presumably for exile in England. They came by auto from Madrid in seven hours. The cruiser was waiting with steam up and five days' provisions aboard. Alfonso and those with him went aboard without ceremony. Nobody was there to see them except a few newspaper men.

BULLETIN.

Washington, D. C., April 14.—(AP)—The Spanish embassy's first word from Spain said late tonight terms of King Alfonso's abdication had specified he remain titular ruler until the new republican government officially was ready to take control. The message was received from Count Romanones, former minister of state.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Copyright: 1931: By The Chicago Tribune.]

MADRID, April 14.—Alfonso XIII. of that ancient Bourbon line is tonight well on the road to exile, and the second Spanish republic, born without bloodshed, stands in the first few hours of its existence, a lusty creature.

Alfonso left with his major domo, the duke of Miranda, and his son, the crown prince, in a royal limousine for Cartagena, intending to board a Spanish warship, with England as his destination. He crept out quietly, accompanied only by two automobiles filled with civil guards armed with rifles. His destination was not announced.

Tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock Queen Victoria Eugenie and four of her six children will board the train for Paris, their safety assured by the provisional government that took power this evening at 8 o'clock. Tonight the royal family is scattered. The king, with his oldest son, the prince of Asturias, is bound for English soil. Prince Juan, another son, sailed from Cadiz tonight for Gibraltar, where a British cruiser will take him to England.

Not One Shot Fired.

The Republicans today simply walked in and put an end to the hesitation of the old régime by taking possession. They did this at the close of probably the most astonishing day in the history of Spain or any other country in which the people simply rose up and threw off their masters, and then shoved their chosen leaders into office. Not a shot was fired for them or against them.

Finding that the king still hesitated, preferring to keep the Amur government in power until tomorrow morning when he would "make a decision," the provisional government drove to the ministry of the interior, fought its way on foot through a delirious mob of sympathizers, and took over the ruins.

"It is scandalous to think that this entire nation is in the streets without a government with authority to direct it," said Miguel Maura, an old conservative minister and himself now minister of the interior for the new republic. "It is a peril and a provocation. We will take the government and avoid bloodshed."

Unfurl Flags of Republic.

They did—after the mob had surged through the streets of Madrid for hours and had already fixed the yellow, red and purple banner of the republic over the public ministry of interior and was clamoring for some one to occupy it.

At 9:15 o'clock tonight Alcala Zamora, a small, spectacled man, stepped onto the balcony as provisional president, and proclaimed a republic for all Spain to the wildly enthusiastic throngs below.

"We do not promise happiness to you all, but we will give you liberty and justice," he said, and roars from the giant square must have reached the shadowy gate at the far end of the palace park from which Alfonso was setting forth in the darkness to his exile. Zamora announced political amnesty immediately and thousands of political prisoners went free. Martial law was proclaimed as a precautionary measure.

Thousands at Palace Gates.

There were roars around the palace, too. Thousands stood below the gleaming 18th century monument to the Bourbon rule in Spain. The dressy uniformed guard of hussars, the regular cavalry and mounted civil guards struggled to hold them back. Few raised the old cry of "Death to the king!" They merely cried for him to go, and raised the banner of the republic exultantly. In fact, they thought he had gone long before he did.

He went, so far as can be determined tonight, without signing a formal abdication for himself, the crown prince and all his family. He left, that is all, and in the morning, it is understood, a statement will be given in his behalf explaining that he has left the country to avoid bloodshed pending future events. But it was not abdication, and although the republic is "feeling its oats" tonight, the victory is not yet assured.

Though the rising of old Spain was bloodless, some blood was shed in Barcelona when the republic was proclaimed. In the confusion some one intending to order the release of only political prisoners, accomplished the release of them all—anarchists, pickpockets and murderers.

Three Felons Shot; Eight Wounded.

A band of these took advantage of the excitement, according to the police, to raid the police headquarters with the intention of burning the records. The guards fired and three fell dead and eight were wounded. Immediately after this Gen. Lopez Ochoa, in the name of the republic, assumed military command at Barcelona, and with a strong hand aims to calm the extreme apprehension that prevails.

In this rising of the people of Spain the army, that great overgrown Pretorian guard that has held the destinies of Spain in its hands for so long, never had a look at it.

Officers of the royal crown did not dare to rise against the people in the mood they were in. Nor were the republicans forced to call upon the garrisons' faithfulness, thus putting themselves under obligations to the soldiery and laying the foundation for possible trouble later on.

A Drive Against Bourbons.

The Spain that has never been heard from, that wears no uniforms, boasts no titles, which has worked the soil for centuries, and has been presumed to have no opinions, did it. Only once before was there an uprising comparable to this one, and that was against Napoleon to protect this Alfonso's ancestors.

Today it was to drive out the last of the Bourbons and release passion stored for years and brought to a head in the December revolution. The revolutionary government ordered its cohorts to stand by their guns and guard against any attempt of the king's friends to implant a dictatorship, pending what they thought would be certain abdication tonight.

But the revolution was overripe. It began this morning in Ibar in the north. Barcelona was next. The republican flag only appeared in Madrid over the postoffice when telegraphic operators, hearing news from elsewhere, decided to keep abreast of the times.

Frantic messengers carried the news to the republican headquarters, which had been in continuous session. From then on it was all it could do to keep pace with the masses. At 3:30 o'clock the new tricolored flag rose over the city hall.

Mob Takes Over Madrid.

From then on Madrid was in the hands of a victorious and a good natured mob.

Whatever hopes the king had of saving the situation by clamping down an iron fisted conservative government, were dissipated early today when Gen. San Juro of Moroccan fame, lately named commander of the civil guards, warned him that he would only bring disaster to himself and his family and nation. He said he could not continue in command of the guards if this were done.

From that moment the Bourbon king knew that the doom he had been facing ever since 1917 when his regime began to crack, was at hand.

At 5 o'clock Gen. San Jurjo went to the provisional Republican government and offered the services of his magnificant constabulary that, if it could not lick the country, could lick the army.

Another determined man, Count Romanones, played his rôle, carefully adjusting the skids under his monarch. Some say he did it to save his king from possible death; other that he thus carried through a secret grudge. If so he bit his own tail because his system crumbled, and he knew it.

Thus two pillars of the monarchy made the transition easy.

For the first time in history, the civil guards, rechristened Republican guards by people, are wearing smiles. There were being carried on the shoulders of admiring mobs through the streets at a dizzy pace, with their black patent leather "bonnets" decked with carnations. Flowers are thrust at them by senoritas wearing red handkerchiefs over their black hair. The civil guards for once are "à la mode."

Madrid and all Spain is out of its senses tonight. It is like the original Armistice day, but more so. Every street car, getting nowhere, carries a mob on its roof. They sing, twang guitars and wave improvised Republican banners. No taxi carries less than 12 persons, and as many yards of yellow, red and purple bunting as possible.

Flowers in Sword Hilts.

Barefooted urchins, decked in red tissue paper, beg for coppers. Dark eyed girls in rags are wearing bright ribbons in their hair. Eight babies in a row are sitting in a gutter, dressed in red drawers, and their mothers, wreathed in smiles, cry out as foreigners pass, "We, too, have a republic!"

Limousines thread slowly through the mobs and blue bloused laborers climb aboard. For one night at least there is liberty, equality, and fraternity. Later the Conservative and Socialist elements in the provisional government will talk business.

Tear Off Undergarments.

"See the queen's chemise," cry the hags from the produce market, tearing off an undergarment under the eyes of the nobles of Nueva. Good nature is supreme. Only one contrary incident occurred and that was when a uniformed palace flunkey in a small car tried to drive through a procession of young workers carrying pictures of the captains shot after the Jaca revolt. He used his sword to save himself. And as he beat his retreat blood curdling menaces were heard that revealed the underlying savagery of the mob.

In Puerta del Sol, in front of the ministry of the interior, for centuries the symbol of oppression and corruption to the enemies of the Bourbons, strange scenes occur. A magnificent car with a chauffeur and footman wearing the yelow and red of the monarchy was halted by the angry cries of a mob. The footman climbed to the roof of the car and cried:

The occupant of the car was Trifan Gomez, the Socialist leader.

To Separate Church and State.

The republic's program calls for breaking up the rigid centralization that the Hapsburgs and Bourbons imposed and a return to the old federal Spain. With Col. Francisco Macia in power in Barcelona, they must keep his pledge with the Catalonians. Great relief was expressed when it was learned that Col. Macia had declared not a Catalan but a Spanish republic in Barcelona.

Then they are out to tackle the church, separating it from the state, which it clutches so tightly.

They intend to attack the agrarian problem, which is considered the source of most of the evils of Spain, and break up the great estates of the aristocracy. The army they hope to reduce to a minimum by retiring officers on full pay in order to discourage revolt. The influence of foreign capital they intend to curb.

In a 70 page proclamation President Zamora tonight announced his intention of calling a constitutional election as soon as possible. Meanwhile the new government will proceed at reorganization by decree, and it is understood that the cardinal parts of the program will be carried out this way in a dictatorial manner and be handed to the constituent assembly for approval.

May Buy English Home.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 14.—The news of King Alfonso's abdication came as a bombshell to the Spanish colony in London. It was received calmly, although up to midnight the Spanish Ambassador Marquis Merry del Val had not received any official announcement. Embassy circles believe that Alfonso will make his home in England.

It is well known that for some time past Alfonso has been preparing for the necessity of leaving the country. More than a year ago, it is reported, inquiries were made on the Isle of Wight regarding suitable properties, which might be purchased as an English home.

RUSSIA: Czar Nicholas II. abdicated following the revolution of March 12, 1917. The royal family was assassinated.

SPAIN: Alfonso XIII. abdicated on April 14, 1931, following an overwhelming demonstration of republican sentiment in municipal elections.

The world today has but twelve kings of the major class. They are:

CHIEF OF SPAIN'S REPUBLIC SPENDS FORTUNE TO WIN

Jailed by Alfonso as Revolt Leader.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Don Niceto Alcala Zamora, provisional president of the new republic, once was a stanch monarchist and a firm supporter of King Alfonso. He turned against the king near the beginning of the dictatorship of Gen. Primo de Rivera in 1923 to avenge what he deemed a personal political insult by Gen. Rivera.

In his quest for satisfaction he spent most of his personal fortune and became the most defiant of the republican leaders. After he was arrested for his part in the December revolution he continued to conduct his campaign for a Spanish republic from his cell.

Sentenced by a court martial to six months' imprisonment on March 23, he was given his freedom two days later on the condition that he refrain from anti-government politics. On April 5 he predicted the establishment of a republic if the monarchists were defeated in Sunday's elections.

Served in Three Cabinets.

Before Gen. de Rivera became dictator in 1923 Zamora had been a deputy in parliament, secretary of the civil government in Madrid, undersecretary of finance, and postmaster general. He had served in three cabinets. When Gen. de Rivera charged that the old line politicians of Spain were factors in political corruption and useless appendages to public life Zamora demanded satisfaction from King Alfonso, and when the king failed to give it he declared himself a republican.

He is a brilliant orator and his powers were immediately used with effect by the anti-monarchists as soon as Primo de Rivera fell from power and free speech and assembly rights were restored. When he was arrested for participation in the revolt he defiantly told his captors:

"Yes, I am one of the leaders of the revolt. I was to have been the first president of the Spanish republic."

He will be 54 years old on July 6. He was born in the village of Priego, province of Cordova, and gained his prestige in the legal profession.

Francisco Macia, a former deputy, the new president of the republic of Catalonia, has long been the leader of the Separatist movement, which sought proclaim the province a republic and divide it from Spain for years. He was arrested by French police in 1926 as the leader of a plot to overthrow the dictatorship of Gen. Rivera and end the monarchy.

Spanish Peseta Tumbles as King Alfonso Abdicates

New York, April 14.—(AP)—The decline in the Spanish peseta, following the abdication of King Alfonso, was regarded in banking circles today as evidence that the recently negotiated international banking credit of $60,000,000 for the stabilization of Spanish exchange had not yet been used for that purpose. Pesetas reflected the abdication promptly and the demand rate dropped to 9.94 cents at the close of the day, a net loss of approximately ½ cent. The abdication was expected in some quarters to act as a deterrent on further foreign financing in the immediate future.

Judge Delays Decision on Canal Graft Case

Judge Joseph B. David of the Criminal court said yesterday that he would not give his decision on the motion to quash the pending graft conspiracy indictments against Timothy J. Crowe and other former sanitary district officials until next week. The judge heard legal arguments on the motion some months ago and was to have given his decision last week.

Berlin Fears New Spanish Rule Linked to France

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 14.—Political circles here view the developments in Spain with certain misgivings. It is feared the new Spanish leaders stand in close connection with France. The German monarchists are mourning over the "failure of the king to remain in his post for the sake of the royal traditions of the world."

ABDICATION OF SPAIN'S KING STUNS EMBASSY; ENVOY WILL RESIGN

Washington, D. C., April 14.—[Special.]—The Spanish embassy was stunned by the abdication of King Alfonso today. Although, in the absence of any official information from Madrid, it declined to make any statement, there appeared to be no doubt that Alejandro Padilla y Bell, ambassador since Oct. 11, 1926, will resign when he is officially notified.

The ambassador not only is the personal appointee of Alfonso, but he is personally a monarchist. In this respect he differs from other officials of the embassy appointed by the foreign office. Some of them may also tender their resignations, but if they do so, it will be because of personal political views and not for official causes.

The state department declined to comment upon the abdication of the king. There is considerable concern, however, for the immediate future. In diplomatic circles the view was expressed that a period of disorder and even of chaos might result, should the authority of the army and the church break down. Spaniards, it was pointed out, are individualists, but a stable order has been maintained through the centrifugal force of the monarchy with the army and the church assisting.

Montagu Norman, British Bank Head, Sails for Home

New York, April 14.—[Special.]—Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, today concluded his conferences with officials of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and sailed tonight for England on the Aquitania. He has been in this country for the last two weeks, during which time he has discussed world financial affairs with bankers in New York and with officials of the federal reserve board and the government in Washington. Mr. Norman refused to discuss reports that he is sponsoring an international banking organization to extend long term credits in Europe.

PARLIAMENT OF ICELAND PUT OUT; KING DENOUNCED

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, April 14.—Dissolution of the althing, Iceland's parliament, was announced today by Prime Minister Thorhallason. New elections will be held on June 12. The dissolution follows the recent action of the Socialist and Independent parties in declaring a combined opposition against the government.

Announcement of the dissolution created considerable excitement in the capital. The opposition charges that the government's action is unconstitutional. When the premier read the decree of dissolution, the Socialists shouted:

"Down with the government! Down with the king!"

SPANISH COLONY IN MEXICO WILD OVER ABDICATION

MEXICO CITY, April 14.—The proclamation of a republic in Spain today caused the greatest excitement in years in the Spanish colony here, 75 per cent of the members of which knocked off work for the day. They besieged the Spanish club and other Spanish centers and newspaper offices, in search of news from the mother country. The Spanish diplomatic representatives here are demoralized. They have received no official communication of the abdication of King Alfonso.

Augusta, Ga., April 14.—(AP)—An increase of 61 per cent in bank holdups and robberies in the six months ending Feb. 28, 1931, as compared to last year, was reported to the executive council of the American Bankers' association tonight by James E. Baum of the A. B. A. crime investigation service. He said the nation's banks were held up and robbed 310 times in the period ending Feb. 28.

ALFONSO'S IRON RULE A STORY OF STORM, STRIFE

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Born a monarch, King Alfonso, who abdicated yesterday, has escaped numerous attempts against his life, weathered wide-spread strikes and put down insurrections of increasing vigor against the government since he ascended the throne in 1902.

Because of the death of his father, he became king at his birth in 1887 but did not begin his rule until he was 16 years of age, Queen Maria Cristina acting for him as regent in the meantime.

The establishment of a dictatorship in 1923 under Gen. Primo de Rivera ushered in a period of growing unrest against the monarchy, expressing itself in the rising tide of republicanism and culminating in demands from republican circles that the king should abdicate. Gen. de Rivera resigned in January, 1930, because of ill health and lack of confidence on the part of the king, and died later in Paris.

Many Slain in Madrid.

The appointment of Gen. Damaso Berenguer as premier failed to allay the dissension. A general strike was declared throughout the nation. Civilians and police clashed in Madrid over a period of three weeks and many were killed and wounded. This was climaxed by the revolt of the garrison at Jaca in December.

Alcala Zamora, now president of the new republic, and other leaders were court martialed and sentenced to prison terms, but were pardoned.

Premier Berenguer had resigned and Admiral Juan Bautista Aznar selected to succeed him. The government announced that the municipal elections would be held at scheduled—the first in eight years—and that its program aiming at a parliamentary election in June would proceed.

Dynasty 231 Years Old.

The Bourbon dynasty, dating from the reign of Philip V, in 1700, was restored to the Spanish throne in 1875 with the ascension of Alfonso XII.

...s first act was a royal decree proclaiming Canovas del Castillo prime minister and setting up a strong administration which adopted a Catholic and conservative policy. After 11 months of warfare against the Carlist forces, supporters of the former regime, opposition to the government was quelled.

The Cuban insurrection and internal troubles meanwhile beset the ruler and resulted in the constitution of 1876, a compromise between the constitution of 1845 and that of the revolution in 1869.

Married in 1906.

Alfonso XII. died in 1885, apparently having no male issue, and Queen Cristina became the acting monarch. Six months later, his posthumous son, Alfonso XIII., was born and a regency was established. Señor Sagasta became premier.

King Alfonso XIII. married Princess Victoria Eugenie in 1906, a year after he had assumed the throne, and his wedding date was marred by an attempt on his life.

Besides ruling with a mailed fist, Alfonso strove to develop Spain industrially, but found time to enjoy sports, particularly automobiling, yachting and tennis. He is a man of boundless personal charm.

A large personal fortune will enable the king, even in exile, to live on a grand scale. He is one of the world's multimillionaires. He has never been a great spender and his most expensive habit was the smoking of fancy cigarets. He invested heavily in American securities two or three years ago and his fortune today is estimated at about $15,000,000.

There are six children—prince of the Asturias and heir-apparent, born in 1907; Prince Jaime, born in 1908; Princess Beatrice, born in 1909; Princess Maria Cristina, born in 1911; Prince Juan, born in 1913, and Prince Gonalo, born in 1914.

MARK M'NAMARA IS APPOINTED AS CITY PROSECUTOR

War on Smoke Will Be His First Job.

Mark J. McNamara, who served as first assistant prosecuting attorney during the Dever administration, was appointed as city prosecutor yesterday by Corporation Counsel Busch. He took office immediately, replacing Frank A. Peska, who was appointed four years ago.

McNamara for years has been secretary of the 39th ward Democratic organization. He is 53 years old and was graduated at the Chicago College of Law in 1894. He is married and lives at 3132 North Harding avenue. He has been engaged in private law practice, with offices at 105 North Clark street.

Vigorous prosecution of smoke ordinance violations will be the first job tackled by his office, the new prosecutor announced. He conferred during the day with Frank A. Chambers, head of the smoke abatement department, and promised him the fullest cooperation.

Demands Cleanup for Fair.

"With the World's Fair coming on," Mr. McNamara declared, "abatement of the smoke nuisance to make the city sightly for our visitors, I believe, is of the utmost importance. We are going to use a big stick on all the old offenders. It may be necessary to revive the old smoke control board which functioned under former Health Commissioner Bundesen. I will take this up with Mr. Chambers and the new health commissioner."

Appointment of Mr. McNamara virtually completed the reorganization of the law department under Corporation Counsel Busch. A. J. Smietanka was named city attorney a few days ago. The only remaining appointee of the former administration in a post of importance is Gotthard Dahlberg, attorney for the board of local improvements. If he is replaced it probably will not be until a new head of the board is selected.

Mayor Cermak's other new cabinet officials proceeded yesterday with their work of trimming pay rolls and interviewing applicants for positions.

Sprague Orders Pay Roll Cuts.

Commissioner of Public Works Sprague sent to all of his subordinates the following message: "Considering the necessity for retrenchment in expenditures due to the condition of city funds, it is incumbent upon you to cooperate fully by reducing all forces to an efficiency basis immediately." He explained that this would mean that all probationary civil service employes would be dropped at once if it was found that their duties were nonessential.

City Sealer Joe Grein's reform program went on apace, with his deputies starting a campaign against short weights and measures. Mr. Grein announced that he would start suits immediately against the owners of four markets charged by his investigators with short weighting customers. The stores affected are: General Market company, 217 East 55th street; Leo C. Dorias, meat market, 501 East 47th street; E. J. Goodman, fish market, 1960½ Lawrence avenue, and Bartalo Cannitzo, meat market, 425 West Oak street.

"I am going to send some of these cheaters to jail," Mr. Grein said.

Sees Business Safeguard.

Flint Grinnell, manager of the Chicago Better Business bureau, conferred with the new city sealer and afterward issued a statement declaring that "a new day apparently is in prospect for reputable business men and for the housewife who guards the family budget."

A meeting of the zoning board of appeals, of which Mrs. Eva Holland Hamilton, who last week defied Mayor Cermak to oust her, is chairman, was held. All five members attended. The board granted petitions for two minor zoning variations, dismissed one, and denied another.

"Let them meet," was the comment of Corporation Counsel Busch, who was delegated by the mayor to study the status of the board. "It is only a gesture."

FLOGGINGS FOR FELLONS VOTED IN MICHIGAN HOUSE

Lansing, Mich., April 14.—[Special.]—Strong sentiment for introduction of the whipping post in Michigan prisons as a deterrent to crime was indicated today when the house passed, 73 to 9, the Culver bill providing for lashing of felons.

No debate accompanied the house action today, but the bill has been the subject of much informal discussion since defeat of the Foster electric chair bill by referendum.

The senate is expected to follow the house in approving the measure. Gov. Brucker, in an official statement recently, hinted his approval by emphasizing the need for drastic measures in dealing with criminals.

The bill was introduced by Representative Charles Culver, Detroit. It provides that lashings may be imposed along with the regular prison sentence for crimes of violence and those indicative of degeneracy. Not more than six lashes could be given at a time with a leather strap "well laid on." The punishment would be repeated at specified intervals.

YOUTH INJURED WHEN HIS AUTO UPSET IS DEAD

Hyman Melnick, 13 years old, 1229 South Central Park avenue, died yesterday in the county hospital of injuries received on March 3 when the automobile in which he was riding overturned and caught fire near Addison, Ill. Three other youths were seriously hurt.

No deaths as the result of auto accidents in Cook county were reported yesterday, and the motor toll since Jan. 1 remained at 359.

Overton Leads in Louisiana Democratic Congress Race

Alexandria, La., April 14.—(AP)—John H. Overton, Alexandria attorney, appeared tonight to have defeated Dr. Claybrook Cottingham in the Eighth district Democratic primary election for a successor to the late Representative James B. Aswell. Returns from 143 out of 231 precincts gave Overton a lead of 4,333. The figures were Overton, 10,711; Cottingham, 6,378. Gov. Huey P. Long, who campaigned for Overton, predicted the majority would reach 8,000.

SIX HOUR DAY OF KELLOGG CO. SHOWS A PROFIT

Production, Earnings Rise —Workers Benefit.

New York, April 14.—(AP)—The six hour working day will be adopted as a permanent operating policy by the Kellogg company, cereal manufacturers, Battle Creek, Mich.

Lewis J. Brown, president of the company, announced today the company's experiment with the plan since Dec. 1 had proven profitable for both stockholders and employes.

Production was increased, he said, consumption was stimulated, overhead was decreased.

Since inauguration of the plan the company has worked four shifts in its plants, six hours each, to replace the former three shifts of eight hours each. At the same time it increased the base wage 12½ per cent.

The plan was originally put into force as an emergency measure to relieve unemployment in Battle Creek and 20 per cent more workers were added. President Brown said the company discovered many unexpected advantages.

How Shifts Are Arranged.

The four shifts are 6 a. m. to 12 noon; 12 noon to 6 p. m.; 6 p. m. to 12 midnight; 12 midnight to 6 a. m.

"Each shift has equal advantages," he said. "This eliminated the need for extra allowances for any shift and also eliminated the stop for meals. The efficiency is greater than when working on an 8 hour basis."

He said that under the 8 hour system production slowed before meals and was slow to pick up after meals; also the monotony of repetitious work caused carelessness and waste toward the end of the 8 hour day.

"In a shorter working day the workers are much more alert and efficient, knowing that the working time is short and that 'it won't be long now' until the whistle will blow," he said.

What Workers Gain.

As definite advantages to the employes he listed more leisure time for recreation; opportunity to cultivate farms or gardens; time to pursue educational courses, cultural studies; increased incentive to prepare for managerial jobs; less fatigue; decreased cost of living with all meals at home; less waste time; opportunity for mothers who must support children to earn a living and yet care for their families; greater assurance of a steady job.

For the stockholders, he said, there was increased daily production from the plant as an operating unit; elimination of meal periods, with their waste and expense of maintaining a large cafeteria; increased return from the capital invested in plant and machinery; opportunity for reorganizing the working force to rectify inequalities and fit all "pegs" in appropriate "holes"; and decreased overhead.

The minimum of $4 a day was carried over from the eight hour system to the new, he said.

He concluded: "I am aware that this plan would not fit all businesses. Perhaps it could not be adopted very generally, but might it not be adapted—adjusted as to some of its features—by many industries? It seems probable that American business will shortly face the need of providing for a shorter working day, and at a wage providing for a decent American standard of living, if we are to keep our people busy and stabilize our prosperity."

MANY ILLINOIS HARD ROAD PROJECTS GO ON SHELF FOR THIS YEAR

Springfield, Ill., April 14.—(AP)—Hopes of legislators for appropriations for hard roads in their various districts from the 57th general assembly were given a setback this afternoon by the house committee on roads and bridges.

Bills now before the assembly would appropriate more than $20,000,000 for hard roads in practically every part of Illinois.

Under a plan adopted by the roads and bridges committee this afternoon all of these bills would be referred to a commission of thirteen members which would report back at the next session, thus precluding any action on the road bills at this session.

The plan was embodied in a bill which will be presented to the house tomorrow.

ADOPT PLAN FOR REORGANIZING OF COUNTY HOSPITAL

A plan for reorganization of the Cook county hospital prepared by the Chicago Medical society and representatives of the four largest medical schools in Chicago was adopted by the council of the society last night and is to be referred to the county board. That group has indicated that it is favorable to the plan.

The reorganization of the hospital involves 14 points. The most important of these are: That four universities, Illinois, Chicago, Northwestern, and Loyola, shall pay the extra expense involved under the new plan; that the county board shall guarantee 250 beds to each of the schools, and that the hospital shall be directed by an executive committee representing the county board, the hospital's physicians and surgeons, the universities desiring to participate, and the Chicago Medical society.

It is further provided that the present pathological department of the hospital be augmented at the expense of the universities with the idea of eventually establishing post-graduate teaching.

Diesel Plane Up 61 Hours in Nonfueling Flight

Jacksonville Beach, Fla., April 14.—(AP)—Walter Lees and Frederic Brosy, Detroit fliers, seeking a nonrefueling endurance record, in a Diesel engined plane, tonight had passed the two-thirds mark on the way to their goal. At 11:52 p. m. [E. S. T.] the aviators had been in the air 61 hours. The present world's nonrefueling flight record is 75 hours 23 minutes, set by Frenchmen in Northern Africa.

smoke ejector came into play. Chief Charles W. Ringer of the Minneapolis, Minn., fire department, is credited with being its inventor. The Peter Pirsch company of Kenosha has the manufacturing rights and had one sample machine on hand Monday night. It is a huge fan mounted on a truck, with a long tube attached.

Chief Corrigan knew of the machine. Chicago had been contemplating the purchase of one if it proved useful. He telephoned to the Pirsch company and was told that the truck was without tires and was not altogether assembled. He requested its speedy delivery in Chicago and his request was granted. A detail of state police accompanied it, leading the way until they were near Chicago, when the truck outsped the police on motorcycles and reached the scene of the disaster in the early morning hours.

Trapped Men Make Escape.

By daylight it was put into operation. Out came the smoke from the monkeydrift—and out came Pierce and his 15 companions. Pierce, the last to emerge, said he had given the word that it was now safe to make the trip to the elevator shaft. The men were weak and hardly able to help themselves.

A tug on the bell rope from the bottom, the signal to shift the lever so that the lift would come up, was a welcome notice that men had survived below. Up came a few men and down went three firemen wearing the heavy metal mine rescue oxygen tanks on their backs.

The men who had almost been given up for dead reached the top and willing hands bore them to a nearby emergency hospital, where several more lives were saved by the use of inhalators and artificial respiration. Dr. Harold P. Sullivan, chief surgeon of the fire department, told of that later in the day at the inquest.

Try to Rescue Captain.

New hope for the safety of O'Neill spurred the workers. But the tremendous heat of the tunnel prevented the rescuers from going very far under 23d street. The rubber suiting of a sea diver who had ventured down there had burned and melted and he was hoisted up just in time. Firemen came up and when they were able to talk they said it seemed like boiling hot water had been poured on their heads.

Pete Fosco, president and business agent of the Sewer and Tunnel Miners union, down in one of the holes, was urging his union comrades to greater efforts, but was ready to replace any of them at the slightest sign of fatigue. But like the fearless firemen, the diggers refused to be relieved until they were nearly exhausted.

The deeper the diggers went the more dangerous it became. They were warned of the danger of carbon monoxide gas overcoming them when they pierced the concrete. It became necessary to attach belts and ropes to them so that they could be pulled out of danger quickly. On they dug—two holes half a block apart. It was from the hole farther east that O'Neill's body was taken by his comrades. Dr. Sullivan pronounced him dead.

Officials Go to Inquest.

A careful search revealed no more bodies. The two openings had eased the heat of the fire. Some of the officials, police, firemen, and others then went to the county morgue, where the official inquiry into the reason for the fire was to take place.

Coroner Bundesen had impaneled a jury of men prominent in their fields. They were Elmer T. Stevens, merchant, 25 North State street; John T. Pirie, merchant, 866 West Adams street; J. A. Garcia, 332 South Michigan avenue, mining engineer; James Versulis, 1831 West 105th street, engineer of waterworks construction; John S. Dean, assistant engineer of waterworks construction, and Dr. Fred O. Tonney, city chemist.

"Seldom has a body of men exhibited the heroism of the Chicago fire department in the performance of duty and the sacrificing of life as was witnessed last night and this morning," Dr. Bundesen said.

Message from Cermak Read.

A message from Mayor Cermak at Miami Beach was read. The mayor sent a telegram to Henry Sonnenschein, his secretary, who is in charge of the mayor's office. The message said:

"The news of the dreadful disaster and loss of life reached me. I want you to look into the situation

Brave Death in Tunnel Rescues

The first fireman to enter the fatal tunnel at 22d and Laflin streets, Capt. James O'Neill of truck company 14, was the last to leave. He went down the air shaft at 6:40 o'clock Monday night with his men. His body was the last to be found. Capt. O'Neill resided at 1019 West Garfield boulevard.

Division Fire Marshal Nat Egan of the stockyards district, who was lining up firemen in gas masks to send down the elevator yesterday after working throughout the night, was asked to name some heroes. "Four hundred firemen have been down," he replied. "None is more of a hero than another."

A strapping, tall fireman was pointed out by a fellow worker as the former stepped on the elevator, ready to descend. "He's been down ten times already," his fellow fireman said. The tall fellow was asked his name. He removed the mouthpiece of his mask and said, "Julius Rosenwald." After he'd gone down his lieutenant explained, "He's shy. Doesn't want publicity. His name's Jimmy Newman and he's with squad 7."

As the elevator in the main air shaft ascended one time all four men in gas masks were arguing with their hands and making inarticulate sounds. Lieut. Clarence Olson of truck 7 showed a few bloody scratches on his face and was, on the whole, the angriest. He had stumbled through an open door and into an outer chamber leading to the westernmost air lock. His fellows pulled him back, thinking he was unconscious. He fought them, but they thought he needed air. "Well, I didn't. Now let's go back again," said Lieut. Olson.

Fireman George Wabol, 28 years old, 3501 South Damen avenue, with Truck 7, made four trips down the shaft and into the smoke and gas filled tunnel during the night, aiding in bringing up seven men. He did not know whether they were dead or alive. Without rest or food, he continued during the morning, making five additional trips in succession. Asked why he didn't move from the mouth of the air shaft, where smoke and fumes were thick, before he descended again, he said, "If you get into the fresh air, it knocks you. If I stay here, I can go down again sooner."

John Yurgen, 3725 Lowe avenue, a laborer who spent the night in the tunnel, was brought out by rescuers in the morning. Rubbing his eyes on reaching the surface, John said, "Well, will I have time to get breakfast before I go back to work?"

After Fireman Otto Kern of truck 14, had brought up two men in the night, both of them alive, he went down again, and when he did not come up was classed as missing. Yesterday morning he appeared in the line of men waiting for gas masks. "Say, you're supposed to be dead. Better report," he was advised. "Well, guess I'll go down first," he said.

Three and a half years ago Fireman James F. Lahey, 1716 North Mansfield avenue, of squad 7, passed examination for prospective fireman with honors. But his wife persuaded him to go into a safer line of work. Three months ago unemployment and the arrival of a third baby gave him his excuse to enter the vocation of his choice. He was among the first firemen to be sent to St. Anthony's hospital yesterday.

Firemen, miners from Springfield, and laborers who worked at rescuing those trapped fastened themselves together with rope before they went into the tunnel. A coil of the rope rested above. If the men below gave two pulls on the rope it meant they needed more rope and the firemen above extended the line. If they gave one pull it meant that they were coming up.

In ward five in St. Anthony's hospital men, women, and children visitors grouped themselves around more than forty men who had been rushed there from the tunnel. For the most part they giggled nervously, finding their men safe. Battalion Chief Thomas Geary was under the care of his daughter, Eileen, 13 years old, a nurse in the hospital.

James Persino, a laborer in the tunnel, went down the shaft with firemen time after time to act as a guide. He proved valuable also in explaining to men who had nose bleeds and ear injuries from the air pressure how to avoid them in the future. Their noses were held by pinchers; all they had to do, said Jimmy, was to blow out their ears.

Mine rescue men from Springfield who aided in the work used their system of taps as language when masks prevented speech in the tunnel. A tap on the leg meant to go to the right, and so on.

Fireman Conrad Wynne, squad 3, who lives at 3344 North Kildare avenue, had been down once and brought up a man. He scoffed at a fireman who told him his gas mask was twisted. Wynne stepped on the elevator, went down, and in about three minutes the elevator came back up. Wynne stumbled out. "Ambulance for you, fella," he was told.

Roger Kane, 7053 South Sangamon street, in St. Anthony's hospital yesterday said he'd spent his forty-second birthday in the tunnel. He is a laborer.

The other three of the sixteen rescued men were permitted to return to their homes. They are:

Division Marshal Patrick Pierce, 677 Roscoe street.

Lieut. Odilon Lotus, Squad 8.

Carl Shentakos, laborer.

All of the injured in hospitals are expected to recover, physicians said.

He said 60 or 70 had been given resuscitation treatment.

"What precautions were taken to prevent the firemen from being overcome?" Dr. Bundesen asked.

"None," the witness replied. "They could not be prevented from going down into the tunnel and at first they had no masks. The valor they showed last night was second to none ever displayed in this country. It is only through the kindness of Providence that there are not more dead."

The jurors questioned Dr. Sullivan about masks. He said that when the first contingents of the fire department arrived there were no masks, but that then the fire fighters didn't believe there was much danger and went below without them. Later some wore them and some didn't and it was explained that the mine rescue apparatus had been rushed here from the bureau of mines at Springfield.

Contractor Is Questioned.

Timothy A. Ryan of the Ryan Construction company, which is building the sewer for the sanitary district, was called to the stand. He said he was notified of the fire about 6 o'clock Monday night and that his superintendent, Morris Cahill, went down three times to see if he could put the fire out. Each time Cahill was overcome, he testified.

Coroner Bundesen then inquired into the death of Policeman Harry W. Fielder of the Canalport station, who was killed on Monday night by an ambulance returning from a trip to St. Anthony's hospital with one of the fire victims. It was revealed that Paul Miller was the driver of a Bers ambulance which caused the policeman's death.

All the inquests were then postponed until April 21 and it was arranged that the jury should visit the scene of the disaster this morning at 10 o'clock for a personal inspection.

Wins Right to Remarry and Still Get Alimony

An amended divorce decree which will permit Mrs. Frances C. Beachy, 1033 Ontario street, Oak Park, to remarry without forfeiting alimony of $10,000 a year from her former husband, Walter F. Beachy, was approved yesterday by Circuit Judge Trude. In 1928 Mrs. Beachy divorced her husband, a grandson of Dr. Peter Fahrney, proprietary medicine manufacturer, and one of the heirs to Dr. Fahrney's $5,000,000 estate. The decree provided annual support money of $10,000 for Mrs. Beachy and two children only until she should marry again. Beachy has remarried and is now living in California, according to Attorney Robert E. Cantwell Jr., representing Mrs. Beachy.

HERO DESCRIBES NIGHT SPENT IN DEATH TUNNEL

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

When the medals are being pinned on heroes of the tunnel disaster, a grizzled veteran of the fire department will a husky young workman will share the credit for having kept six-teen names off the death list. But neither Division Fire Marshal Patrick "Paddy" Pierce of the 1st division nor young Robert Kelly will enjoy his role.

From behind a black stubble of beard and a cloud of cigaret smoke Kelly, who is 25 years old, married, and lives at 1651 South Troy street, yesterday told of his hours in the tunnel. "I have had experience in that kind of work and knew the tun-nel," he said from his cot in St. An-thony's hospital. "Besides," he added, "I don't scare very easy."

Shouts for Elevator.

Similarly, hours after he was feared dead of the fire and gas that ravaged the tunnel, "Paddy" Pierce bawled from the bottom of the elevator shaft where above rescuers hung, agonized and wondering.

"Hey, you up there! Send down that elevator again. What do you think I am—a ghost or something?"

That, in short, was the spirit of the two leaders of the firemen and labor-ers who were trapped in the section of the bore where the fire started. The fire and the deadly gases cut off their only avenue of escape. A metal air chamber dividing them from the main section, where carbon monoxide mowed down so many of their com-rades, held them safe while those working above continued to pump air into the chamber despite grave fears that all below were dead.

Fearful of Gas Main.

"This air chamber was a perfectly safe refuge," said Kelly, "but the men got scared and wouldn't trust it. I kept telling 'em it would be all right, but they kept wanting to try to get through to the hoist."

It was then that "Paddy" Pierce, with his long experience with fire hazards, and Kelly, the cool young workman, had their hands full. Panic stricken, fearful to go or to stay, the men clamored to be allowed to make a desperate break for liberty and life.

"You couldn't blame 'em much," said Kelly. "We could hear the tar boiling around the metal of the air chamber. I was the only one in the crowd that knew about the gas main that lay in the dirt only a few feet above where that fire was raging near us. All night I'd been wondering whether the heat would penetrate through to the gas main, and blow us all to glory."

Pulls Two to Safety.

Two of the men finally opened the door and started down the gas filled tunnel. A few feet away they dropped unconscious. Kelly pulled them back to safety inside. That, he considered, was his job, for he was the lock tender. His was the responsibility for the closing of the door that shut off the main tunnel with its poison-ous fumes, and opening the other into the eastern section, where the fire began, when the first firemen ar-rived.

"Somebody had to do it," he ex-plained. "I went down at the first alarm, through the 'monkey drift' and into the main tunnel, where I found the other lock tender uncon-scious on the floor from gas. I pulled him out and sent him up. Then the firemen came, and somebody who knew that air chamber had to operate the thing, so that the firemen could go through it into the east end to fight the fire.

Trapped by Gas.

"Now, if anybody not used to those things opens one door and goes into the air pocket, he'll soon get what we call the benders. They double all up, their ears begin to pain like the devil, and they bleed at the nose. You can tell when it's beginning to get 'em, because they start pulling their noses. These firemen were that way. Then I'd equalize the pressure and open the door into the east end for them, where the air was normal as long as they kept pumping it down to us. Finally we didn't dare to try and get out, the gas in the main tun-nel got so bad—and there we were."

So while Patrick Pierce was en-couraging the men to keep up their morale and showing them how to make clay masks for their faces lying on the floor and breathing the cooler air, Kelly calmed them with assur-ances of the effectiveness of the air pocket.

Story of the Escape.

Then came the story of the trip to the top after the smoke ejector had cleared most of the poisonous fumes from the tunnel.

"We did it in about one minute to the hoist," said Kelly. "Then we got out all right. If I hadn't run out of cigarets I wouldn't have minded the fourteen hours I spent down there—I might have been there yet."

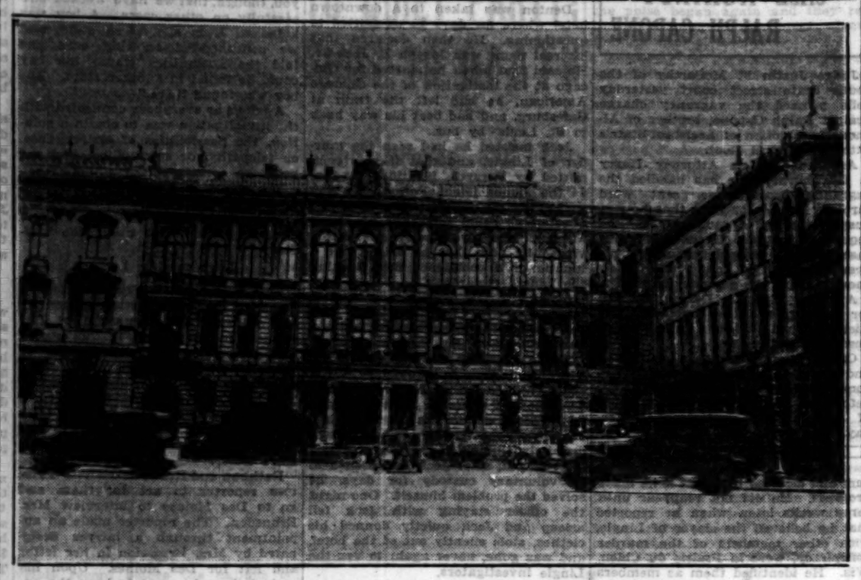
Division Marshal Pierce is a widow-er with six grown children, who for hours fought his body at hospitals and at the scene of the disaster, be-lieving him dead. His home is at 677 Roscoe street.

Cermak Praises Fireman.

Mayor Cermak yesterday dispatched telegraphic and telephone messages to Chicago on learning of the tunnel disaster. Fireman Irving Strom, 11022 Vernon avenue, whose valiant efforts at the scene made him outstanding in the rescue work, received personal Miami Beach, where the mayor is resting.

"Your courageous and sacrificing effort in rescuing your co-workers in the department and your fellow citi-zens in the appalling tunnel catas-trophe of yesterday is worthy of the highest commendation and applause," said the telegram. "May I tender you on behalf of all Chicago its grati-tude for and appreciation of your gal-lant and heroic service in the face of imminent danger and the risk of your own life? I am proud of you and the fine example of your com-rades."

Fire Damages American Embassy in Berlin



Famous Blucher palace on Unter den Linden, which was recently purchased by the government of the United States as the home for its envoy, which is reported to have suffered severely in fire.

Cost $7,500,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Germany, April 14.—A fire, which raged almost two hours before it was brought under control, tonight destroyed the roof and part of the top floors of the famous Bluech-er Palace in Unter den Linden, which was bought last year by the Ameri-can government to house the Ameri-can embassy. Almost every piece of apparatus in the city was used to combat the flames. The palace at the present time is occupied by only a few officers and the trade commissioner. There were no casualties.

The American government paid about $7,500,000 for the palace last year and the embassy was to have moved in next October.

The palace was originally built by the government as a gift to Gen. Bluecher, the famous warrier, who turned the tide of battle against Na-poleon at Waterloo when he came to the aid of Wellington.

PLAN FOR VICTIMS' FUNERAL

The bodies of the four firemen and seven laborers who lost their lives in the tunnel fire at 22d and Laflin streets Monday night, were taken from the county morgue to various undertaking establishments last eve-ning. Individual funeral services will be held for all but two.

These two, Karaius Sistokas, 33 years old, and John Litwin, laborers in the tunnel, lived at 1258 West 59th street with Litwin's brother, Tony, foreman of the tunnel crew, and Sis tokas' brother-in-law, Ignatz Levikus, also a laborer in the tunnel. All were at work when the fire broke out.

Tony and Ignatz were among the 16 men who spent Monday night in the tunnel and were rescued yester-day morning.

John Litwin is survived by his widow, Adolfina, who is in Lithuania, and by two sons, 17 and 15 years old, who live at the 59th street address. Sistokas is survived by his widow, Katherine, who was to have sailed from Lithuania for America soon. She and the wife of Ignatz Levikus are sisters.

Funeral services for three of the dead firemen—Capt. James E. O'Neill, William H. Karstens, and William J. Coyne—will be held on Friday morn-ing.

Capt. O'Neill is survived by his father, Edward; a half sister, Miss Johanna L. Sullivan, a school teacher, of 1019 West Garfield boulevard, and a brother, John Edward, 5952 South Rockwell street, a cab driver. The brother waited at the scene of the disaster throughout the morning and saw Capt. O'Neill's body carried out by firemen at 2 o'clock.

Two of Fireman Karstens' four sur-viving brothers are firemen—Lieut. Charles Karstens of truck company 36 and Lieut. George Karstens of en-gine company 25. Both brothers were off duty on Monday, the widow, Mrs Anna Karstens, of 2313 South Kolin avenue, said.

Arrangements had not been com-pleted last night for the funeral of the fourth fireman killed, Edward Pratt, 25 years old. He is survived by his widow, Ruth, 23 years old, of 6248 Harper avenue; his foster mother, Mrs. Mary Brennan, 6920 South Laflin street, and two brothers, Frank E. and Arthur H. Pratt. He was mar-ried last September.

FORD DRIVES HIS 20 MILLIONTH CAR FROM PLANT

It Will Tour Country, Then Go in Museum.

Detroit, Mich., April 14.—[Special.]—At 9:20 a. m. today, in the assembly line at the Rouge plant of the Ford Motor company, a mechanic stepped on the starter of the 20,000,000th Ford car.

Henry Ford then entered the new sedan and alone drove it down the few remaining yards of the assembly line, while photographers recorded the event.

"This sort of an event used to be exciting to me," Mr. Ford said. "But when I travel through city streets anywhere these days, the fact that there are millions of automobiles no longer seems startlingly new.

Will Keep Is as Marker.

"We will keep this 20,000,000th car along beside the first Ford car and the numerical markers that have ac-cumulated in the last 25 years."

Edsel B. Ford, Charles E. Sorensen, and P. E. Martin sat in the car with Mr. Ford for the drive away to Mr. Ford's home. A large group of Ford officials attended the ceremony of the drive-away. In the company were also A. Ivanhoff and George Doonaeff, representing a group of Russians who are viewing Ford's methods of manufacture in behalf of the soviet government.

Wednesday the car will start on a countrywide tour, in the course of which it will spend about one week with each of the company's branch representatives.

Will Go to Greenfield Village.

At the conclusion of the tour the car will be placed in Greenfield village for permanent preservation.

The total production of the Ford company reached 1,000,000 in Decem-ber, 1915; 5,000,000 in May, 1921; 10,-000,000 in June, 1924, and 15,000,000 in May, 1927.

CHANGES PLEA TO GUILTY IN ARSON MURDER

Defendant Puts Self on Mercy of Court.

Joseph Rosow, a waiter, suddenly threw himself on the mercy of the court yesterday and pleaded guilty, rather than take a chance on the ver-dict of a criminal court jury on a charge of murder resulting from an incendiary fire. Two children died in the fire in a butcher shop at 3655 North Kedzie avenue on Dec. 20, which was started in order to collect insurance.

At the outset of the trial Rosow had even refused to submit his case to the judge on a plea of not guilty. He insisted on a jury trial. While a jury pledged to inflict the death pen-alty, if the evidence justified, was being selected slowly yesterday in Judge Joseph Sabath's court, the de-fendant suddenly leaned over to Attor-ney Rocco De Stefano and announced that he wanted to plead guilty.

Judge Warns Defendant.

Attorney De Stefano communicated his client's desire to the judge and the jury was withdrawn. Judge Sabath warned the defendant that he need expect no special consideration in view of his change of heart and announced that he would inflict the penalty which he thought fitted the facts in the case.

Assistant State's Attorneys Mal J. Coghlan and Daniel Covelli said they had made no deal with Rosow and would continue to demand that he be sentenced to the electric chair.

Jacob Tatelman, alleged fireburg, and Harry Goldvarg, owner of the butcher shop, had previously an-nounced that they would submit their cases to Judge Sabath on pleas of not guilty, waiving jury trial. Under the present plan their cases will be heard first. The taking of testimony will start this morning. The judge, it is believed, will hear the testimony relat-ing to Rosow at the same time.

Will Be Tried Later.

Marun Borad, 18 years old, another defendant, will be tried later by a jury. Borad says he merely drove the other men to the vicinity of the fire as an accommodation and did not know their intentions.

Louis Footlik, a store fixture owner, will be tried separately as a co-con-spirator. It is alleged that he was a party to the scheme to burn the store to defraud the insurance company.

The fire caused the deaths of Je-rome Israelson, 5 years old, and his brother, Homer, 4 years old. Mrs. Dora Israelson, the mother, was se-verely burned.

STORY OF FAKE SOLUTIONS OF LINGLE MURDER

Investigators Trail Many False Clews.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

CHAPTER XII.

The Lingle murder mystery was "solved" so many times that the problem of unraveling the false "solutions" became almost as vexing and intricate as the task of finding the true solution and the real murderer.

The opposition newspapers in Chicago "solved" the Lingle murder so frequently and with such reckless inconsistency that this angle did not give the staff of the Lingle investigation much concern.

But there were times when the supposed solutions came through official channels; times when witnesses were found who, upon their oaths, told stories which rang reasonable and true and which, on the face of things, seemed to herald the end of the investigators' task.

Many hours and days and weeks were spent in running down these tales and then a flaw would be found and the theories would topple down like the house of cards.

Trace Four False Tales.

There were four such tales, any one of which might have been accepted as true by Prosecutor Rathbun and Investigator Roche, and upon which they easily might have procured indictments and brought persons to trial for the murder of Lingle.

Had the investigators ever been moved to wind up the Lingle case by pinning the crime on some one, whether they were satisfied of his guilt or not, they had at least four splendid opportunities to take this course. They might have saved themselves months of arduous labor and they might have saved THE TRIBUNE many thousands of dollars had they ever been minded to frame a case against some one just for the sake of claiming success and ending the search for the slayer.

Roche Needs No Defense.

The man or men who would connive to place another in the shadow of the electric chair or the penitentiary for a crime of which he was innocent must be indeed a loathsome sort, utterly without principle or conscience or decency. There never had been a whisper of suspicion against Pat Roche; he was respected by criminals as much as he was feared by them. They could never bribe him; neither had he ever "framed" any of them. Pat Roche can meet any criminal in safety, and he has met many of them without a weapon on him to receive information which they could give him. He could never do that if he was known to the criminal world as a "wrong guy," a double crosser. Roche could meet a crook today and arrest him tomorrow and the crook would never complain.

Roche needs no defense to any one that knows him, and neither does Charles Rathbun, whose worst adversary never could accuse him of dishonesty or trumpery. Rathbun was firmly established in life, a widely known, successful lawyer with a large and regular income. He had nothing to lose if the Lingle case went down into history as an unsolved crime, and little to gain if the case was cleared up.

Three of the tales investigated by the Lingle staff are related herein; the fourth is a separate yarn by itself.

THE TALE OF HOPOVICH

A short, sickly looking chap with shabby clothing came one day, three weeks after the murder of Lingle, to see Police Sergeant Charles Anderson.

"Why, hello, Walter," said the sergeant, "how you been?"

"O, I been all right. I got over that shot you plugged into me."

"Let's see, when did I shoot you? Two years ago, isn't it?"

"Yeh. January, 1928. Lissen, sergeant, I been goin' straight. I ain't sore you shot me. It was my fault. Kin I tell you somethin' I got on my mind, on the quiet?"

"Sure, Hopovich. Shoot."

"Well, lissen, sergeant, I'm scared to tell anybody, but I gotta. When I was in the Bridewell hospital, there was a guy in the bed next to me that was Patsy Tardi who'd been shot up. Remember, he was the guy that killed Danny Hartnett in one of Jack Zuta's joints, and got shot himself by Danny."

"Yes, I remember."

Becomes Friend of Patsy.

"Well, this Patsy kinda liked me and he used to give me stuff that his family brought to the hospital for him. Then after we got out I saw him a couple times. Well, a couple of days before this guy Lingle got shot, Patsy came to see me. I didn't want to talk to him in the house, so I told him I'd meet him outside and I did. Then he asked me if I wanted to make some money, that he had a job for me. I told him sure, if it was all right.

"I got into a car with him and another guy and they took me to a beer flat on Flournoy street. There was a bunch of hard guys in the place and Patsy took me up to them and says to them, here's the fella for that job. Then a little fella, a dark faced man, says to me am I ready to do the job and I says well what is it?

"Well, the little fella, who seemed to be the boss around there, tells me they wanta kill a guy the next day, and that the guy will be put on the spot and the fella that kills him won't need to run, that all he had to do was to stand still and there would be other guys in there who would run away as though they done it.

"How's it sound to you, the little fella asks me, and I says, gee, I wouldn't do anything like that, I wouldn't kill nobody. Then the little fella gets mad and says to Patsy what's the matter with this guy, and then he says I guess it's up to you then, Patsy.

Warned to Be Silent.

"I was scared and then the little fella walks up to me and says like he means something, 'You ain't heard nothing, see? Keep your mouth shut, understand?' and I tells him sure. Then I got outta there and the next day I sees in the paper that a guy is killed in the Randolph street tunnel.

"I figgered it must be the job they wanted me in on, and I didn't say nothin' until now, because I was scared."

Sergt. Anderson questioned Hopovich closely and then called Sergt. Charles Reynolds, who had been Anderson's partner at the detective bureau at one time, and who was then assigned to the investigating staff of Coroner Bundesen. Reynolds and Sergt. Francis J. Donohue, also assigned to the coroner's office, joined with Anderson in questioning Hopovich, and then Dr. Bundesen was notified of the witness' story.

The coroner called in Roche and Rathbun and together they went over Hopovich's story. Then pictures of some of the leading figures involved in the theories of the case were shown to the witness, and from them he selected the picture of Jack Zuta, and declared that Zuta was the "little fella" who had proposed the murder plan to him. He identified a photograph of August Battaglia, another west side police character, as that of the man who had come with Tardi in the latter's car to fetch him to the Flournoy street rendezvous.

Patsy Tardi, minor gangster, who was named by Walter Hopovich in fantastic story concerning Lingle murder. He was released and later was killed.

Joseph L. Jeck, alias Robert Denton, alias Robert J. Dubois, who told several stories to investigators.

Tardi Is Arrested.

Zuta had been attacked on State street just a few days before, and was in hiding. But the story of Hopovich had leaked out somewhere, and had been published in garbled form in some of the newspapers, which announced that Tardi was being sought. The police had little difficulty in finding the young hoodlum, who had achieved a certain notoriety as a leader of the "42" gang, a band of youthful west side thugs, and Tardi was arrested on July 6.

He, too, was evidently "on his uppers," and was clad in tattered and shabby working clothes. He little looked the part of the sleek and handsome gunman described by the witnesses to the killing of Lingle, but he was taken to the coroner's office, and there questioned. He was given no inkling of the story which Hopovich had told, because it was the desire of the authorities to shield the witness from exposure.

Tardi professed utter ignorance of the alleged plot, and then, with his consent, Coroner Bundesen sent for the lie detector, and for Leonarde Keeler, the lie expert. The blood pressure strap was fastened about Tardi's arm, and the respiration strap was tightened about his breast, and the recording needles, ultra sensitive, began to quiver back and forth with each pulsebeat and every breath, making the faint jagged lines which recorded the emotional strain of the subject.

Then Come Questions.

Then came the questions, first innocent queries, intended to disarm Tardi, and then the pertinent ones.

"Did you kill Lingle?" "Do you know who killed Lingle?" "Were you in the tunnel when Lingle was killed?" "Did you hire any one to kill Lingle?"

The suspect answered in the negative. It requires long experience to read intelligently the verdict of the lie detector, which has not yet been perfected to a degree where its findings can be positive. But Mr. Keeler, from his experience in examining thousands of suspects, said that Tardi exhibited some agitation when the pertinent questions were asked. Tardi was confronted with this information but he persisted in his denials.

Try Detector on Hopovich.

He was taken back to his cell and a new tack was taken. The lie detector was tried on Hopovich. He sat through the whole gamut of his story and never missed a single heart beat. His breath never quickened.

Well, what to do? Take Hopovich before the grand jury and indict Tardi and Zuta and Battaglia?

But there was no substantiation of the witness' story, and it was just such a story as gives the trained investigator the hunch that there is something wrong with it. Mr. Keeler's attention was called to the habitual trembling of Hopovich's hands, which the witness said he had suffered since he was a baby. He was asked if the lie machine would work if the subject were mentally afflicted.

"No, it would not," he replied. "There would be no record of emotion because there would be no emotions."

So alienists were called in to examine Hopovich, and they found him sane. Finally, witnesses to the Lingle murder were called to look at Tardi, although he did not come near to answering their description of the killer. Without hesitation the witnesses declared Tardi was not the man sought.

Weak Points in Story.

Meanwhile an attorney had presented a petition for Tardi's release on a habeas corpus writ. There was no evidence against him, except the story of Hopovich, and the investigators concluded that the story could never be proved. It was too ridiculous to assume that Zuta, cagey schemer that he was, with able gunmen at his beckoning, would seek through the wild young thug, Tardi, to employ a man to kill Lingle who was unschooled in the guman's trade, was a weakling, and was unknown to Zuta or the Zuta gangsters. There were other weaknesses in the tale of Hopovich, but this lack of logic in the story was the most commanding deficiency.

So Tardi was released. He continued to wander the streets, unemployed, penniless. August Battaglia was shot to death, on the west side, early in January, and Tardi followed him a few days later, on Jan. 6. Tardi had been lured from his home by two men, who shot him twice in the head and once in the abdomen. Both the Battaglia and Tardi murders went down as unsolved crimes, but the police had theories that they were related, and grew out of minor gang warfare on the west side. It was suggested that Tardi, needing money, was hired to kill Battaglia, and that the latter's friends had retaliated by murdering Tardi. There was no hint that the murders were related to the Lingle case.

THE TALE OF JECK

This tale opens ten days after Lingle was slain, when a blond, well dressed man of 35 walked into the Tribune Tower and announced to the city editor that he had information on the Lingle case.

"My name is Robert Denton," he said. "On the day of the murder I was sitting on the colonnade in Grant Park, close by to the tunnel. I heard a shot fired, and then I saw a man jump over the fence, run by me and up the embankment to Michigan avenue. I think I might be able to find that man. You see, I have been hanging around gambling joints in Chicago, and I am sure I saw that man in one of them several times. Maybe if I look around I can find him. But I haven't any money."

Ordinarily, when an individual comes into a newspaper office offering information and asking money for it the chances are fairly certain that the information is phoney. But this was the Lingle case. Every clew must be followed through; these were the orders. The chap Denton seemed earnest, and he looked more respectable than the usual type of cadger.

So the fellow was given a small sum and directed to report if he made progress. He did not reappear until three weeks later, when he reported that he believed the slayer of Lingle, with other members of the murder conspiracy, were in Prairie du Chien, Wis. He identified them as members of the north side gang, but he declared he did not know the names of the killer or the others. Investigator Roche and Assistant State's Attorney McShane were called to THE TRIBUNE, and they discussed the matter with Denton. They were suspicious of Denton, but finally it was decided to give him expense money to go to Wisconsin. This was on July 14.

In three days he returned, coming into THE TRIBUNE office in high excitement with a fanciful story that he had trailed the killer from Prairie du Chien in a taxicab, and he presented a cab bill for $40. Then it was decided that Mr. Denton was either romancing or a fraud, and he was chased away. Just another rainbow.

Four days later the Chicago Evening American received a telegram from Kansas City, Mo., signed Robert J. Du Bois, in which it was stated the sender had information on the Lingle case. The city editor telephoned to Du Bois, who declared he had witnessed the murder and had picked up a check book dropped by the killer.

Story Turns to St. Louis.

The Kansas City representative of the Chicago American interviewed Du Bois and then arrangements were made by the American to have Du Bois come to Chicago. Reporters met the train on which he was to arrive, but Du Bois did not show up and the trace of him was lost.

The scene shifts to St. Louis, to the editorial rooms of the Post-Dispatch. A man giving his name as Du Bois stated there that he had a story to tell concerning the Lingle case, and John T. Rogers, a member of the Post-Dispatch staff who had worked on the case, interviewed him. Du Bois said that he had seen the killing of Lingle and that the killer was a gambler he knew named Forsyth. Rogers was doubtful about the man's truthfulness, but he told the man to return, saying that he would take the matter up with Pat Roche.

Rogers did not hear again from Du Bois until he received a call from police headquarters two days later to the effect that a man was in custody, arrested on suspicion, who had declared he had information on the Lingle case and had given Rogers' name.

Roche Recognizes Him.

Rogers communicated with Roche, and Du Bois was then put on a train, in chains, accompanied by a St. Louis police officer and Rogers. Roche met them at the depot in Chicago. The minute he laid eyes on "Du Bois" Roche began to laugh heartily, and then he revealed to Rogers that "Du Bois" was none other than Robert Denton. The prisoner was now clad in dirty overalls, and he declared that while in St. Louis he had roomed with a man named McClain, and that while he, Denton, was out swimming McClain had stolen his clothing leaving him only the old overalls.

Denton was taken to a downtown hotel where for days he submitted to questioning. He then declared that his real name was Joseph B. Jeck Jr. He said that when he started for Chicago at the instigation of the Chicago American, he had left the train at Galesburg, and had beat his way back to St. Louis by bus.

Jeck insisted he had seen the murder of Lingle, and that it was committed by Forsyth, identified by him as the James [Red] Forsyth so long sought by the Roche staff. Hours of questioning could not shake his story, although the investigators were convinced by now that he was either a lunatic or a confidence man seeking the Lingle rewards.

Summon Alienist.

An alienist was summoned and the lie detector also, but these were of no avail in breaking down Jeck's story. The officials were in a quandary: What could they do with a fellow like this? The thought came to them that perhaps Jeck, erratic as he was, had committed the murder, but witnesses definitely eliminated this possibility.

At length, after Jeck had been held in voluntary custody for days, he solved the problem himself. One night the officer staying with Jeck fell asleep and Jeck quietly donned his clothes, stole silently out of the hotel, and was gone, never again to vex the Lingle investigators.

DROP VAGRANCY CASE AGAINST RALPH CAPONE

Judge Justin F. McCarthy of the South State street court yesterday nolle prossed the vagrancy charge against Ralph Capone, brother of Alphonse, on motion of Assistant State's Attorney Russell Root.

Assistant State's Attorney Harry S. Ditchburne, who has handled the vagrancy prosecutions, sent word through Prosecutor Root that he was busy preparing a murder case and requested that the Capone vagrancy case be nolle prossed because no policeman could be found who knew enough about the gangster to testify.

Attorney Miles J. Devine, counsel for Capone, told the court that his client earned $35,000 on his race horses in one year.

Capone's appeal from a conviction and sentence to three years for income tax fraud is to be argued today before the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, which convened yesterday.

TALE OF MRS. BRUNSDON

A woman in middle life, accompanied by a well dressed man, appeared at THE TRIBUNE early in July, 1930, and asked to see the city editor. Her mission, she explained, concerned the Lingle case.

The reporter assigned to the Lingle investigation was in the office at the time and he interviewed the woman. She was an imperious type and suggested that the city editor himself ought to listen to her story. Finally, she consented to tell the reporter.

"I am willing to solve this Lingle case for you," she began. "I know you will never solve it without me, but you must pay my expenses if I am to work on it.

"I am from Des Moines, Ia., and I have two women in Iowa who work with me. If you will get me some object which was intimately associated with your murdered reporter, such as a fountain pen, a tie, or something like that, I will take the object with me and I will join with my friends in concentrating over it. We shall tell you who murdered your reporter and why.

"Concentrate for 24 Hours."

"We shall concentrate in this manner for 24 hours or more before the facts appear to us, and the mental effort required is so exhausting that it will require days for us to recuperate.

"You may think I am not serious, but if you are not interested, it is perfectly all right with me. I can tell you, though, that we have worked successfully on other cases. A boy was kidnaped from a western state, and we concentrated on that case and told the authorities where the boy could be found in another state. The boy was found there."

Anxious as everybody connected with the investigation was to obtain a solution, the possibilities of clairvoyance, or telepathy, or spiritualism had not yet been considered.

The reporter bowed his way out, promising to call upon the lady if the earthly methods of investigation failed, and then he forgot about the incident.

Swanson Gets Letter.

Two months later State's Attorney Swanson received a letter, signed by Mrs. Mary Clark Brunsdon of Des Moines, Ia., in which it was stated that the writer had information of vital importance in the Lingle case which she would give up for $25,000. The state's attorney also received a letter from a business man in Des Moines, advising Mr. Swanson to pay serious consideration to Mrs. Brunsdon's letter.

Rathbun and Roche asked THE TRIBUNE reporter to act for them and go to Des Moines to interview Mrs. Brunsdon. The reporter made an appointment through a lawyer designated by Mrs. Brunsdon in her letter and left for Des Moines. Upon his arrival there he went to keep the appointment, only to be informed by the attorney that Mrs. Brunsdon was even then in the office of the chief of police of Des Moines, being questioned by "some people from Chicago."

The reporter made his way over to police headquarters, where he bumped into a reporter from the Chicago Daily News and reporters from the local newspapers. They told THE TRIBUNE reporter that Mrs. Brunsdon was in with the chief.

At this point the door to the chief's office was swung open and a woman came out. This time it was the reporter's turn to chuckle.

Mrs. Brunsdon was the same woman who two months ago, in Chicago, had proposed the telepathic solution of the Lingle mystery.

Confers with Police.

The reporter let Mrs. Brunsdon by, and she left the building, pursued by photographers from the local newspapers. Entering the chief's office, the reporter found him in conference with Lieut. Frank Johnson of the Chicago detective bureau, who said he had been assigned by Commissioner of Detectives Norton, also the recipient of a letter from Mrs. Brunsdon, to investigate the woman's story. He and the chief seemed unimpressed by Mrs. Brunsdon's account, and said she had insisted that the $25,000 be paid, in cash, before she would name the killers of Lingle. She had told of seeing the actual killer several times, at the time he killed Lingle and afterwards.

Then THE TRIBUNE'S reporter went to the lawyer's office, where he found Mrs. Brunsdon and entered into a two hours' discussion with her. She remembered him, and passed off the previous interview as a joke. She declared that she had witnessed the murder; that she saw the killer the following day entering an automobile on Jackson boulevard.

On another day, Mrs. Brunsdon said, she encountered the slayer in a loop department store, and that when he entered a telephone booth she had slipped into the adjoining booth and overheard him make a demand for money from a man he addressed as Jack. The killer made an appointment to receive the money from "Jack" at the Englewood depot the following night, Mrs. Brunsdon said.

Describes Trip to Station.

So the next night Mrs. Brunsdon went to the Englewood station, where, according to her story, she saw two men approach the killer, one of them bearing a small black satchel which he handed the killer. Mrs. Brunsdon declared that one of the men, addressed as "Jack," was Jack Zuta, having been so identified by her from photographs she had seen in the newspapers.

She declared she knew the nicknames of the other two men, and that from their talk they had indicated that Lingle was killed because of some deal over a north side gambling house. She would tell the names for $25,000 in cash, Mrs. Brunsdon said. The reporter recalled to mind the newspaper stories concerning the Sheridan Wave Gambling club and its keepers, "Potatoes" Kaufman and "Joey" Josephs.

"Now, Mrs. Brunsdon," he said, "I am going to tell you the two nicknames you propose to sell us for $25,000."

"But I won't tell you," she replied.

"Well, one is 'Potatoes,' and the other is 'Joey,' isn't that right?"

"I won't tell you."

The reporter returned to Chicago the same night.

Later, Mrs. Brunsdon wrote to the state's attorney's office that she had seen the killer in Des Moines. When the real killer of Lingle was captured, and was awaiting trial, she offered herself as a defense witness. She did not testify.

Trial of Frank Foster Continued to April 28

The charge against Frank Foster of being an accessory to the murder of Alfred Lingle was continued yesterday until April 28 in Judge Joseph Burke's Criminal court. Assistant State's Attorney Nat Ruvell said that the prosecution wanted a continuance and Attorney Emmet Byrne for Foster made no objection. The defendant is at liberty on $20,000 bond.

HOOVER FINDS PAN-AMERICAN DAY IS BUSY ONE

Makes Addresses, Goes to Opening Ball Game.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 14.—[Special.]—President Hoover today was the central figure in a series of activities marking signal events in the lives of the people, not only of the United States but of all North and South America.

In an address to the governing board of the Pan-American union, in which he enunciated the aim of that body as the development not of a superstate but of a mighty and mutual cooperation among the American republics, Mr. Hoover led in the celebration of Pan-American day throughout the western hemisphere.

In another address, also broadcast by radio, the President lauded the progress of the Negro race in the United States in celebration of the fifty-sixth anniversary of the founding of Tuskegee Institute at Tuskegee, Ala.

In between times the President inaugurated the American baseball season by tossing out the ball at the beginning of the game between the Washington and Philadelphia teams of the American league.

The President began the day with the semi-weekly meeting of his cabinet and wound it up as the guest of honor, together with Mrs. Hoover, at a dinner given tonight by the secretary of the navy, Charles Francis Adams, and Mrs. Adams.

First Pan-American Day.

Today marked the first celebration of Pan-American day in commemoration of the establishment forty-one years ago of the bureau of American republics, later broadened into the Pan-American union. It was a day of handclasping across the two Americas, with addresses of good will not only by the President and secretary of state, Henry L. Stimson, but by Orestes Ferrera, the Cuban ambassador, and Manuel Tellez, the Mexican ambassador, the presentation of flag souvenirs to school children, and much playing of North and South American airs by bands in the beautiful esplanade of the Pan-American building.

The President was warmly received by the governing board, on which sits a representative of each of the twenty-one republics. Good will was the order of the occasion. The Latin Americans vigorously applauded Mr. Hoover, who is the first United States executive in many a day to earn their approbation.

The Latin Americans do not object to Uncle Sam using his marines in the name of succor from catastrophe, as in the case of the recent earthquake in Nicaragua. In fact, they are willing to leave such relief entirely to Uncle Sam, for none of the Latin American countries which complain most loudly of "American imperialism" has raised a relief fund for Nicaragua.

Orderly Processes in Vogue.

"A peculiarly heavy responsibility," said Mr. Hoover, "rests upon the nations of the western hemisphere; a responsibility which at the same time is a high privilege. Richly endowed by nature, we enjoy the great advantage of inhabiting a hemisphere free from the jealousies and antagonisms which have proved such obstacles to progress and prosperity in other sections of the world, and we have developed an international system based on the principle of equality combined with a full recognition of the obligations as well as the rights of states.

"The American republics are today rapidly approaching the time when every major difference existing between them will be settled by the orderly processes of conciliation and arbitration. In this respect the western hemisphere has placed an enviable record before the nations of the world. From the earliest period of their history the governments of the republics of this hemisphere have been earnest advocates of the peaceful settlement of international disputes. They have demonstrated their willingnes sand even eagerness to adopt and apply mediation, conciliation, and arbitration. The common purpose to eliminate war and the determination to achieve peace and security represent a major contribution of the Americas to modern civilization.

"The full significance of this achievement is not always realized, for it carries with it heavy obligations to posterity. Future progress along these lines can only be assured through constant vigilance and by an unswerving determination to make the union of the American republics, as now expressed in the Pan-American union, an example to the world. We are not attempting in any way to develop a super state, or to interfere with the freedom of action of any of the states, members of the union, but rather to develop an atmosphere of good will—a spirit of coöperation and mutual understanding, in which any difference that may arise, no matter how important, will find a ready solution."

Speaks of Negro Progress.

It was into a microphone set up in the Lincoln study in the White house that President Hoover made his speech in commemoration of the founding of Tuskegee institute by Booker T. Washington, 50 years ago.

The schools under the leadership of such institutions as Tuskegee, said the President, "have been the most effective agents in solving the problems created by the admission to citizenship of 4,000,000 ex-slaves without preparation for their new responsibility.

"We have still many problems to solve in this matter," Mr. Hoover continued, "and no section of our country is without its responsibility or without room for progress and improvement. I am convinced that there are within the Negro race, as the result of these institutions, a body of men whose leadership and unselfishness can be depended upon to accomplish advancement and adjustment."

Hear Hoover at Tuskegee.

Tuskegee Institute, Ala., April 14.—[Special.]—The voice of President Hoover, raised in tribute to Booker T. Washington, modern prophet of the Negro race, resounded through the chapel here today as the climax of the celebration of the golden anniversary of Tuskegee's founding. President Hoover's speech was carried over wires from Washington and concurrently broadcast. He spoke from the Lincoln study in the White House, where the emancipation proclamation was signed, and was the fourth White House occupant to address Tuskegeeans on Founder's day.

POLICEMAN TRIES TO QUIET PARTY; SHOT TO DEATH

Grain Broker and Two Other Men Held.

Policeman Patrick J. Gallagher of the Town Hall station died in the Lake View hospital yesterday afternoon, of bullet wounds he received while trying to quiet a noisy party in the Windsor-Wilson apartment hotel, 915 Wilson avenue, early yesterday morning.

Guy Sprague, 59 years old, said to be a well to do grain broker, is being held at the Town Hall station in connection with the shooting. He will be formally charged with the patrolman's murder at the inquest today, police state.

Called by Hotel Clerk.

Policemen Gallagher and Carl Johnson were called to the hotel early yesterday on the complaint of John Pendrick, night clerk, who asked them to quiet revelers in Sprague's apartment. According to Policeman Johnson, Sprague promised to send his guests away. As the policemen left the noise began again and they returned to Sprague's apartment, where they knocked at the door.

According to Johnson, Sprague opened the door and fired two shots, one striking Gallagher in the abdomen and the other going wild. The wounded policeman was taken to the Lake View hospital. Pendrick and Johnson disarmed Sprague.

Two Other Men Held.

Others held were Wilbur Massie, 36 years old, a chemist, residing at 2762 Hampden court, and John W. Eldner, 41 years old, of Benton Harbor, Mich. Two young women were held for questioning, but later were released with orders to appear at the inquest today. They are Miss Bernice Collins, 33 years old, a student at the Art institute and a former school teacher at Berlin, Wis., who resides at the hotel; and Miss Julia Pierce, 22 years old, of Christianburg, Va.

Gallagher, who had been a policeman for 15 years and once received THE TRIBUNE award for police heroes, was the father of four children. He resided at 1042 Waveland avenue.

The police say that Sprague was intoxicated when taken into custody. He is the owner of the Grain Traders' company, a brokerage office at 39 West Adams street. He retained Attorney Barratt O'Hara.

6 BOUND OVER AS RINGLEADERS OF RUM SMUGGLERS

New Orleans, April 14.—(AP)—Six alleged leaders of a syndicate charged with conspiracy to smuggle Canadian liquor into the United States through gulf coast channels were bound over to the federal grand jury today by United States Commissioner Reginald H. Carter Jr.

One of the defendants, M. D. O'Neal, alleged representative of a Vancouver distillery, had his bond reduced from $25,000 to $15,000, but the original $25,000 bond was held over Albert Morrison, also charged with representing Canadian distilleries, and Joseph Miller, Al Hart, and Al Haim, all of Chicago, charged with being the land crew of the rum ring. Jerry Woods, arrested late yesterday in Baton Rouge, was held under $5,000 bond.

None of them had made bond late today and were returned to prison.

OBSOLETE NAVY YARDS COST U. S. MILLIONS YEARLY

Annual Waste Estimated at $100,000,000.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 14.—[Special.]—Abandonment of four or more useless navy yards now being maintained for political and pork barrel purposes and economies in other navy shore properties would knock out a sizable chunk of the impending $90 million dollar government deficit, it appears a chunk of possibly fifty million dollars, according to some estimates, or half of the one hundred million dollars Admiral Thomas P. Magruder estimated as being wasted in the administration of the navy.

There have been repeated investigations ending with recommendations to abolish useless navy yards which regularly have been pigeonholed in congress by log rolling senators and congressmen intent upon keeping the pork in the pork barrel. Now there is to be another investigation, with more recommendations.

Adams Launches Survey.

It became known today that Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams has called for an exhaustive survey of the naval shore establishment for the purpose of determining the exact shore base needs of the type of fleet permitted the United States by the London and Washington naval treaties. This report, which contemplates a thorough revamping of the famous Rodman board report of 1923 on naval shore establishments, is expected to furnish Mr. Adams and Assistant Secretary Ernest Lee Jahncke with complete information as to which shore yards and stations now operative should be scrapped in the interests of economy and which should be maintained in the interests of national defense.

Although the senate has approved treaties on two occasions which have sharply limited the number and character of American fighting ships, the huge, widely scattered naval shore establishment has never been trimmed down to conform either to the reduced size of the maximum fleet permitted this country by the Washington-London treaties, the dictates of economy, or changed world conditions.

Seek to Cut Navy Overhead.

Reduction of navy overhead so as to provide more money for building new ships without increasing the annual naval appropriation by an appreciable degree is one of the major objects of the Adams-Jahncke survey of the shore base situation. Other advantages to be derived from closing up surplus shore bases would include freeing of several hundred officers and enlisted men for use in manning new ships afloat as completed, reduction of annual maintenance costs of the shore establishments by several millions annually, cessation of appropriation of large sums to replace obsolete shore facilities at yards of no peace time value, and finally the stimulation of commercial ship building through construction of navy fighting ships in private rather than government yards.

A glance at official figures discloses the huge extent of the naval shore establishment and its fertility as a field for cutting out waste in government operation. Budget bureau figures show that during this current year the navy is spending almost as much for operation of its shore stations as for maintenance and operation of its forces afloat. The exact figures disclose the sum of $80,000,000 was allocated for shore yards and stations, while 103 millions was set aside for the fleet.

The present estimated value of the navy shore holdings is estimated at 400 million dollars, almost half the estimated value of its built fighting ships. The total cost of maintenance of these shore properties since they were acquired is listed at 617 million dollars.

Obsolete navy yards and stations along the Atlantic coast have been the most frequent targets of investigation boards. A study of the official reports of these boards, annual reports of the secretaries of the navy over many years, congressional hearings and statements made by Secretary Adams and Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, disclose that in the interests of economy only two or at most three industrial yards where shipbuilding or repair work is done is necessary on the Atlantic coast. The records show seven are maintained, two on an inoperative status.

In his last annual report Secretary Adams stated frankly that "there are more navy yards on the east coast than can be economically maintained."

GUARDS TESTIFY TO SANITY OF SLAYER PRESTON

Guards from the Joliet penitentiary testified yesterday before a jury in the circuit court at Wheaton that John Preston, under sentence of death for murder, is sane. Among those witnesses was Capt. B. A. Davenport, who was attacked by convicts during the recent riots at Joliet.

Preston went to sleep while the testimony was being taken. His mother and his sister, Irene, were the only witnesses who asserted that he was not sane. The state is to present more testimony today.

A previous sanity hearing in January resulted in a verdict that Preston was insane. This finding prevented his electrocution for the murder of Agnes Johnson, whom he strangled to death about 18 months ago. State's Attorney Chauncey W. Reed obtained another hearing on the ground that the previous sanity verdict was not in accord with the testimony. If Preston is found insane he will be committed to the Chester prison.

ARGENTINE CABINET TO RESIGN; RADICALS STAGING COMEBACK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, April 14.—The heavy radical vote in the provincial election has caused something approaching a cabinet crisis. The radicals, who were ousted by last year's revolution, appeared to be staging a comeback and it is understood that the ministers of the present will resign in a body at tomorrow's cabinet meeting, in order to allow President José Uriburu to form a new cabinet, including other representatives of the anti-Yrigoyenist parties.

Meantime, events apparently have also forced the hands of the radicals. Honorio Pueyrredon, former minister to Washington, is scheduled to make a speech tomorrow at Santa Fé, when it is confidently expected that he will make some announcement regarding the attitude of the radicals towards the Yrigoyenist element. It is widely believed that Pueyrredon will eventually become the radical candidate for the presidency of the republic.

It is understood tonight that three ministers have already placed their resignations in Gen. Uriburu's hands.

NEW JAPANESE PREMIER SELECTS HIS CABINET AIDS

TOKIO, April 14.—(AP)—Reijiro Wakatsuki, new premier of Japan, announced the composition of his cabinet, which will be almost the same as the cabinet of his predecessor, Yuko Hamaguchi. Gen. Jiro Minami replaces Gen. Ugaki as minister of war; Shujiro Hara replaces Mr. Tawara as minister of commerce, and Yukio Sakurachi replaces Matsuda in the overseas affairs portfolio in the new ministry. The chief secretary of the cabinet will be Takukichi Kawasaki, replacing Fukiya Suzuki. Mr. Wakatsuki intimated that his ministry, which he will present to the emperor late today, will pursue much the same policy as the Hamaguchi ministry.

ASKS AMERICANS TO BUILD AND USE THEIR OWN SHIPS

Larger Navy and Merchant Fleet, Is Haag Plea.

Alfred Haag, director of the bureau of research for the United States shipping board, yesterday urged an expansion of the navy building program and pleaded that United States citizens patronize American merchant marine ships both at home and abroad. He spoke before the Rotary club at the Hotel Sherman.

"The strength of our merchant marine must be commensurate with our position as a first class nation from both a commercial and military viewpoint," Mr. Haag said. "There appears to be criticism directed at the United States for wanting to build new ships. In the last decade every country that amounts to anything has outbuilt our government."

The American merchant marine has made progress, however, Mr. Haag said.

"In 1914," he went on, "there were in existence twenty American flag companies operating 112 vessels of less than 600,000 gross tonnage in regular liner services. Today there are 82 American companies operating 706 vessels of nearly 2,500,000 gross tonnage."

Mr. Haag said that, while the support of the government is essential for the success of a ship building program, the greatest contribution toward a successful merchant marine is the liberal patronage of the American exporter, importer and the traveling public in making use of ships flying the American flag.

100 N. Y. POLICEMEN RELUCTANTLY SERVE ON NEW VICE SQUAD

New York, April 14.—[Special.]—One hundred reluctant policemen went on duty today as the nucleus of New York City's new vice squad.

Chief Inspector John O'Brien announced that the full quota of 250 men would be selected later. There were few volunteers, and, while most of those drafted on orders of Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney did not want the new assignment, the philosophy "orders are orders" forestalled any open protest.

The commissioner's troubles were complicated by the protests of embattled wives of policemen against assignment of their husbands to the dangerous duty of keeping the city pure. Some policemen, modestly reluctant to take the rôle of Galahad, appealed to their district leaders for assistance in evading the honor, it was understood.

But Mr. Mulrooney was determined he was going to have his new vice squad.

GERMAN-RUSSIAN $75,000,000 CREDIT DEAL CONCLUDED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 14.—Russian orders to the value of $75,000,000 must be placed with German industries before July 1, under the terms of an agreement concluded in Berlin today between German industrialists and a soviet trade delegation. It is forecast that these orders will greatly ease the German unemployment situation. German industry, under the agreement, grants to Russia credit terms ranging from 14 to 29 months. This is made possible through the support of German banks and guarantees of a large percentage of the money involved by the federal government and the German states.

Explosion and Fire Cause $5,000 Loss in Fur Shop

The force of the explosion blew out the plate windows in the front of the store. Mrs. Adler and an employé, Samuel Rose, were directly behind the dryer when it exploded, but were not injured.

J. H. K., 817 LAKESIDE PLACE, CHICAGO, ILL.—"About four years ago we moved into our new five room bungalow in Park Ridge. We had one of those attached sleeping porches of wood construction. I wanted to have this porch insulated, papered and have a hardwood floor laid. Because of numerous other expenses we did not feel as though we could afford this additional expense. I decided to try making the place pay for its own improvements. We had the porch improved as above mentioned, and then I advertised a bedroom with sleeping porch and garage space in the Chicago Tribune. I did not have the furniture for the porch but had meant to buy it upon getting a tenant. It was in October when I ran my ad and at that time of the year there are not a lot of people thinking of moving to the suburbs. I received one answer from a man who had his own furniture. The money which I received from him for rent more than paid for the improvements of the sleeping porch. I would advise any one who wants to trade, buy or sell, to let the world know it through a Chicago Tribune want ad."

C. E. H., 326 W. MADISON ST., CHICAGO, ILL.—"Several years ago we decided that we wanted to move out of Chicago to one of the North Shore suburbs. We spent several days having real estate agents drive us around to show us various houses, none of which fitted our ideas or pocketbook. Finally, we noticed an ad in the Tribune which was well worded and we were attracted at once. We immediately got in touch with the owner and made an appointment to see it. Upon looking it over once we closed a deal right there. After living there happily for seven years we had an opportunity to purchase another house at a bargain and sold our house for over twice what we originally paid for it. Therefore we considered that the original Tribune want ad rendered us a valuable service."

F. A. O., 1743 EAST 84TH PLACE, CHICAGO.—"For two weeks we tried to find a south side bungalow to rent—one with a good back yard. In spite of our driving mile after mile in our car looking for what we wanted, and listing our wants with four agents, we were unsuccessful. It seems that bungalows are hard to find for renting. At last, in one issue of the Sunday Tribune we ran a small classified ad under the heading 'Wanted to Rent—Houses,' and gave our phone number. When the early edition of the Tribune was on the streets Saturday night we received 5 calls; Sunday, 11; Monday, 4; and Tuesday, 1; a total of 21 calls. And we got just what we wanted—a beautiful bungalow at reasonable rent."

MR. A. C. ABITZ, 116 13TH STREET, SILVIS, ILL.—"In 1929, August 24, I was in the market for a good used Buick car. I read the Chicago Tribune every Sunday. We had hunted in our locality for a used car for 3 months but could not find what we wanted. Prices were too high for us. Cars were not worth what they asked for them. I wanted a Buick Coupe Model 27 in good shape, but the prices here ranged from $550 to $800. I had only $400 and an old car. Then my wife said: 'Look! The Dashiell Motor Company has advertised a Buick Coupe, 1927, for $425 in the Chicago Tribune.' The next Saturday we drove to Chicago, went to the Dodge Motor Co., and found the car advertised to be just what we were looking for. We bought it and saved $150."

D. L. N., 4846 MAGNOLIA-J3, CHICAGO, ILL.—"Glancing through the Tribune's want ads last fall, I noticed some one wanted a reasonably priced saxaphone and although I had one which I hadn't played for four years it had not occurred to me that some one might be anxious to have it. I got in touch with the advertiser and not only disposed of the saxophone at a very good price but sold the same party several other brass instruments at a nice profit. The money I secured enabled me to furnish an apartment and I profited by securing most of my furniture through the Tribune's want ads."

HOUSE, SENATE GROUPS VOTE TO REMAP STATE

Cook County May Receive 12 Congress Seats.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 14.—[Special.]—A proposal to remap Illinois on a basis that would give 14 congressional districts to the metropolitan area embracing the counties of Cook, Lake, Will, and Dupage, and 13 districts to the remainder of the state, was agreed on tonight by the joint suvcommittee on congressional reapportionment.

W. H. DIETRICH.

The action followed a luncheon at which 19 of the 27 Illinois representatives in congress set forth their views. Tonight the general view is that a congressional reapportionment, which has been blocked for twenty years, will be enacted this session. Speakers said it would remove the vest pocket districts in Chicago and downstate and also tend to lessen criticism if the legislature again fails to revise the districts from which the state legislature is chosen.

Charts to Be Prepared.

Most of the downstate congressmen voiced a hope that their districts be left almost as they are. They admitted the idea of giving Cook county its two seats now held by the congressmen at large. This would give downstate 15 districts as now, and Cook county 12, where it now has 10, Lake county being included in one of these.

Chairman Sol P. Roderick of the joint subcommittee of house and senate, which is handling the remap, tonight instructed the drafting department to prepare charts using the metropolitan area as a basis.

Under his proposal Cook, Lake, Will and Du Page counties, with 4,289,240 inhabitants, would have fourteen districts. The average population would be 306,000 to a district. The rest of the state, with 2,341,414 inhabitants, would have thirteen districts, with an average population of 257,000.

The precise ratio, if the state population is divided by 27, would be about 283,000 to an Illinois district.

Three Congressmen Present.

Chicago congressmen present were Fred A. Britten [Rep.], Carl R. Chindblom [Rep.], Peter C. Granata [Rep.], Leonard W. Schuetz [Dem.], Harry P. Beam [Dem.], Edward A. Kelly [Dem.]. They all expressed a hope that reapportionment would come about.

"We all have faith in the committee," said Mr. Britten. "The present districts are not balanced. The Seventh has 350,000 population, while others have only 140,000."

William H. Dietrich [Dem., Boardstown], congressman at large, said he was willing enough to give up his seat in congress to make redistricting possible.

"I am elected in the state at large," he said, "and my district hence is one which would be abolished by a remap. It is the proper thing to do. The committee should follow the constitution and the laws and redistrict according to population."

Congressman Henry T. Rainey [Dem., Carrollton], dean of the delegation, who has served in congress since 1902, except for the term embraced in the Harding landslide in 1920, said the present districts are not so bad.

"The present districts are thirty years old," he said. "During my service I served in one congress where I was the only Democrat from Illinois, and in another when we had 19 Democrats — the fluctuations show how the districts respond to popular sentiment.

"A congressman represents the state as much as his district. The easiest and fairest way would be to give the two congressmen at large to the areas where increase is greatest. Cook county has the smallest districts, also the largest. If the downstate districts are left alone it would meet with approval, I believe."

Indorse Rainey's Views.

Indorsement of the views of Mr. Rainey was expressed by William E. Hull [Rep., Peoria], Charles Adkins [Rep., Decatur], Homer W. Hall [Rep., Bloomington], William P. Holaday [Rep., Danville], J. Earl Major [Dem., Hillsboro], W. W. Arnold [Dem., Robinson], Claude V. Parson [Dem., Golconda], and Charles A. Karch [Dem., East St. Louis]. Other congressmen who spoke were Frank R. Reid [Rep., Aurora], John T. Buckbee [Rep., Rockford], and John C. Allen [Rep., Monmouth].

Under the proposal giving 14 districts to the metropolitan area 56 per cent of the population of the state would have 51 per cent of the seats, where at present 54 per cent of the population has only 40 per cent of the districts.

ROB INSURANCE OFFICE; MISS $700.

Three robbers entered the office of the John Hancock Life Insurance company, 6240 South Kedzie avenue, yesterday and after locking three employés in a rear room escaped with $30. Ten minutes earlier $700 had been sent out to a bank.

OFFERS NEW PLAN FOR ELECTION OF CHICAGO JUDGES

Springfield, Ill., April 14.—[Special.]—A new plan for electing Chicago municipal judges was presented in a bill by Senator Roy C. Woods [Rep., Chicago], introduced in the legislature this afternoon. His proposed law would divide Chicago into ten districts, each containing five wards, and each district electing three judges. The chief justice would be chosen from the city at large. The present six year terms for the city magistrates would not be changed and the new method would be put into effect in 1932, one judge being elected from each district every two years thereafter until the bench was completed, under the system.

USE MARKED BILL TO FIX BRIBERY ON ROWBOTTOM

Former Congressman on Trial in Indiana.

Evansville, Ind., April 14.—[Special.]—How marked money was used to trap Harry E. Rowbottom, until recently Republican congressman from the First Indiana district, was revealed here this afternoon as the state began introducing witnesses to prove that Rowbottom accepted bribes for obtaining postoffice appointments.

The jury was obtained in short order and the state made a brief opening statement in which it was asserted Rowbottom held open some postal jobs until he learned what rival applicants would bid.

A former member of the state legislature, Rowbottom was sent to congress from this district as a protégé of the Ku Klux Klan when it gained control in Indiana. He was defeated for reelection last fall.

Chicago Judge Presides.

As the story of marked money was unfolded the defense indicated it would charge that this testimony alone proves Rowbottom is a victim of political conspiracy.

Judge Charles Woodward, Chicago, is sitting in the case because Judge Robert C. Baltzell of the southern Indiana district voluntarily disqualified himself.

Prosecution witnesses told how $100 bills, part of $750 allegedly paid Rowbottom to appoint Gresham Ayer as a rural mail carrier at Rockport, were traced by pin holes and numerals. The alleged markings were made, it was testified, by Hilbert Bennett, Rockport politician, and paid to Rowbottom by Walter Ayer, Rockport farmer and father of Gresham, at the instigation of Ben Huffman of Rockport, first district Republican chairman. The bills were traced, it was testified, by Gene Schemmerhorn, another Rockport farmer.

Tells Tracing of Bills.

Aaron Ayer, brother of Walter and an elderly farmer, told how he carried the cash while Walter dickered for a price lower than $750. When Rowbottom insisted he could get $750 elsewhere for the job he was paid the money, it was testified.

Walter testified that Fred J. Fisher of Evansville, Rowbottom's 1930 campaign manager, frankly asked him what he would pay for the appointment.

Two Taken as Suspects in O'Donnell Shooting

George Downs, 27 years old, a bookmaker and brother-in-law of Martin Durkin, convicted automobile thief, and Walter Zwolinski, 24 years old, 8722 South Paulina street, yesterday were arrested in Downs' rooms at 6427 South Hoyne avenue by a detective bureau squad investigating the attempted shooting of Stephen O'Donnell, veteran beer runner, on Monday night.

The men were implicated in the O'Donnell shooting when police investigating the complaint of neighbors that they had been firing shots in the air, found an automobile similar to that used in the attempted assassination of the beer peddler. Both men were intoxicated and refused to make a statement other than to deny implication in the shooting. They were held at the bureau all day and last night without a formal charge being placed against them. O'Donnell did not appear at the bureau to make identification.

SENTENCED

John E. Malloy, former assistant cashier of the closed Lawrence Avenue National bank, was sentenced yesterday to four years at Leavenworth penitentiary and fined $5,000 by Federal Judge Fred L. Wham on charges of making false entries.

Malloy was convicted on nine counts, seven charging the making of false entries with intent to injure the bank, and two charging false entries with intent to deceive the bank examiners. The total alleged shortage was $60,000.

Attorney William F. Waugh, in a plea for leniency, declared that there was evidence to show that Malloy's superiors were negligent in handling the bank's affairs, and pointed out that Malloy was acquitted on charges of embezzlement and conspiracy to rob the bank on New Year's day.

FARMERS AGREE TO COW TESTING TO AVERT CLASH

Tipton, Ia., April 14.—[Special.]—Farmers opposing the tuberculin test for cattle grudgingly gave in to the state's demand that they obey the law after a session which began at noon today and adjourned shortly after 6 o'clock.

They adopted a report which had been prepared by a local attorney, after it had been debated for hours, in which they agree that the state might continue with the test on the basis of the understanding reached with Gov. Dan Turner at the Iowa City conference yesterday.

The understanding is that the farmers be permitted to use accredited veterinarians of their own choosing to conduct the test, and that all forces now engaged in testing cattle in Cedar county be immediately withdrawn and for Gov. Turner to make every effort toward bringing about a record vote on the Davis bill now pending before the legislature which would make the testing of cattle optional instead of compulsory.

Cop Shoots at Horse's Head; Bullet Bounces, Kills Man

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., April 14.—A horse broke his leg here today. The owner called the police to shoot the animal. Constable Cote of the traffic squad pointed his revolver at the head of the horse and fired. The bullet struck the horse's forehead and ricochetted, striking Maurice Robert, a bystander, in the head. Robert was killed almost instantly.

PARTY GIRL SHIES AS STATE PUSHES PANTAGES CASE

Not Sure What Happened as She Met Rich Men.

San Diego, Cal., April 14.—[Special.]—Part of the state's case against Jesse Shreve, Alexander Pantages and three others accused of immoral acts with minor girls, collapsed in the justice court of Judge Arthur L. Mundo today when Helen Camille Livingston, 17, unexpectedly failed to remember what happened in a hotel bedroom here.

HELEN LIVINGSTON

Miss Livingston was placed on the stand to testify concerning the state's complaint that Shreve, a wealthy real estate man, attacked her in a room of the El Cortez hotel last Oct. 30. Pantages is accused of occupying a neighboring hotel room with Lydia Nitto.

She Is All Mixed Up.

In court today, Miss Livingston's testimony was replete with such answers as "I don't remember," "I forget," "I can't be sure," "I'm all mixed up," and "I can't say." The foundation of the state's felony charges against Shreve shook as Assistant District Attorney Frank Dunn, after leading the girl in her story as far as Shreve's visit to her bedroom, continued:

"Well, what happened in that room while you were alone with Shreve?"

"I can't just remember for sure," she said.

Shreve betrayed his elation by a smile.

What effect Miss Livingston's loss of memory will have in Justice Mundo's final decision over holding or liberating Shreve, Pantages, William Jobelmann, Olive Clark Day and John P. Mills, all under indictment, will not be learned for several days.

"I sat on Mr. Shreve's lap," Miss Livingston testified. "Lydia sat on Mr. Pantages' lap at the other end of the room. She took five or six drinks."

Later she moved to another room in the hotel and went to bed.

Shreve appeared there later, she said. From this point her memory clouded.

Tells of Receiving $15.

"I was sleepy," she said. "I remember telling him to go away because I wanted to sleep." On the following day, she said, Miss Day gave her $15 which, she was informed, was her share of the money paid by the men.

William Finch, hotel clerk, identified Pantages' signature on the hotel register.

Asserted confessions of Miss Day and Jobelmann went into the record today.

ASK THE MAN WHO OWNS ONE

Let us show you with pencil and paper that it costs no more to own a

PACKARD

We are offering a new type of motor car demonstration this Spring.

We are demonstrating that you—if you are driving a car of like size, whatever its price—can own a Packard Standard Eight at no increase in cost.

It is really quite simple. You will learn that it costs as much to maintain and operate your present car as it would the Packard. That leaves only depreciation to consider. And that is no greater when you drive the Packard proportionately longer — as most Packard owners do.

Of course these are general statements. What we would like to do is make them specific. If you will come in and give us the figures on your present motoring costs, we will set down Packard costs in a parallel column—and let you be the judge.

The Packard Standard Eight is priced at the factory from $2385 to $2885. If you prefer a larger model, the Packard DeLuxe Eight is available at factory prices ranging from $3490 to $4285—and Individual Custom creations up to $10,000.

The Packard Standard Eight is the most popular Packard car—the largest selling fine car in the world. If you buy one you will probably keep it nearly twice as long as the car you traded in on it. Many take delivery of one of these fine cars with little or no cash outlay, taking advantage of our Payment Plan and of our allowance for the used car against the down payment.

Why not come in and let us demonstrate Packard ownership costs—then let us appraise your present car at its full cash value? You are actually paying for a Packard — why not own one?

This Spring, as never before, lots of clothes are going to be made to sell rather than to wear.

That's because some clothiers went into the wool market at its high, and in order to unload high-cost materials at low prices quality in making had to be sacrificed.

Rogers Peet stayed away from the wool market till it came to them, so they can afford to keep their hand-tailored quality as fine as ever, while they lower their clothing prices generally.

A little over a year ago the starting price for our Rogers Peet sack suits was $45, and a very fair price it was.

But a fairer starting price right now would be $35, so $35 it is.

HELEN DONNELLEY GETS DIVORCE ON DESERTION PLEA

Granted $30,000 Yearly from Publisher's Son.

Mrs. Helen Pauling Donnelley of Lake Forest has obtained a divorce from Thorne Donnelley, son of Reuben H. Donnelley, the late publisher and industrial leader, it was revealed yesterday in the records of the Lake county Circuit court at Waukegan. The decree was granted on grounds of desertion by Judge Ralph J. Dady on Monday.

Considerable secrecy surrounded the proceedings through which Mrs. Donnelley won the divorce and a property settlement including alimony of $30,000 annually for life regardless of whether she remarries. The bill was filed on April 9, but was not recorded in the chancery records. The brief hearing was held in Judge Dady's chambers.

Wed in War Romance.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Donnelley are members of families long prominent in Chicago's business and social life. Mrs. Donnelley is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Pauling of 1248 Astor street. Her marriage to the son and heir of the late Reuben H. Donnelley took place on Nov. 17, 1917, in Chicago, after a war romance in which Donnelley, a naval lieutenant, hurried home on furlough for the ceremony.

Mrs. Donnelley appeared in the Waukegan court Monday with a member of the Chicago law firm of Judah, Reichmann & Trumbull. Donnelley, who is reported to be out of the city on a vacation trip, was represented by the firm of Taylor, Miller, Busch & Boyden. Mrs. Donnelley testified briefly, stating that her husband deserted her early in March of 1929, shortly after the death of his father.

Her testimony was corroborated by her father and Mrs. Alexander Dunkin, 5833 Stony Island avenue, secretary of the estates of Reuben H. Donnelley and Mrs. Laura Thorne Donnelley, who died in 1918.

Given Lake Forest Home.

The property settlement was set forth in a notarized agreement, which, it was revealed, was written before the divorce bill was filed. In addition to the yearly alimony of $30,000 Mrs. Donnelley receives the Lake Forest home at 940 East Deerpath and paid up memberships in three north shore country clubs.

To guarantee payment of the alimony Donnelley has given Mrs. Donnelley an assignment of all dividends, interest and other income which will become payable to him during his lifetime under the terms of a trust estate left to him by his mother. He will also draw up l... will making her the beneficiary of a $525,000 trust.

Donnelley is 35 years old. He lives at the Racquet club, but also maintains an apartment at 45 East Oak street. He was left a $6,000,000 trust estate by his father.

Defeated Peoria Mayor Fires 17 Firemen, 12 Cops

Peoria, Ill., April 14.—[Special.]—Seventeen policemen and twelve fire fighters were dropped from the Peoria departments today by Mayor E. N. Woodruff. Reduction in the appropriations for both police and fire departments was assigned as the reason, but politicians claim that the discharged employés were opposed to the city hall slate in the recent election.

O. K. BILL FIXING YEAR DESERTION DIVORCE GROUND

House Group Votes Its Approval.

Springfield, Ill., April 14.—[Special.]—The house judiciary committee this afternoon approved the Woodward bill making one year of absence instead of two sufficient grounds for divorce on charges of desertion. No opposition to the change was expressed in the committee.

Judge Harry A. Lewis of Chicago, proponent of the bill, emphasized 37 per cent of the divorces granted in Cook county during 1930 were given on cruelty pleas and he estimated that half of these charges were "mere subterfuges and a great per cent perjury."

Prefer to Wait Year.

"If the desertion requirements are changed to one year," he told the committee, "most of the people will prefer to wait the year rather than perjure themselves on the witness stand."

A warmer session in the committee was held over the anti-vivisectionist bill introduced by Representative Edwin B. Bederman [Rep., Chicago]. John P. Snigg, former state's attorney of Sangamon county, did most of the arguing for the measure, reading extracts from medical books of tortures allegedly inflicted on living animals in the name of science. He was seconded by Dr. Percival J. Clarke and Mrs. Charlotte Hunt of Chicago, president of the Illinois anti-vivisection society.

Quotes Bernard Shaw.

"Not even a common cold can be cured by vivisection," Snigg declared. He read expressions against vivisection from George Bernard Shaw, George Arliss, the actor, and Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin of Chicago.

Physicians attached to the medical schools of the University of Chicago, Northwestern University, and Loyola university were present to refute Snigg's arguments, but they desisted when they saw the sentiment of the committee clearly was against the bill.

SAMPSON ELECTRIC CO.

CHICAGO DISTRIBUTOR FOR

WILLIAMS ICE-O-MATIC REFRIGERATORS

THE Sampson Electric Company has been in business in Chicago for 10 years. Their outstanding success in the distribution of Atwater-Kent radios proves the soundness of their methods. It is significant that such a leading organization should seek the Chicago distribution for Williams Ice-O-Matic electric refrigerators.

Sampson engineers thoroughly investigated all makes of refrigeration before making their final choice. Careful tests were made of cooling ability and operating costs. Only after passing these rigorous comparative tests—which supplemented those made by the Good Housekeeping Institute—did Sampson approve Ice-O-Matic and offer it to their dealers in Chicago and surrounding territory. Williams Ice-O-Matic is built by the makers of the world famous Williams Oil-O-Matic—and backed by Williams famous 3-year guarantee on all mechanical parts in Ice-O-Matic's unit.

See Ice-O-Matic Today

Today, at the nearby neighborhood dealer listed below, you are invited to a special display of the complete Ice-O-Matic line. Here you will see compact Ice-O-Matics for small apartments and huge ones for largest homes. You will like the quiet Ice-O-Matic sealed unit which can be on top of the cabinet or below, as you prefer. Best of all, you will like Williams Ice-O-Matic best because it combines all the most important advantages of modern electric refrigeration.

Thousands of enthusiastic Ice-O-Matic owners say Ice-O-Matic more than repays its moderate price by savings on food and ice bills! Come to this special exhibition today. Get all the money-saving facts at your nearest Ice-O-Matic dealer.

CHICAGO, FORWARD!

The voters of Chicago have done a good job of political house cleaning. In the city hall a new régime has begun. Its chief is pledged to re-establish responsible public administration and has the strongest mandate any mayor has received from the people to support him. There is no doubt a better day dawns upon the city.

What has been done to restore Chicago's self-respect and to rescue our municipal affairs from wreckage must inspire every citizen to do his part for the city. Especially it ought to encourage and energize the business leadership of the community. The way is clear now for a restoration of Chicago business enterprise. In all lines this enterprise has been depressed, not merely by the general world-wide depression but also by our local affliction of waste and demoralization in government, of political scandal, of mounting taxation, of neglected streets, inadequate lighting, and undisciplined crime. There was a shadow over the spirit of Chicago, a blight upon its unsurpassed energy. That shadow and blight are gone. Opportunity invites every business man to go to work with restored faith in our future and revived confidence in its promise. Chicago's business enterprise has its duty to perform as well as Chicago's political citizenship. The reward is certain.

Chicago is and will remain the great central market of the continent. It is the greatest transportation center of the continent and will remain the greatest as the evolution of transport proceeds, through the opening of the great lakes-to the gulf waterway, the restoration of the Mississippi as a thoroughfare of trade, the further development of railroads and motor systems, and the establishment of airways over both continents. Situated at the strategic center of the vast economic organism of the United States, Chicago's destiny is clear. It is for Chicago's brains and character to exploit the unsurpassed possibilities of our situation.

Steadily the city has forged ahead, though checked now and then by mishaps and mistakes. We are now emerging from a serious and costly lapse and the way forward lies clear before us. Our forbears and predecessors were not cast down by worse reverses. Their successors of today have their example to hearten them and greater opportunities to inspire them. Under virile leadership Chicago will move forward again into the next great epoch of its history.

THE RUSSIANS EXPLAIN THE FARM BOARD.

The Moscow communist newspaper Pravda has an explanation of the farm board wheat operations which might interest the members of the board. It will give them to understand why they were doing what they were doing and what they expected to accomplish by it. In that way it may not be wholly unwelcome. The Russians have found a purpose. The half billion dollar operations in wheat, cotton, and wine may be in need of explanation before the board has closed its books, and any purpose may serve which can be ascribed.

It was military, the Russians say, a part of a conspiracy engaged in by the United States with France, Great Britain, and other capitalist enemies of the communist soviets. The farm board, on instructions from President Hoover, bought wheat for a French army. The French were to invade Russia and the United States was to furnish the supplies, which would explain the wheat purchases and possibly the cotton, but would leave the wine business unaccounted for. But then the wine business of the farm board cannot be accounted for—not even by the Russians. Even aside from wine, the Russian explanation is not credible. The Russians are crazy.

If there had been any conspiracy to invade Russia, the United States would have been required by its renewed allies first to cancel the international debts and then to make new loans. It would have been required to raise another army and transport it to Europe with supplies not only for it but for several European armies, whether engaged in the invasion or not. Paris would have already named two blocks of the Avenue du Bois de Boulogne the Rue Herbert Hoover, and some one would have saluted La Fayette with "Himmel, it's arga." The American army would have been headed for Archangel and soon would have been put to work getting out timber for the five year plan.

The Russian discovery of a conspiracy involving the United States lacks verisimilitude and convincement. It is too simple. It does not take account of our native genius for service or make a suitable play on it. The plan accredited to America lacks the spiritual greatness and moral thoroughness which will mark any such efforts when the American people are engaged in affairs which are none of their business. This is a pale and unbelievable conspiracy. The United States would have none of it.

For the Russians crazy as they are, it must be said that they probably have in mind the former Archangel expedition, one of the lunar undertakings of American statesmanship. With that in the background, even a nutty commissar seems sane whatever he thinks and says; and, furthermore, the Russians may remember that Secretary Hyde of the department of agriculture accused the Chicago Board of Trade last year of being the agent of a Russian conspiracy to destroy capitalism here by dumping wheat in America. One good conspiracy deserves another.

FIREMEN.

The splendid courage and devotion of Chicago's firemen have been shown again in circumstances which compel more attention than we give to the ordinary service of the department. In the midst of the community's grief for the men who gave their lives to duty it must pay tribute of gratitude and admiration to a body of public servants whose members face danger daily and who never fall short of their trust.

TO MAKE A BAIL BOND BINDING.

State's Attorney Swanson's approval of the bail bond bills formulated and favored by the Commonwealth club ought to insure favorable action at this session. It is recognized by any one who has given the administration of the criminal law in this community attention that one of its most persistent and serious evils is the abuse of the right of bail. This abuse is largely, though not wholly, the result of the failure to make bail bond forfeitures effective. Bonds with inadequate security have been approved. Irresponsible bondsmen have been accepted. Forfeitures have not been persistently pursued. A condition grew up in which bail became a rotten net through which offenders easily escaped. There has been improvement since the battle with organized crime in its present phase began, but, as Mr. Swanson points out, remedial legislation has been needed to establish a more efficient system.

The licensing and official regulation of bondsmen is desirable and will relieve magistrates from the virtually impossible task of investigating the character of securities in every case. The provision making it a felony in felony cases to forfeit bond will greatly strengthen the restraint which bail bonds are supposed to fasten upon persons charged with serious crime. The creation of a special agency for the supervision of bail bonds should bring the whole situation under responsible control. Reliable information will thus be made immediately available to the courts. The procedure necessary to the enforcement of forfeiture by a chancery proceeding is another desirable reform.

None of these proposals infringes upon the constitutional rights of the individual charged with an offense against the law. They are directed at abuses which have worked entirely against justice and have been wide open exits for the guilty. They will go a long way toward correcting evils which have done more perhaps than any other weakness of our administration of criminal law to make law contemptible in the eyes of professional lawbreakers.

TRAVEL FOR CONGRESSMEN.

A large number of congressmen are availing themselves of the opportunity to take passage on army and navy transports. The congressional privilege covers everything except food, which is furnished at a dollar and a half a day per person. The congressman may take his family and the arrangement offers pleasant trips at the lowest costs. The advantages find ready customers.

The objectives for the transport service are American possessions, and the effect of the trips on any rational minded congressman ought naturally to be good. There are and will be exceptions. Senator Smith Wildman Brookhart goes to Panama and is a nuisance. As a censor he becomes inflamed and irritates at all contacts. Back in Washington he will be the worse for his trip. Mr. Brookhart is congenitally parochial and congenial to the desert. Other congressional censors will travel only to view with alarm and rebuke, being the brotherhood of minor prophets, but the normal minded statesman—gracious assumption that this is the average—ought to be favorably acted upon by an extension of experience and observation. Any viewpoint other than the Washington one is likely to be desirable.

A round of American territory, continental and over seas, should impress the average man with the reasonableness and importance of promoting the welfare of the American republic. It represents achievement and, a sensible man need not be ashamed to say, astonishing achievement. Its progress has been one in the enhancement of human worth and welfare. Its material assets and accomplishments are spread over a large area and familiarity with them should incline a reasonable fellow toward their protection and promotion.

A congressman who knows the navy intimately, who has seen American administration in colonial possessions, and who has been on the frontiers of the American nation should be a stancher nationalist for the experience and the acquaintance.

Editorial of the Day

DR. FRANCE GOES IN.

[Baltimore Sun.]

Exercising the constitutional right by which any citizen may offer himself for public office, former Senator Joseph I. France has emerged from a retirement of eight years to announce his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination in 1932. His declaration achieves its greatest significance from the fact that it is the first formal salvo from that quarter of the Republican party which is hostile to President Hoover and from which, if circumstances favor such a development, the President may, during the next fourteen months, find himself subjected to a more or less vigorous barrage of Republican criticism.

Now that Senator France has broken the ice with a blast decidedly anti-Hoover in character, the charm which has protected the President against open intra-party criticism may lose some of its effect. If this actually happens, Dr. France's candidacy will have been justified. Even though Mr. Hoover, profiting by the advantages which a President always enjoys, succeeds in winning the renomination he is believed to covet, he and his party alike may easily profit from a realistic examination of his record and his policies by influential members of his own party.

The platform which former Senator France enunciated in launching his bid for his party's nomination indicates that he has chosen to pitch his campaign upon a high level. His demand for candor and courage in dealing with the prohibition question and his intimation that President Hoover has been lacking in those qualities will appeal to a large and growing Republican element in the eastern states which have long been dissatisfied with President Hoover's stand on the eighteenth amendment. Similarly, Dr. France's demand for an end of compromise will awaken sympathetic echoes in those quarters where the present administration's policy of temporization has met with little favor. In this and in other important respects Senator France has set an example of dignity and careful reasoning for other foes of the administration to follow.

STOP THAT ITCH.

ITCHING is not a disease. It is only a symptom. When a doctor speaks of an itching eruption he calls it pruritis and throws in a Latin adjective or two for good measure. Well, pruritis is not a disease. But itching, even by a Latin name, is very annoying, and so long as it is, the person with the itching does not care how much fighting the dogs do over the bone. He would be satisfied if he could find a way to get relief. This is a busy world and no one has time to scratch all day. For this, and other good reasons, he wants help.

Drs. Downing and Blumenfield offer him what he wants. They say calcium gluconate is what he is looking for. If he wants to take it internally, the dose is one teaspoonful three times a day. However, a better plan, these physicians say, is to inject about two and a half teaspoonfuls of a 10 per cent solution in water into the muscles, or into a vein. One injection will relieve the itching for eight hours and two injections a day should keep one reasonably comfortable.

About as effective a local sedative—that is, a remedy to ease itching—as we know of is a watery solution of carbolic acid. This, as a skin sedative, has been compared to opium as a general sedative. The objection to it is that carbolic acid is a poison, and if it be absorbed in any material quantity the kidneys will be harmed. A good deal of carbolic acid can absorb through a well scratched skin. Calcium gluconate, internally or by injection, is offered as safe.

Physicans are far from being agreed as to the physiological cause of itching. Dr. Pottenger holds that it results from some disturbance of the sympathetic nervous system. This calcium salt was chosen because calcium salts have some action on the nervous system. They are used in the treatment of tetany, convulsions, hay fever, and some other diseases in which the nervous system needs stabilizing. Among the salts of calcium in use are the chloride and the lactate. The gluconate was chosen because it can be given for a long time without causing acidosis.

This remains to be said: If itching is a symptom it may have a disease cause and it often does. The old plan of leaving a man with this symptom to scratch it out had one advantage. It made him try hard to find and remove the basic cause. If calcium gluconate proves satisfactory in giving relief it will remove the incentive to get rid of the cause.

DISTRESSING EXPERIENCE.

Mrs. A. A. writes: I was 19 years old when I, a healthy, normal woman, married a man who seemed to be normal and healthy. I have borne twelve children—nine boys and three girls. When the first boy was two years old he developed convulsions. The physician said he was a helpless idiot. He died at 14 years of age. The other eight boys were affected the same way. One girl is in a home for epileptics, and I expect the other two girls to develop the same trouble. Now my husband is showing signs of the same sickness. This makes me believe in heredity and in examination before marriage.

REPLY.

Your experience is distressing, but I am not certain ordinary examination before marriage would have helped in your case. Both yourself and husband were in good health then and for years afterwards. In all probability, some members of your family or your husband's are feeble-minded. That quality is inherited. A mental examination which included the family history as to feeble-mindedness might have prevented the trouble.

EPSOM SALTS.

Mrs. L. R. M. writes:

1. Is epsom salts a germicide?
2. Will a strong solution of it, taken internally, destroy disease germs in the stomach and intestines?
3. Is the moderate use of epsom salts in the manner described above, when needed for relief of constipation, harmful?

REPLY.

1. No.
2. No.
3. Yes. The constipation habit should be overcome by other means. Taking salts makes it worse.

MATRIMONIAL COMPLICATIONS.

Chicago, March 31.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. A wife deserted her husband five years ago, her whereabouts being unknown. Can he be held responsible for her debts? 2. Recently her sister informed me that she had obtained a divorce and remarried two years ago, but there is no record of the divorce in this state. Will it be necessary for me to find the record of it before I marry? 3. Is it also necessary for me to have a copy of that decree?

W. J. G.

1. In general, a husband remains liable for his wife's necessary expenses until divorce.
2. It would be highly advisable, since unless you examine the records you have no way of being sure that your information is correct.
3. The license clerk is likely to ask for a copy. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

PRESENT YOUR CLAIM.

Chicago, March 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Please let me know how to go about getting data on an estate. The owner died intestate leaving a fortune which is being held by some persons in Chicago. My mother was a second cousin and I consider myself a legal heir to part of this fortune. C. S.

Follow up clews in your possession. If the estate was probated in the Probate court of Cook county you can examine the records in the office of the clerk of the court. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CONTRIBUTIONS.

Chicago, March 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My husband's mother, who has a husband in good health, and who is a stepfather to my husband, wants us to give to her support, which we are unable to do, having a home which we are paying for and two children. My husband is a government employe and his earnings are barely sufficient to support us. We offered to have my mother-in-law come to live with us but have refused to take in her husband. Please advise if we have to give to her support as her husband is out of work, being more or less indolent. M. J. H.

In our opinion, you should not be expected to contribute, on the facts stated. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

IT'S A WARNING, GOV.: IT'S A WARNING!

Ah, Gov. Emmerson, gaze upon the picture of Alfonso, king of Spain. A king may set aside the wishes of his people, but, Gov., they get him in the end. Oh, they get him, and when they get him they get him good. You and Alfonso, Gov., you and Alfonso!

"I am not for nullification," said Gov. Emmerson, in vetoing the repealing bill. It wasn't a question, Mr. Emmerson, what you were or what you were not. A mandate was handed you by we, the people of the state of Illinois. It had nothing to do with your personal beliefs; it had to do only with your position as governor of the state, sworn to carry out the wishes of the majority of its sovereign voters. You may not be for nullification, governor. You may not be for dunking corn pone in pot likker. You may not be for fishing with angle worms. You may not be for wearing a red tie with your Sunday clothes. You may not be for passing toothpicks to the guests after a formal dinner. But when we, the people, give you an order, governor, who are you to jump up and say what you think about it? Huh?

BALLADE OF SINGING SOULS.

I sing the land where I make my home,
Where culture is rampant and fame is free,
Where art springs out of the untilled loam
And the poets outnumber the sands of the sea;
Where ladies will write with the utmost glee
Of pagan desire and passion intense,
Volume on volume, reckless and free,

A land that stretches from foam to foam
Has plenty of room in city or lea
For the lass with the solid amethyst dome
(It isn't polite to say ivory)
To sell her soul with a gesture free
On paper, a dollar and seventy cents,
A charge that unluckily has to be
Since she published them all at her own expense.

A lyrical lady should never roam
Too far from the land of the rhythmic free;
Here, when the gloaming begins to gloam
And I am aquiver with ecstasy,
I'll run the thing into poetry,
Because, if the publisher never relents,
I'll publish it all at my own expense.

Prince, I swear it, my fun shall be Paid for at last by my luckless friends;
If the world neglects to discover me
I'll publish the stuff at my own expense.

AND THEY SAY that the 18th amendment having been made a part of the constitution of the United States it is forever irrevocable. But there has been a monarchy in Spain for 981 years and yesterday Alfonso got the gate. And the sacred 18th has been on the throne only 11 years. And that isn't long compared to 981 years.

IT OUGHT NOT to be hard to keep our little children over here in the United States from reading communistic literature from Russia. All we've got to do is to show 'em Hank Wales' dispatch from Moscow in which he tells that in Russia the school day is sixteen hours long. What, go to school sixteen hours a day? Oh, how the little children will hate the nasty old Reds then.

HE TRANSPIRED FREELY.

It was like this: A man in Omaha was standing by his automobile when two very casual acquaintances came by. One of them said to the other: "But, my dear fellow, you don't mean 'transpire' when you are speaking of a man sweating; you mean 'perspire.'" "I'll leave it to this fellow," said the other man, waving his hand at the auto owner. "I say 'transpire' means to sweat." "Oh, not at all," said the auto owner; "'transpire' means 'to happen'; 'perspire' means to sweat."

"Bet you fifty bucks against your automobile," said the second man.

The bet was made. Then the second of the two very casual acquaintances flashed a dictionary. He turned to "transpire," showed it to the auto owner, and drove away with the car.

"But you don't say 'transpire'—" Well, bring around your auto or your farm or your Dunes cottage or what have you, and we'll bet you. People having been winning money on this one ever since dictionaries were invented. This seems a good year for us to do it, too.

SOME DAY.

Some day I'm going to find a house
Beneath a violet sky
With candle light in the rooms at night
And a long road winding by,
Where roses tumble across the doors,
And the grass is thick on the ground,
And the four o'clocks and the hollyhocks
Have a small white fence around,
And one window looking across the brook,
And one on a gypsy way,
At a figure that I can pay!

100 PER CENT AMERICANS who have Hamfish nightmares every night about what Soviet Russia may do to These United States in the long run should cheer up. Russian purchases in this country have been cut 44.8 per cent in the last six months, and the money is now spent in England, France, and Germany. Russia got mad at us because of things we said about her. Gosh, Russia, can't you take a joke?

SOMEBODY that didn't have anything better to do has estimated that with the 14,000 new laws passed last year by congress and the legislatures of the various states we now have on the books something like 10,014,000 laws. For a free country we are going quite well. R. H. L.

APRIL 15, 1915.

LONDON.—A German Zeppelin tonight passed over at least nine towns in Northumberland and Durham counties, in northeast England, and dropped bombs. Inquiry shows that no loss of life or serious injury resulted from the Zeppelin raid, although several small houses were damaged.

ROTTERDAM. — Another Zeppelin has been wrecked in Belgium. While flying over the district of Ypres it was heavily shot at and badly damaged. It came down a wreck amidst the trees near Maria Aeltre.

PETROGRAD.—The Russian staff has called to the colors additional classes of reserves, which will almost double the present army strength. The Hungarian civil authorities have evacuated Ungvar, the immediate objective of a Russian column which has crossed the Carpathians west of the Uzsok pass.

ATHENS.—The Turks are daily massing troops in the Gallipoli peninsula. A great number of German airplanes have arrived.

BERLIN.—The French have renewed their ferocious attack against both sides of the German wedge in the San Mihiel region, the general headquarters announced.

CHICAGO.—Chicago was pictured as the greatest summer resort in the world by Spearman Lewis, a Chicago newspaper man, in an address to the ways and means committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce. "Let us tell the people of the United States of our lake breezes," he said. "Let us tell every one we can reach that on State street there is a greater textile exhibit than at the San Francisco exhibition. Why don't we advertise our free bathing beaches? Send out word that every summer day is a big day in Chicago."

CHICAGO. — Dr. N. Nagusha of Japan, who is a visitor in Chicago, says that a world war on rats is to be proposed by his country, which has been conducting an exhaustive investigation and has reached the conclusion that the rodents are a menace to humankind. Nagusha's government is to appeal to civilization to wage a war of extermination, according to Dr. Nagusha, who is a prominent bacteriologist.

ATLANTA, Ga. — Bishop H. M. Turner, president of the Sixth Episcopal district of the African Methodist Episcopal church, declared that Negroes eventually will have to establish a government of their own in Africa. He reiterated declarations in his Easter day sermon that he favors the banishing of all Negro criminals to Africa.

CHICAGO.—Ringling's circus had a rest last [Sunday] evening. The Rev. Ernest M. Stires and his congregation of the Grace Episcopal church, next door to the Coliseum where the circus was to show, objected and a license was refused for a performance. However, Treasurer Meager of the show company declared that the Rev. Mr. Stires "is a good fellow."

CHICAGO.—For the first time in the history of the levee women were kept out of State street saloons south of Van Buren street and saloons in Custom House place were closed.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 15, 1881.

WASHINGTON.—Robert Hitt of Chicago has been nominated by President Garfield as first assistant secretary of state, and has decided to enter upon his duties at once because John Hay refuses to remain in the position longer. The deadlock in the senate prevents Mr. Hitt's confirmation. Edward W. Phelps was appointed postmaster at Oak Park, Ill.

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—Deputy United States marshals, who have been in Kentucky for several days looking for the notorious James brothers of bank robbery fame, arrived here. They state they located them near Andersonville, Ky., where the brothers and several friends are fortified and threaten desperate resistance if attacked.

ST. PETERSBURG.—All the convicted nihilists except Hersey Helfman, who is enceinte and whose execution will be delayed until after her confinement, will be hanged tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. A number of nihilists attacked the prison where the condemned prisoners are detained. Twenty nihilists were captured with bombs in their possession.

THE VETO.

Brookfield, Ill., April 13.—In the face of probable defeat at the next election and the poison darts of the wet press and politicians, Gov. Emmerson vetoed the wet repeal bill. Do you admire his courage? Do you wish you were as brave? God hates a coward!

WILLIAM A. GRAHAM.

POLITICAL OBLIVION.

Chicago, April 13.—Gov. Emmerson's veto of the prohibition repealer dooms him to political oblivion and further clears the way for a Democratic cleanup in all elections. The people, by a majority vote on the referendum, indicated their wishes on prohibition; now Mr. Emmerson says he knows better what is good for us.

There has been too much horse play, fence straddling, and selling out. We young voters are tired of it.

D. MACDONALD.

A CRUSHING BLOW.

Chicago, April 13. — The Republican party has lost considerably in the last two elections held in Illinois. The sweeping Republican victory of 1928 will never occur again as long as this party so completely ignores the will of the majority and is dominated by the dry forces in the state.

Gov. Emmerson has administered a crushing blow to the Republican party by his deliberate veto of a repeal bill which has been sanctioned by such a large majority of Illinois voters. He is opening the way for a Democratic landslide again in Illinois for 1932.

ILLINOIS MILK FOR ILLINOIS BABIES.

Chicago, April 13.—While the legislature is in session why doesn't it pass a law excluding Indiana and Wisconsin milk from Chicago? If this foreign milk were kept out there would be a big demand for Illinois milk and all our home farmers would prosper.

NOT A NEW LINCOLN.

Washington, D. C., April 14.—Gov. Emmerson is apparently mistaken when he says framers of the Illinois Republican platform intended that the pledge to obey the referendum would be binding only if and after the eighteenth amendment was repealed. Don't believe reservation was even mentioned at the midnight conference in the governor's mansion at Springfield. The point was not raised in the resolutions committee, which approved the draft of the platform drawn at the midnight conference of leaders. Emmerson is not a new Lincoln, but a used Ford.

FREDERICK A. SMITH.

BENEFITS FROM AN ISLAND.

Chicago, April 6.—My interest in the proposed island to form a protected harbor for Chicago led me during my recent winter vacation spent at Miami, Fla., to look into the figures concerning yachts docking there. Mr. Jack Bauder, who is in charge of the municipally owned harbor improvements, supplied some interesting information.

Mr. Bauder states that there have been $75,000,000 worth of yachts docking there during the winter of 1930-1931.

Seventy-five yachts between 100 and 200 feet in length have been in port in Miami this past season. In addition, an uncounted swarm of small fry have used the port facilities.

The total crew, meaning paid hands only, was approximately 3,500 men. Their pay averages $100 per month, or $350,000 each month, most of which is spent in the city.

Supplies and fuel for all yachts, all spent in Miami, averages $400,000 per month for the season.

The sum spent by owners and guests for amusements, etc., is not calculable but is obviously very large.

The large Diesel yacht, merely calling in to refuel and restock, requiring less than one day's time, spends from $1,000 to $2,000 before departing.

If proper yacht anchorages in an attractive setting constructed on an adequate scale are provided for Chicago there is no doubt but that our own fleet would grow to 5,000 boats, many of them between 100 and 200 feet, and the figures quoted above as applying to Miami would be proportionately greater. The monthly pay roll of such a fleet would approximate $300,000 per month for about six months. Such an industry can be acquired, along with all the other advantages too numerous to repeat here, with what is actually a nominal investment. K. M. WALKER.

FROM A ROLLER SKATER.

Chicago, April 9.—I would like to see before this summer is over an outdoor roller skating rink. I am not going to specify any particular section of the city as I'm quite sure that a great many skating lovers will not mind traveling a half hour or so to the rink.

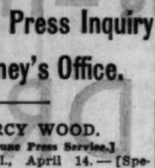
BEGIN REPRISALS FOR EMMERSON DRY REPEAL VETO

House Will Press Inquiry Into Kinney's Office.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 14.—[Special.]—Reprisals against the administration for. Gov. Emmerson's veto of the O'Grady-McDermott state prohibition law repealer were started in the legislature today by the liberals.



G. D. KINNEY.

What action will be taken to push a new wet bill will be decided tomorrow morning at a caucus of all the house members who voted for repeal. The attempt to pass the bill over the veto was postponed two weeks in order that all possible ways may be considered and the one thing that seemed certain to ensue in the interim is the continual harassing of the Emmerson administration.

Asks Inquiry Into Finances.

As a starter the Democrats got action on Representative Howard L. Doyle's resolution which asks that an investigation be made to determine why Secretary of State Stratton obtains 1½ per cent interest on state funds he places in banks, while Director of Finance Garrett D. Kinney, an Emmerson cabinet member, makes no attempt to secure this revenue from his deposits.

The resolution has lain in the appropriations committee since Feb. 17, having been assigned to a subcommittee which hadn't met. It met this afternoon, however, after Representative Thomas J. O'Grady [Dem., Chicago], author of the vetoed bill, and Doyle [Dem., Decatur] called for a meeting this morning.

At the subcommittee session, Doyle reiterated his claims that Mr. Statton paid the state $17,285 interest in 1930, and said that Kinney retained a daily balance of more than $2,000,000, which should bear even more returns. "If one man can do it, why can't another?" Doyle asked.

The administration floor leader, Representative Roger F. Little [Rep., Champaign], suggested that Mr. Kinney, State Auditor Nelson and State Treasurer Barrett be called to "explain" the situation tomorrow and Doyle added the name of Ben Alexander, St. Louis newspaper reporter, who investigated the situation weeks ago, to the list of witnesses.

Liberals Confer Today.

Tomorrow morning the liberals will consider a variety of suggestions for a continuation of the repeal fight. One, coming from Leroy M. Green [Rep., Rockford] is that all appropriation bills be held up.

Many of the budgets for the administration controlled departments have already passed the house, but there remains, among others, the $30,000,000 appropriation for the department of public welfare. A considerable portion of the liberals are known to be sympathetic with Green's idea to the extent of trimming the budgets to the bare necessities. Minority Leader M. L. Igoe [Dem., Chicago] is of the opinion that the appropriations should be kept down rigidly, insofar as the action does not hamper the operations of the state government. No department appropriation bills were called for passage in the house today.

New Bill with Referendum.

It is possible that a new bill carrying a referendum clause, the sort of measure the governor favored in his veto message, will be introduced. If that eventuates it would be the fourth referendum placed before the people of the state. On each occasion the voters have called for repeal.

O'Grady began his fight immediately following the reading of the veto message. "This message is ridiculous and conflicting," he said. "The governor did everything he could to defeat the bill. He couldn't realize that the 91 members of the house and 26 senators who voted for it were expressing the will of the people.

"It is quite plain that he is angling for the Republican vice presidential nomination next year. I hope they do line him up with Hoover and I hope three Democrats are nominated in every district for this house. Then the only Republican that will be elected in the next election will be Speaker Dave Shanahan. He's been here so long he can't be defeated."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 14.—[Special.]—Nearly a thousand women, many of them bearing some of America's most distinguished names, today cheered their 18th amendment repeal recruits, jeered at the Wickersham report, and predicted that it won't be long now before "even the most hypocritical congressman" will vote as he drinks.

MRS. AUGUST BELMONT.

It was the opening session of the second annual conference of the Woman's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, an unwieldy title, the members are free to admit, but better than the tag "wet" which they don't care about. Still, they pointed out, W.E.T. is pretty good as a symbol—Woman's Endeavor to Temperance—which is what they pledge themselves to be.

Working for True Temperance.

"Our battle," said Mrs. Charles H. Sabin [Chicago's former Polly Morton], chairman of the organization, "Is for true temperance as against enforcement total abstinence. It puts principle above party. It is for sobriety against the speak-easy."

Rejoicing in the fact that the membership, which numbered 100,000 last year, is now more than 300,000, Mrs. Sabin declared that their increased strength had sharpened the attacks of their adversaries.

Looking around the big ball room of the Mayflower Hotel, one certainly saw no wives of brewers; no daughters of distillers. Instead one saw a Roosevelt and a Dupont; a Bruce from Maryland and a Bancroft from Boston; Belmonts and Van Rensselaers and Courtlands. One saw seven diamond bracelets on the wrist of Delaware's Mrs. Dupont; one saw a dog collar around the aristocratic throat of Massachusetts Mrs. Robert Lovett. And, right in the midst of the proceedings, some one got up and announced that one of the delegates had lost a sable scarf.

Mrs. August Belmont, still possessed of the deep and dramatic voice she had as Eleanor Robeson on the stage, seemed to sound the slogan of the meeting when she said: "Prohibition is an intemperate temperance measure, and therefore, intolerable."

Discusses Newspaper Opinion.

"If a newspaper honestly and sincerely believes that the 18th amendment and its unlovely progeny, the Volstead act, violate the purpose and spirit of the constitution, that they encroach on the right of local self government, that they are corrupting in effect and destructive of temperance, then it is 'Wet.' More than that, it is in 'league with the liquor interests' and its opinions are 'bought and paid for' by those interests. It cares nothing for morality; it does not want a sober nation. It is simply a rum soaked rag.

"But the newspaper that supports the eighteenth amendment and regards the Volstead act as sacrosanct, that applauds the 'noble' motive of the experiment and blinds itself to the deplorable consequences of that experiment, as so tragically set forth in the Wickersham report, is a 'dry' newspaper, worthy of the encomiums of the righteous."

Holy Man Dissatisfied with Delay.

AHMEDABAD, India, April 14.—(AP)—Apprehension was caused in government circles today by the statement of friends of Mahatma Gandhi that he was contemplating marshaling his nonviolent crusaders again for a new assault on British rule in India.

The Nationalist leader was said to be dissatisfied with the delay of officials in fulfilling all the terms of his new Delhi agreement with Viceroy Lord Irwin.

Gandhi's decision to renew his nonviolent campaign for independence of India would be at variance with the spirit of his truce with the viceroy. In concluding his discussions with Lord Irwin, he committed himself to participate in a second round table conference in London, where it was hoped that permanent peace would be attained.

Has Eye on Future.

Some observers believe that revival of the fight by the nationalist leader is an attempt to force the government to carry out the stipulations of the new Delhi agreement to the letter, especially in regard to the release of all political prisoners and the return of property confiscated from peasants for nonpayment of taxes.

Others say that Gandhi will renew the fight with a view toward the future rather than the present. He is described by certain radical elements of the All-India Nationalist congress as having lost hope of securing the Nationalists' demands through the instrumentality of the new Delhi pact at the second round table conference.

Despondent Over Failure.

This group says that the mahatma has been despondent since his negotiations to settle the Moslem-Hindu communal problem broke down and Gandhi was openly charged with double dealing and deceit. This, coupled with the government's alleged default in certain terms of the truce, has impressed him with the necessity for further action in event the London conference is not satisfactory.

In any case he is expected to see Lord Irwin in Bombay this week and also to confer with Lord Willingdon, the new viceroy, after he arrives Friday. He is expected to seek from both some clarification of the situation before he again throws down the gauntlet to the British empire.

BILL TO CURB TRUCKS IS SENT TO SENATE FOR THIRD READING

Springfield, Ill., April 14.—[Special.]—A measure limiting the length of trucks and their trailers on highways to a length of 35 feet was sent to third reading in the senate today, the result of the report of a sub-committee headed by Senator Charles H. Thompson [Rep., Harrisburg]. The 35 feet limit does not apply to the transportation of poles, piling and structural units incapable of dismemberment.

No load extending more than six inches beyond the fender line is to be carried on the left side running board, and the bill says no vehicle shall be driven on any public highway unless it is loaded to prevent its contents from dropping or leaking.

The maximum gross weight permitted on the road surface on pneumatic tired vehicles is 16,000 pounds through any axle. Gross weight, including weight of vehicle and load, shall not exceed 24,000 pounds. For six or more wheeled vehicles the limit is 40,000 pounds. Hard tired vehicles shall not exceed 80 per cent of the weights prescribed for pneumatic tired vehicles.

AIR MAIL LINE LINDBERGH FLEW MARKS 5TH YEAR

The Chicago-St. Louis air mail line, inaugurated by Col. Lindbergh and Maj. Phil Love of St. Louis, celebrated its fifth anniversary yesterday. Lindbergh and Love were the regular pilots when the service opened. Established by the Robertson Aircraft corporation, the line has changed hands several times and is now controlled by American Airways, Inc. Col. Halsey Dunwoody, general manager, said the monthly poundage of air mail carried by the line today is more than that carried during the first eight months of its operation.

A group of Chicagoans endeavoring to find a way out of Cook county's tax dilemma went to Springfield last night to appear before the subcommittee on revenue of the Illinois house of representatives this afternoon when they will present recommendations for new taxing legislation. The Chicagoans went to Springfield at the invitation of Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg, chairman of the revenue subcommittee which is considering a measure designed to consolidate the county's taxing bodies.

Among those who will appear before the committee are Attorney Silas Strawn, Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank; Paul H. Moore, secretary of the citizen's committee, and Joseph K. Britain, chairman of the municipal revenue committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Mr. Strawn said last night that he would urge that the positions of 38 county tax assessors and reviewers be abolished and that a joint board of three members be created to do the work that is now being done by five tax assessors, a board of five reviewers and 30 township assessors.

Consider Other Tax Reforms.

Mr. Strawn said that this centralized taxing board could be either elective or appointive. Other legislation aimed at tax reform will be discussed by the Chicagoans and the present ills suffered by the city as a result of the tax muddle will be described by them.

Unless relief legislation is enacted, Chicago bankers, now holding tax anticipation warrants for 1929 and 1930, will refuse to make further loans to the county's municipalities, the delegation is expected to inform the house subcommittee.

BIG BUSINESS TOLD TO SOLVE OWN PROBLEMS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 14.—[Special.]—If business wishes to avert government interference and industry expects to avoid federal legislation it is about time that they developed some of the "rugged Americanism" and private initiative for which this country is famed, Senator James Couzens of Michigan said today in a statement aimed at the meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce, to be held in Atlantic City April 28.

"I hope," said Senator Couzens, "that in view of the fact that business has forbidden congress to devise ways and means for the stabilization of industry and the maintenance of continuous employment, these leading business men will solve the problem."

Coincident with the Michigan senator's statement another was issued by Senator La Follette of Wisconsin bitterly assailing President Hoover for having failed to permit federal aid to go to the drought stricken farmers and the unemployed.

Senator Couzens was emphatic in hurling back at business the blame business sought to put upon congress.

"Questions of unemployment insurance, old age pensions, the regulations of industry, do not arise in congress when there is a great need," he asserted. "Issues are not raised in congress out of thin air.

"If industry does not want government's interference in business it must prevent the need.

"Business leaders, said Senator Couzens, have an opportunity to mould public opinion and forestall governmental action by offering concrete proposals at the coming meeting and putting them into execution.

"While these captains of industry are in convention," said Senator Couzens, "I hope they will assure the millions of our citizens who are in great distress because of an inadequate living income how they propose to prevent a recurrence of the conditions which now have been existing for going on two years."

He reviewed treasury statistics showing that nearly 51 per cent of the nation's corporate net income is going to corporations having an annual income of more than $100,000.

"Will the chamber tell our people whether they approve of this tendency toward the accumulation of industrial power into the hands of the few?" Senator Couzens asked.

Ignores Hoover on Red Cross.

Senator La Follette denied the truth of President Hoover's claim, made in addition to the Red Cross yesterday, that the Red Cross had met the emergency.

"The failure of the government to feed the drought stricken farmers is due to the determined opposition of the President," he said. "Nor has the Red Cross expended one cent to relieve the distress of the 6,000,000 unemployed and the 5,000,000 on part time employment and their dependents. Municipal, county, state, and available relief funds are becoming exhausted. The situation is growing worse.

"The President seems to more anxiously regard nourishing the 'spirit' of those able to give charity than he does to nourish the body and thereby the spirit of the millions of innocent victims."

HUSBAND SETS WIFE AFIRE AND STABS BOARDER

West Salem, O., April 14.—[Special.]—After throwing oil over his wife and stepson and burning them alive, James McGregor stabbed a boarder to death and then hanged himself in a woodshed on his farm here today.

Neighbors, attracted by flames leaping through the roof of the house, rescued Mrs. Rachel Bernstein, a relative, who had been left in the burning house to die by McGregor.

Stepson First Victim.

Returning home after spending the night in a drinking orgy, McGregor threw oil all over the youth, ignited it and then raced into another room.

Mrs. McGregor, hearing her son's screams of agony, rushed to his aid, but her husband threw oil on her and then set fire to her dress.

It was then that McAfee, the boarder, came to the rescue. McGregor met him with a butcher knife and, after a furious battle, drove it into McAfee's heart.

Mrs. Bernstein, who is 81 years old, was taken upstairs and locked in a room that already was rapidly filling with smoke.

Saved by Neighbors.

Neighbors carried the unconscious woman out of the blazing house and then found the charred bodies of Mrs. McGregor, her son, and McAfee.

After the wholesale killings, McGregor went to the woodshed, linked a long chain over a beam, and hanged himself.

PROTEST TO PARK BOARD ON YACHT HARBOR PROJECT

Hear Gold Coast Property Owners at Meeting.

Objection to the proposed development of a yacht harbor and promenade in the area opposite Lake Shore drive between Ohio and Oak streets was voiced by a delegation of Streeterville property owners who appeared before the commissioners of Lincoln park at the board's meeting yesterday.

Members of the delegation declared that the project, if carried out, would result in a depreciation of property values in the neighborhood adjoining. The requirements for the new outer drive can be met without the large expenditure which the proposed harbor development would entail, they said.

Park Board's Harbor Plan.

The park commissioners contemplate the construction of a wide esplanade along the shoreline between Ohio and Oak streets, closing the gap between the shore and the north breakwater of the harbor in the lake between the two streets, widening of that breakwater to convert it into a pier with boat stalls, promenade, etc., and the development of the harbor as a yacht basin.

Attorney Stuart G. Shepard, spokesman for the property owners, pointed out that the Streeterville district was originally intended to be a strictly residential section and that if the plans of the commissioners were carried out the new park area would attract persons considered undesirable by the Streeterville residents and thus detract from the value of their property.

Mr. Shepard said the strip of parkway along the lake shore is sufficient for the construction of a 90 foot drive necessary to handle the flow of traffic over the new outer drive and link bridge.

Closing the gap in the breakwater would encourage fishing and other recreation on the pier, he said, and change the character of the harbor waters. He objected to the use of the harbor as a landing place for amphibian airplanes.

Oppose Shoreline Change.

The property owners said they opposed any change in the shoreline at this point or any alteration of the harbor and its environs. Their objections and those of other Streeterville residents, which will be made by letter this week, will be reviewed later by the commissioners, Vice President Sheldon Clark of the park board said.

The plans of the commissioners were made possible by the recent action of the war department granting control of the harbor region to the park board. Mr. Clark stated that the board has until May 5 to accept the government's offer.

Among the protesting property owners were Robert H. McCormick and Bert A. Massee.

START BOOM TO MAKE BRITTEN LONGWORTH'S SUCCESSOR IN HOUSE

Springfield, Ill., April 14.—[Special.]—A movement was launched by Illinois congressmen here today for Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep., Chicago] for speaker of the national house of representatives.

With the contest over the succession to Nicholas Longworth some seven months away, members of the Illinois delegation are booming the Chicagoan as a middle west candidate. They propose to line up delegations from near-by states. Congressman Will R. Wood of Lafayette, Ind., is one of the leading candidates in the limelight. Mr. Britten is now serving his tenth term, and his colleagues here today reported that his candidacy is rousing interest among members from Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, and other western states.

ILLINOIS JOBS AND PAY ROLLS GAIN IN MARCH

During March Illinois as a whole showed an increase of .1 per cent in manufacturing employment and pay roll totals, according to the monthly survey prepared by Howard B. Myers, chief of the bureau of statistics and research of the state department of labor. Six of the fifteen cities for which separate figures are compiled reported reduced employment, ranging from 1.2 per cent in Chicago to 8.5 per cent in the Sterling-Rock Falls territory.

In addition to a slight expansion in factory operations, an increasing volume of outdoor construction work aided in relieving the unemployment situation. The demand for farm labor throughout the month remained inactive. Reports from the free employment offices of the department of labor reflected a continued decline in the ratio of applicants for work to positions available.

N. Y. FIGHT FOR WATER DIVERSION IN HIGH COURT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 14.—[Special.]—Arguments in the suit brought by New Jersey to prevent New York state and New York city from diverting water from Delaware river tributaries for use in New York city were begun today before the United States Supreme court.

The court will take the case under advisement upon the conclusion of arguments tomorrow. The issues involved have attracted attention because their ultimate decision is expected to have a bearing on future water diversion controversies and because of the position of New York state, which recently opposed the Chicago sanitary district diversion, but which now urges a diversion to benefit its own citizens.

Argues Sewage Plank.

Today's arguments were almost entirely directed to a report of the special master, Charles N. Burch, who in February urged the court to hand down a decree permitting New York city to have a daily diversion of 440 million gallons, instead of the 600 millions sought, but on condition that plants be built to treat sewage and industrial waste. He also urged that the "system" of release and impounding asked for by Pennsylvania, an intervenor in the suit, be temporarily installed.

On the other hand, New Jersey insists that great damage would be done to its navigation, riparian rights, water power possibilities sanitation, oyster and shad industries, municipal water supply and recreational facilities. Mr. Burch found that "slight and immaterial" damage would be done in most of the instances named, and "somewhat more than slight damage" to the oyster and recreational features. He held that under the proposed 600 million gallon diversion, the total effect would be more than New Jersey should bear.

Need More Water in 1935.

Corporation Counsel Hilly of New York city pointed out that the city would need more water by 1935, that the tributaries were all within New York state and flowed into the Delaware where it was bounded by Pennsylvania, which, he commented, did not object to the program. He agreed with Mr. Burch's findings, but not with his conclusion that New Jersey would suffer too much under the 600 million gallon plan.

Chief Justice Hughes, who once prepared a brief in the matter on behalf of New York city, is taking no part in the court's consideration of the case.

A. D. Farwell Is Elected Mayor of Lake Forest

Albert D. Farwell was elected mayor of Lake Forest yesterday. Other officials chosen were Henry Rhode, city treasurer; Roy S. Wells, city supervisor; A. Duane Jackman, city marshal, and Edwin Burgess, police magistrate. Aldermen elected were Francis E. Manierre, Leslie A. Kelley, G. M. Leudke, and Lawrence D. Vaughn. None of the candidates had any opposition. Mr. Farwell succeeds A. B. Dick Jr.

No More Stomach Torture—Can Eat Everything—Sleeps Fine —Thanks New Prescription, ACIDINE

Physicians are prescribing ACIDINE. Thousands of people have found it the only relief from acid indigestion and dyspepsia, gas, pain, heartburn, coated tongue, bad taste, dizziness, fullness, short breath and other troubles from acid stomach. Pain goes like a flash.

WALGREEN DRUG STORES

REPLIES TO PARK PLEA TO REMOVE TRACKS ON DRIVE

Replying to a letter from Sheldon Clark, vice president of the Lincoln park board, in which the Chicago Surface Lines were charged with lack of civic pride as a result of their refusal to remove tracks in Lake Shore drive, Guy A. Richardson, general manager of the transit company, yesterday stated that the interest of the largest number demanded the presence of the tracks.

"The surface lines serve 2,500,000 passengers daily," Mr. Richardson said. "These passengers are not organized, but they have rights, and to deny them access to the Navy pier is discrimination. In attempting to keep street cars out of park territory because they offend your esthetic sense you are, in effect, refusing to consider the interests of taxpayers who use street cars as of equal importance with those of taxpayers who use automobiles."

Mr. Richardson stated the transit company was willing to make any "reasonable adjustment" to relocate the tracks so as not to interfere with outer drive traffic, but stated "we cannot sacrifice the rights of our riders." He pointed out that the commerce commission in 1926 ruled the tracks were a public convenience and necessity.

Third Deck of Ship Building Novel Is Good

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"A RICHER DUST," by Storm Jameson [Knopf], is the third volume in the trilogy of the life of Mary Hervey which began with "The Lovely Ship" and continued with "The Voyage Home." As a panorama of English life that trilogy has strength, power, beauty, impressiveness. As a novel, alone without its forbears, "A Richer Dust" has in itself strength, beauty, and impressiveness. It has certain fragmentary quality, in its over 450 pages.

STORM JAMESON.

Things fragmentary is not the right word. What I mean is that, beautifully knit as the novel is, inevitably as it progresses from the first page to the last, unforgettable as is the picture of Mary Hervey, the downward progress of the shipping firm which she slaved to make greater, almost as are the pictures of the characters in the book, you feel that there is much that you don't know about them.

You also want intensely to know what young Mary Hervey, the middle child, the mother of Richard (who died before this volume begins), Sylvia, who did something for which she was never forgiven before the volume opens (it was to marry a foreigner because the lover with whom she eloped had jilted her, and who turned her mother away from her door). You want to know Mary Hervey the mother as well as Mary Hervey the grandmother whom you come to know so deeply in "The Richer Dust."

The last volume is a fine novel. Because its fineness makes you want so much more to know everything you can about every one in it. "A Richer Dust" begins with the arrival of Nicholas, the grandson of Mary Hervey, whom she looks upon as a heir to the Garton shipbuilding company which has brought her a great fortune. Nicky's whole life is dominated by his grandmother, a domineering and, to every one else, a frightening old woman who has made herself hard all of her life and who wants the rest of the world to be driven. To Nicky she is merely frightening. She loves him in a sense more deeply than she loves any one, and more than her husband, who has slowly part way through the book.

In fact the grandmother's hopes for the future are in Nicky. His father is a weakish soul, as the result of such a powerful old woman is, trampled in its every desire toward self-expression. Nicky and his grandmother as most boys would have treated their mothers, his mother often thought. He respected his grandmother. He obeyed her. He loved her a little. He talked to her as he did to were an older person, asked her advice, acted upon it. His mother treated him like a contemporary. He treated her as if she were a sister. His own sister was little more in his confidence, but he didn't count either of them as he counted on his grandmother.

Nicky's father's had been Mary Harvey's favorite son, and he had carried it on for old Mary Hervey, so she expected it to be with him and him to carry it on for her. It might have been, but the war came and did things to the minds of men, young as well as old. Nicky became a selfish clever girl just before it went to war, one whom he had not loved with, one of whom his father and mother disapproved. Whose neck the reader would joyously wring. But Nicky never was clever, and he wasn't clever enough to make his life as he wanted it. The war gave him a certain courage—the courage of seeing the futility of life—

MRS. F. D. ROOSEVELT URGES SERVANTS TO FORM A. F. OF L. UNION

New York, April 14.—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who qualifies as an expert on the servant problem by virtue of the fact that she runs three households, thinks domestics should be organized into a union.

Unite them and tie them up with the American Federation of Labor, she says, and it'll be better for both servant and employer.

Mrs. Roosevelt is executive director of a comfortable home in East 65th street, of the executive mansion in Albany, and of a manorial place in Hyde Park, Dutchess county.

She is taking an active part in the conference on housework at the Young Women's Christian association.

"Organization of household workers would have the great benefit of standardizing hours and making clear the obligations of both employer and employed," she says.

"It would safeguard the domestic, for it would involve some kind of inspection of her working conditions, and she would be in a position to demand that they come up to standard.

"It would help the housewife, for much of the social stigma now attached to household work would be removed if its exact boundaries were made clear, and a better type of worker would be available."

Good Morning!

Remember "Devil's Holiday" with Nancy Carroll and Phillips Holmes? Well, "Sonntag des Lebens" is Paramount's German speaking version of the story with a different cast.

Camilla Horn, in the rôle Nancy Carroll played so beautifully, does a good job of acting—that is, patently, JUST acting. The German "find" who showed such promise in "Faust" never once touches a sympathetic cord in your heart. Her specialty in this picture is hysteria. She shrieks and gives way to storms of temperament at every opportunity.

Much more to your taste is Willy Cieber as the country youth whose passionate love for the hotel manicure girl leads to most of the story's complications. He's immensely appealing with his sensitive young face and manner of gentle breeding. Other rôles are well enough played and the picture has, in the main, been artistically staged and thoughtfully directed.

"Sonntag des Lebens" will be entertaining to Germans who didn't see "Devil's Holiday" and, for reasons of comparison, to Americans who did.

QUALITY: Fair.
FUNNY? I didn't think so, but, of course, I don't know German. Judging from the characters and their actions one might presume the mots to have an oafish flavor.
ACTING: Ordinary—with an eye to the camera.
SONGS: Not catchy and uninterestingly sung.
DIRECTION: Heavy.
PHOTOGRAPHY, SOUND, SETS, COSTUMES, ETC.: All right.

Bishop Stewart Says Religion, Medicine Work in Harmony

Medicine is becoming more closely allied with religion. This developing alliance was pointed out by Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago last night in his address before the St. Luke's Hospital association at the Blackstone hotel. The bishop explained that present religious trends emphasize human conduct and social ethics rather than theological abstractions.

"The world, as it is organized today, with its four great social evils: poverty, sickness, ignorance, and sin, is essentially anti-Christian," Bishop Stewart said. "Colleges and universities are attacking ignorance; the hospitals, sickness; the church, sin. Christianity concerns itself with them all. A hospital does not merely minister to the sick. It also stimulates a larger stewardship and brotherhood among the rich. Every man should interest himself in the welfare of some hospital."

Dr. Arthur R. Elliott, past president of the medical board of the hospital, told how in spite of every effort, the hospital deficit caused by the service to free patients has mounted.

"The problem has been to maintain a class A hospital without an endowment. It cannot and ought not to be attempted," Dr. Elliott began. "An individual cannot do good work worrying over a balance sheet. Neither can a hospital.

"Only 15 per cent of the patients at St. Luke's pay enough money to give a profit to the institution. There is an old fashioned idea that hospitals are a little different than other institutions. There is no question about drives for money for educational institutions and money pours into their treasuries. Yet the public seems to think that a hospital must be self-maintaining, although in truth it is an educational institution, training doctors and nurses and serving the poor."

During 1930 St. Luke's gave free service to 3,380 patients. The actual cost to the hospital was more than $200,000, and would have been greater. It was pointed out, had not sixty-eight doctors contributed their services.

Motherly Hens Hatch 3 Eagles for Professor

So He Can Study Stolen Kings of Air.

Cleveland, O., April 14.—(AP)—Expected to contribute many of the missing links in the life story of the American or bald eagle, three newly born eagles are under the watchful care tonight of Prof. Francis H. Herrick, naturalist of Western Reserve university. He is an authority on the life and habits of the species.

Two hens were persuaded to sit on the eggs in relays. They started work about three weeks ago after the eggs were taken from an eagle's nest in Canada. The eagle trio arrived on different days of last week and are now in what is known as the "natal down" stage—wearing grayish fuzz which they will exchange shortly for feathers.

Prof. Herrick said this is the first time an eagle has been observed emerging from its shell; in fact, none others have been studied under 15 days old. They used an "egg spur"—a hook attached to the beak—to cut the shell. The spur comes off after three or four days.

On the third day the young eagles' eyes became usable and they were able to stand on their legs with the aid of their wings used as props. It takes a couple more days before they can walk, Prof. Herrick explained.

"Fresh fish, carefully shredded and boned, is fed to the young birds six times daily. They have now gained back the twenty grams they lost by water evaporation immediately after birth and are going upward from the 100 grams they balanced just before leaving the shell.

The eagles will have to wait until their sex is determined before they are named.

When the eagles are 15 days old Prof. Herrick will have completed a life span study of the species. He began his studies in 1921, building towers near a number of eagle nests in this part of the country for the purpose of observations.

GROWTH PRINCIPLE IN YEAST MAY SOLVE OTHER LIFE SECRETS

Eugene, Ore., April 14.—(AP)—Application to the growing heart of yeast of high voltage electricity is announced at the University of Oregon.

This heart is something which causes yeast to grow, but instead of being a simple substance it is composed of various little known parts which scientists call "bios" fractions.

A 10,000 volt electric current causes these growth factors to separate from the yeast and from each other, and even goes so far as to gather them in different tubes ready for study.

Analysis of the bios fractions may give science another clew to the now unsolved riddle of what causes growth of any kind. At present it is suspected that microscopic yeast plants have a common growth factor with trees, horses, and men—in short, that discovery of what underlies the growth principle of one kind of living cell may open the way to understanding them all.

The "shocking" method of separating the yeast growth fractions was discovered by Roger J. Williams, professor of chemistry, and John Turesdall, research assistant. The yeast industry, also it is announced tonight, has furnished money for further research.

Dr. Williams for several years has been studying the relation of the anti-neuritic vitamin B to yeast growth stimulants.

LONDON, April 14.—(AP)—Through tears she could hardly check, Edna May, star of another day, last night watched from a box presentation in London for the first time of the revived play, "The Belle of New York." She created its title rôle more than thirty years ago.

The production itself was successful, but the event of the evening was the appearance of the woman, no longer young, who sat in her box weeping at past memories and in the emotion called forth by the audience's enthusiastic reception.

When she appeared the entire audience rose and applauded, while bouquet after bouquet sent by old friends soon turned the box into a bower. At the close of the performance the actress went to the stage and made a brief speech, but the sentences came with difficulty as she struggled with her emotions. She commented finally that it was a very happy evening for her.

Bishop Blames Alien 'Advisers,' Praises Gandhi

McConnell Is Back from Lecturing in India.

New York, April 13.—(AP)—American citizens "just off the train, who know what it's all about and how to remedy things," Bishop Francis J. McConnell of the Methodist church said tonight, may delay independence for India.

He added that in his opinion solution of Indian problems depended on Mahatma Gandhi.

Bishop McConnell spoke at a dinner given for him by the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

Back from a four months' stay in India, where he delivered the Barrows lectures sponsored by the University of Chicago, Bishop McConnell asserted that Gandhi's power seemed to have grown through understanding of the people.

"There are many minds in India which are intellectually superior to Gandhi's," he said, "but the men fail to understand the population.

"Mohammedans and Hindus follow the Mahatma, many of them reluctantly, while the agnostics respect him and fear combat. Gandhi must be taken as he is, he cannot be made over. He is idealistic in many respects, but he leads.

"For 25 years things in India will be a mess. In the first years of the United States things were a mess. It is not going to come in 25 years or in 50 years, but solution will come.

"If many Englishmen in India, and a group of Americans were locked up in the jails and told that they would be released when things are settled, it would help."

Bishop McConnell said that organized Christianity did not stand high in India at present but gains were being made in the northern parts.

Accompanied by Japanese and American dignitaries, they went to Columbia university. There the prince expressed keen interest in a collection of rare Japanese manuscripts and art objects.

They had luncheon at the New York state chamber of commerce, where they heard J. Barstow Smull, president of the chamber, declare Japan "the logical, inevitable leader of the orient."

In return, the prince said: "I am told that America's trade with my country ranks third in her entire foreign commerce. We may confidently hope that our traditional friendship with your country, coupled with such gratifying commercial relations, will grow more and more cordial."

Then the prince and princess visited the federal reserve bank building and the Bell Telephone laboratories.

Guided by Sound, Says One of Delegates.

New York, April 14.—(AP)—Blind people—men and women who have never seen the sun, and others to whom the loss of sight has come as a sudden catastrophe—went "sightseeing" in Manhattan today.

They are here as delegates to the world conference on work for the blind; a conference called by President Hoover. Their object is to talk over their problems, discovering ways of self-help, and study new measures by science aimed to benefit them.

Three blind delegates were among the speakers at the opening session. One of them was Halvdan Katerud, chairman of the Norwegian Association for the blind. He described the psychology of the blind and how they learn to find their way about.

"The blind person," he said, "receives his perception of space principally by the aid of his hearing. The sound of his own step is his most reliable guide.

"A person who is born blind does not possess the least idea of seeing. He is, on the whole, unable to form a clear notion of what it really means 'to see.' He will not, therefore, be able to feel the want of sight in the same way as the person who has once been in possession of it."

The other blind speakers were: Dr. Carl Strhl, director of the school for the blind at Marburg-Lahn, Germany, and Prof. Augusto Romagnoli, director of the school for the training of teachers for the blind at Rome, Italy.

There were two round table discussions tonight. One, on ways and means in planning school activities, was led by Dr. O. H. Burritt, principal of the Pennsylvania Institution for the Blind, at Philadelphia. The second, on the purposes in education for the blind, was led by J. T. Hooper, superintendent of the Wisconsin School for the Blind, at Janesville.

Talking pictures, with their mechanical music, are threatening one of the principal professions by which a blind man may earn his living, according to Donatien Lelievre of Bordeaux, France, director of the French National Federation of Societies for the Assistance of Deaf Mutes and the Blind.

"Up to the present time," he said, "music has given the blind one of the most interesting openings. It is an art as well as a profession in which he finds a great satisfaction, if he has talent. Music should take first place among the studies of the blind child.

"Unfortunately, however, the piano, violin, and organ are threatened by the success of talking films, which make the position of the blind musician insecure. In some countries, the talking films have caused serious unemployment among all musicians."

More than 300 pastors of the Illinois conference of the Augustana Synod Lutheran church registered yesterday as members of the 79th annual conference of that church at the Ebenezer Lutheran church, Foster avenue and Paulina street. Sessions of the conference will continue the rest of the week.

Last night the conference sermon was delivered by the Rev. Dr. Peter Peterson, president of the conference. The Rev. Dr. Elof K. Jonson, pastor of Ebenezer church, gave an address of welcome. At a pastoral conference yesterday afternoon Prof. S. J. Sebelius of Augustana college, Rock Island, declared the economic depression has tended to turn people's minds to spiritual things and that the period offered an opportunity for evangelism.

It was reported by the Rev. Knute Erickson of Chicago, secretary of the extension board, that only 46 out of nearly 400 congregations in the conference are receiving financial aid from the synod. Last year a total of $41,590 was given to 56 churches, his report stated. Six other churches decreased their requests for aid.

The Rev. Mr. Erickson reported that $53,700 had been raised by issuing short term bonds to carry the conference through the present emergency. Out of the total quota to the synod accepted by the conference of $196,400, only $3,000 is in arrears, the report stated.

OTTAWA, April 14.—(AP)—Miss Mildred Mariann Bennett, sister of Premier R. B. Bennett, was married today to Maj. William Duncan Herridge, Canadian minister to the United States, in Chalmers United church.

The governor general and Countess Bessborough were the only guests present aside from members of the two families.

The bride was given away by Premier Bennett in a church decorated with ferns that banked the communion table and pulpit stairways and Easter lilies in tall golden standards. The Rev. Dr. John W. Woodside read the service.

Before his appointment to Washington, Maj. Herridge, internationally known as a patent and corporation lawyer, was a confidential adviser to the prime minister. He won the distinguished service order and the military cross with bar in the war.

Maj. and Mrs. Herridge will spend their wedding trip in England and Denmark. They do not expect to take up their Washington residence until late summer.

Sensitive Person Needs to Face Facts and Snap Out of It

BY DORIS BLAKE.

It's her sensitive nature, the girl says, that is responsible for her coldness toward the boy of her dreams. Because of her sensitiveness, she "shuns doing anything obvious," so goes to the other extreme and acts coldly. She is afraid people will say she is running after the young man, etc., etc.

In one of the Guild Theater offerings this year a play dealing with pioneer days, one got a vivid picture of the advantages of the modern system of being rid of the pose of extreme bashfulness and overplaying the cold, unresponsive maid. There was something pretty sickish about the teasing simperings of the maid in the play who really loved her man but didn't dare let him suspect it. It was all right and according to Hoyle for her particular femme era. But the 1931 miss who tries to play that rôle is just out of luck, that's all.

Now sensitiveness, as an instinct, is something that is nursed along year after year, petted, pampered, and exaggerated all out of proportion to its usefulness. In fact, it is one of the least useful of traits. When you see the ease with which a person who has conquered sensitiveness gets where he or she wants to get, you realise the perfect futility of nursing the impediment. You see girls get men above them socially, financially, and in every way girls whose great asset is a lack of just that sensitiveness that reduces other girls to creatures of nonentity.

Sensitiveness is a disease that ought to be taken out in the open and operated upon with the implements of good horse sense. Instead of the fine nature its owner may think it indicates, it may be a great weakness—a vain, self-centered nature interpreting its world as having all eyes focussed on its every move and action.

Anyway, if it's interfering with the prospects revolving around the love of your life, it should be slain pronto. And slain by simply forcing it to say and do the obvious thing, if for no other reason than for practise, incidentally making the other person happier for the expressed word or deed.

FARM AND GARDEN

WHEN TO SOW VEGETABLES.

Starting vegetables too soon is a common mistake that often leads to loss of efficiency in growing quality vegetables in appreciable quantities where space is at a premium.

According to gardening authorities, among whom is Dr. J. E. Knott of the New York State College of Agriculture, plants do better and maintain a steady growth if started later than might seem timely in view of spring's first few warm days. Six to eight weeks ahead of planting time is long enough to sow tomato, celery, cabbage, and similar seeds for later transplanting.

Another secret of hardy vegetables of good quality is the process of toughening such plants so that they will get used to seasonable weather after they are set out from their more protected hotbeds or cold frames.

Every day warm enough to permit should see the plants uncovered to the sun and then protected again for the early afternoon through to next midmorning. Seedlings also should be transplanted to wider spacing when they show the first true leaf. Moving them later will give a much more pronounced check in growth. After transplanting as soon as growth slows down, or if a yellowish color is noticed, authorities recommend a single watering with a solution of one ounce nitrate of soda to one gallon of water.

Plants under glass should be watered when the temperature is rising. Then they should be soaked well and not watered again until it is apparent they need it, which may not be every day. If the plants, especially the leaves, are comparatively dry when night comes this will help control the disease known as damping off.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

One old man was acting up and I turned to a woman sitting next to me and said, "Did you ever see such an old fool in your life before?"

Imagine how I felt when she answered, "Yes, he is my brother."

That taught me a lesson I shall never forget. H. H.

Sprawled on Classroom Floor.

When I started teaching school I did my best to be very dignified and make a good impression. I might have succeeded had not my swivel chair broken and sent me sprawling on the classroom floor, amid the howls and roars of the students. So ended my dignity in that classroom, and I've never heard the end of it. I blush every time I recall that incident.

BY THALIA

THE marriage of Miss Mary Ott, daughter of John Nash Ott of Winnetka, and W. Thomas Kemp Jr., son of Mrs. W. Thomas Kemp of Baltimore, is to be solemnized in a place far from the bride's home village.

The service is to be read at 4:30 o'clock on the afternoon of June 6 at the Church of St. John's in the Wilderness at Paul Smith's in the Adirondacks. Only members of the immediate families of the bride and groom are to be present.

The bride's sister, Dorothy Ott, is to be maid of honor, and Mr. Kemp's brother, Miss Louise Kemp, will be bridesmaid. They and John Nash Ott Jr., who is to serve Mr. Kemp as best man, comprise the entire wedding party. Mr. Kemp and his bride will set up housekeeping at 42 Kiowa road, Saranac Lake, N. Y.

Miss Blair is to come out next fall and it has been set for her debut party. . . . MISS GRACE V. BAIRD.

CHURCHES' GAINS IN 1930 SMALLER THAN TWO PREVIOUS YEARS

New York, April 14.—(AP)—Churches in the United States showed a net membership gain in 1930 or 88,350 compared with 242,748 gained in 1929 and more than a million in 1928, Dr. G. L. Kieffer, church statistician, notes in his annual report in the May issue of Christian Herald, released today.

He reported that the Methodists, who in 1929 showed a decline for the first time in a hundred years, suffered a further net loss of 43,211 in 1930.

The figures showed that the Baptists and the Lutherans together accounted for more than the total of all increases, the Baptists gaining 74,706 and the Lutherans 56,180.

Dr. Kieffer's statistics showed an increase in Catholic communicants of 17,526 and a decrease in Presbyterians of 22,763. An increase of 18,532 was shown in the number of Episcopalians.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Elizabeth, aged 3, was watching me make a cake.

"Why are you making a cake?" she asked.

"Because it is mother's birthday," I replied.

"Not until next summer."

She pondered over this reply a few moments, then said, "Well, give me half of mother's birthday." E. S.

Recently an argument arose. Jane started to scold an incensed playmate of John's, when suddenly John stepped between the two, saying, "Now, I'll do your broadcasting for you this time, Jane!" V. M. B.

Too Many Youngsters Suffer Under Burden of Hated Arithmetic

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

O, arithmetic! What crimes have been committed in thy name! What misery the cramming of it has brought to children! What peaceful home scenes around the evening lamp it has spoiled! What discord it has caused at home, and how many fathers and mothers it has made dread the Home Work Hour!

Knowing all this to be so, I wrote several articles on the subject. The heartfelt letters that came in are strong evidence of how much parents, children, and school need a complete right-about on the subject of arithmetic—on its relative unimportance and how to teach it. Perhaps the following letter will open still more mathematically blinded eyes:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: Blessings on your head for your protest against the enthronement of the 'math god.' Arithmetic is taken up too early in the child's career and he is made to feel too keenly his failure to grasp the rudiments of the subject. But give him other work which he can master easily and leave arithmetic until he is 8 or 9, and he will learn in a few weeks all that he suffered and worried over since his first lesson in the subject. It was my woe at school from the time I started till I graduated from a splendid teachers' training school.

"I started teaching seventh grade, and to my own intense surprise arithmetic was easy for me to teach to that most difficult grade—mostly because the smart ones get it easily and the slow ones were thoroughly understood by me, for their problem had been mine and all my sympathy and understanding merged into the one great effort to aid them.

"I tell you this just to illustrate the case as I, too, see it and to add my little quota of encouragement to you in your laudable attempt to aid mothers and halting little minds to put arithmetic in its proper place.

"My school days would have been ones of golden sunshine and pure joy had I been able to eliminate that old arithmetic."

Food Talk.

This is a difficult question to answer briefly and at the same time satisfactorily, because brown sugar is so susceptible to atmospheric changes. As long as the air is excluded from it, it remains moist, soft, and free from lumps. In this condition it can be fluffed up to occupy a large space or it can be packed down tightly to fill only a small space. A cup of loosely measured sugar can be tamped down until it will measure not more than one-half cup. The question then is: How shall one measure brown sugar to obtain the best results?

Several students in the experimental cooking classes at the University of Chicago have for the last few years been doing considerable work on the weighing and measuring of common ingredients used in cooking. The way they measure, a cup of moist brown sugar weighs 195 grams which is a trifle less than 7 ounces. One pound of sugar, therefore, measures approximately 2 1-3 cups. To put 7 ounces of sugar in the cup it must be pressed down rather firmly. But how firmly? The person who has a strong arm will naturally have a tendency to exert more pressure on the sugar than one with less strength.

There is only one way for each individual to learn how to determine the pressure to measure brown sugar accurately, and that is to measure one pound of moist soft sugar into 2 1-3 cups. By doing this measuring of a pound two or three times one will learn what the necessary pressure is, and once learned it will be easily remembered.

When brown sugar gets dry and lumpy there is another problem in measuring. The lumps must be removed and the sugar softened before one can measure correctly. A good way to soften dry, lumpy sugar is to put it into a flat pan and place it in a slow oven. Watch carefully and stir often to prevent burning. It takes only a few minutes to soften the sugar to where the lumps will crumble in the hands. Mash all the lumps out with a wooden spoon. Then measure in the same way as we have already described.

Not too much brown sugar should be purchased at one time. It will even become lumpy in the boxes in which it is packed because they are not perfectly air tight. If only a few week's supply is bought at one time there will be no difficulty from lumping and drying out.

ORANGE AND RICE PUDDING.

Pare the oranges, cut in half crosswise and remove the core. Cook the halves, until they are tender but not broken, in a sirup made from equal parts of sugar and water, to which a little lemon juice has been added.

THE SIXTH JOURNEY

BY ALICE GRANT ROSMAN

SYNOPSIS.

John Falconer, a successful architect, returning home to England from Cape Town, meets Hilary Revel, author of travel books, on shipboard. During the journey home their acquaintance grows into a friendship neither wishes to end.

John tells Hilary of his daughter Judith, born of a café singer while he was a soldier. His wife, John says, had magnanimously adopted the child. Hilary suspects such magnanimity. John's sister Gertrude became Judith's legal guardian when his wife died.

Judith leads a lonely life in her aunt's home. Her cousin Prue is her only friend. When Aunt Gertrude hears of her brother's engagement she sends Judith to a farm to stay with her former nurse, Tracy. John is uneasy about Judith not being in school. He thinks it unfair to drag Hilary continually into the question of the child and Hilary feels that he has had enough interference in caring for Judith. John writes Gertrude for the truth. His wrath explodes when she replies that she cannot, as a decent citizen, send a waif of dubious parentage among other children.

Judith is badly treated by Tracy. She makes friends with Clive Harpenden, to whose home she delivers cream for the old servant. Judy, having received no mail, writes secretly to Prue.

Prue meets Hilary for tea and tries to enlist her aid for Judith. Hilary's vow not to interfere makes her rebuff Prue. They run into Tim de Morreville, whom Hilary and John met on the boat home. Tim drives Prue home and makes an engagement to drive her next day to visit Judith. Prue sees and talks to Judy and is indignant at Tracy's treatment of the little girl.

Falconer leaves town on a business trip. Hilary, thinking over the problem of Judith, decides to write to John about her and her letter is a great relief to him.

Tracy becomes unbearably abusive to Judy, and Judy, crushed by the woman's cruel accusations, runs away to Prue. When John returns and hears of Judith's disappearance he rushes immediately to his sister's home. She tells him Tracy's address and he leaves at once to the farm. Tracy threatens to blackmail him. He calls on Mr. Harpenden, the magistrate of the district. Clive tells him he thinks Judy may have taken the bus to London.

INSTALLMENT XLV.

A NEW TERROR.

The blue bus from London to Bedford pulled up at the gates of Haydon manor at a signal from two men, a woman, and an excited schoolboy. The driver jumped down and opened the door of the coach, and the boy cried:

"No, we're not going with you but . . . O father, ask him quickly."

"We want some information from you, driver, if you will spare a moment," said Mr. Harpenden. "Were you on this bus going from Bedford to town on Monday morning . . . somewhere about seven o'clock?"

"Did you by any chance pick up a little girl along this road . . . dressed in a navy coat and white hat?"

"Monday morning? . . . Hold on now . . . Monday . . . why, yes, I remember her, quite a bit away from here though, not much out of Bedford I took up a little girl. In quite a state she was, thinking I was going to pass her by."

The three adults looked at each other and breathed a sigh of relief. It was the first clue of any kind since the finding of the blanket. Clive could hardly keep still in his excitement and was plying the driver with eager questions. His father caught him by the arm.

"Fax! Old man, leave this to me. Can you remember anything about this passenger of yours, driver?"

"She was a goodish size . . . as tall as the young lad here I should say. She went to London and paid the regular fare . . . five shillings. Wait now . . . she give me a ten shilling note—took it out of the front of her dress. I remember noticing because she was a bit shaky and nervous like. Afraid of not getting back to school in time, I thought."

"It's Judy for a certainty. That fits in with Clive's story," cried Falconer to Mrs. Harpenden. "I must race back to town and get in touch with Scotland Yard. Driver, what time do you touch London again? My daughter is lost and I think you have given us valuable information. I may want you to tell the police anything you can. I'll make it worth your while gladly."

"Four thirty, sir . . . Oxford circus. Anything I can do to help, if you'll make it right with my company over any delay. They're a bit strict on time schedules."

"Yes, yes, of course, and we mustn't keep you now. I am infinitely obliged."

"London . . . two days of it!" said Falconer. "I shall offer a reward of course . . this ghastly delay! I can't tell you how grateful I am to you all. Clive, I am your friend for life and I hope you won't forget it, my boy."

He drove off, the extermination of Tracy a small consideration now, in the new terror of what in London might have befallen Judith.

Mrs. Harpenden had been right, he knew. Publicity must be avoided for the child's sake, supposing she was safe, and the entry of the Harpendens into the affair at all in that event was the greatest piece of good fortune. From the magistrate's grim face as he had listened to the story Falconer knew that Tracy would get little quarter from her brother's landlord, and the brother, from all accounts, would keep the lesson green. Her evil tongue would be silenced for the rest of her life.

For the first time part of the woman's insolence returned clearly to his mind, and he saw with rage and self-contempt the real beginning of it all. Sylvia! Could it be true, or merely another monstrous lie? He knew he had no doubt, for a dozen fingers pointed to the truth now that his blind eyes were opened—the distance she had set between them, her precious will, Gertrude's assertion that Sylvia had agreed with her as to the danger and impossibility of sending the child to school. Sylvia, to whom he had told the whole story! He saw it at last, not merely the net in which he had been caught, but the weaver of it. What he could not see yet was that Tracy, like others before her, had defeated her own ends and, in betraying her mistress, had forever set him free from an intolerable obligation.

Hilary, after Falconer's telephone call, was strongly inclined to disobey his wishes and go and join him after all. The thought of the long morning waiting for news was intolerable. The family was still at breakfast, she was too restless and distressed to join them, and at last she seized the telephone and asked for Tim de Morreville.

The boy's cheerful voice answered her, and she said.

"O, Tim, is that chariot disengaged this morning?"

"My word, yes, and I'm pining for an excuse to give the bobbies a run. What time shall I call for you, lady?"

"As soon as you can." She gave him the address and he promised to be there in two shakes.

When Tim arrived she was watching for him and ran down at once.

"How good of you to be so quick. Tim, would it take more than an hour to get to Bedfordshire, do you think?"

Tim looked at her rather blankly.

"Jemima can do most things, but your police are so fussy. I am afraid we'd have a couple of dozen summonses if we tried it at this time of the day. But why Bedford? Make it Richmond Park and it's yours."

"I'm worried," confessed Hilary, "and can't make up my mind to go or stay. A little girl is missing, a niece of John's. He's down there searching with the police, and he said I wasn't to help, and I want to."

"O, I say, Miss Revel, it's not Judy?"

"What on earth do you know about Judy?" asked Hilary, astounded.

"O, nothing at all, except that I've heard Prue talk of a kid of that name who was staying in Bedfordshire. Seems fond of her. I've meant to thank you for introducing us, by the way. I get fed up, hardly knowing any one in London, and Prue and her pals let me go and shed a few tears on their doormat now and then."

Tim was talking to cover his blunder, but Hilary did not notice, for he had given her an idea. Prue might know something . . . she was the very person.

"Have you seen her in the last few days?" she asked the boy.

"Tim, drive me there like an angel. It is her little cousin, and I must see Prue. She may not know, or on the other hand, she may be able to give us some help."

Flower Accessories Replace Jewel Vogue

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The Paris Mode is saying her jewels with flowers this season. It may be that the much talked of hard times are responsible for these economical accessories; if that be the case, blessed indeed be nothing! For the new fashion of wearing flower garlands instead of jewels, sponsored by the leading Paris couturiers, is the prettiest one that has been launched for many a day.

At the top of our drawing is Suzanne Talbot's flower garland bonnet that's made of tiny blue star-flowers completely covering a tulle foundation and trimmed with a flower garland coronet of the same in front.

Next comes Lelong's garland necklace. This one is of yellow chiffon roses to match a yellow chiffon evening gown, but he has them in cotton cambric flowers and in real flowers sterilized, to wear with afternoon gowns, as well.

In the center you see Ardansé flower jewelry. A bracelet of artificial violets sewed all over a two inch band, worn above the elbow with a pair of beige lace mitts. There's a ring studded with one huge violet to match. Ardansé shows these rings and bracelets in different flowers with daytime frocks as well as with dressy ensembles.

Horowitz Ends Tuesday Series of Stock Concerts

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Vladimir Horowitz gave the audience of the final Tuesday afternoon symphony concert something to remember the series by. He was the soloist yesterday afternoon in the Liszt A major concerto. All well and good; it was the kind of piece that shows him at his brilliant best.

Mr. Horowitz's brilliant best, however, is the kind that people refuse to go home after hearing. They refused yesterday. They sat and applauded and aplauded again. Finally Dr. Stock turned around and announced that, considering its being the final concert, he took pleasure in saying that Mr. Horowitz would play an encore, and that it would be the final movement of the concerto by Tschaikowsky.

Liszt and Tschaikowsky for one admission ticket would seem to be enough, especially when played by Horowitz. The old war horses renewed their youth in most astounding fashion. They curveted and pranced, they were perfectly disciplined, but they went through feats of training such as only the young could do. Wherefore the mind of one hearer began to be assailed by a doubt whether they were really as old as they sometimes seem. Probably not, it depends much on who directs them.

All of which brought the Tuesday series to a brilliant and memorable end, topped off by Mr. Horowitz, but with great contributory preparation by Dr. Stock. For he had begun the program with his own setting of the Bach Passacaglia and Fugue, one of the greatest Bach transcriptions in existence, had continued it with the "Dance of the Happy Spirits" from Gluck's "Orfeo ed Eurydice," and had worked up to a noble climax with Richard Strauss' tone poem, "Thus Spake Zarathustra."

This piece is about thirty-five years old, but it is by no means as well known as its dimensions would warrant. It is best to listen to it without trying to trace out its sections through the program: trying to translate philosophy into music is one of the least fruitful of occupations. Listening to it purely as music and without program, one gets some of the best of Strauss, also some of the worst, a curious sort of goulash with both inspiring and depressing ingredients. But the inspiring ones prevail.

Latin American Revolts Are Called Path of Progress

North Americans should cease ridiculing Latin Americans because of the frequency of revolutions among the southern republics, members of the Chicago Woman's club were told yesterday by John Barrett, former American minister to Argentina.

Such an attitude of mirth, he said, confirms the Latin Americans in their belief that we do not understand their problems.

He added that in principle the revolutions were economic and political and often were peaceful evolutions that resulted in greater stability of government. Present unrest, he asserted, is preparing Latin America for an era of prosperity and progress.

Maidens Hanker After Shorter 'n' Shorter Locks

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Six months ago, four months ago, one could have asserted with far more finality than one would dare do, right now, that short hair never, never would revive its former popularity. Now you say: "Maybe it will and maybe it won't." But you have a sneaking suspicion that it will.

I caught a note in a Hollywood gossip column, the other day, that Chanel, the famous fashion dictator, appeared at a luncheon wearing her skirts much shorter than the American women translates the lengthened skirt vogue. And having seen, season after season, what a chummy little married pair is skirt length and hair length, the Chanel skirt length renewed my suspicion that once a lady has tasted freedom from hairpins and ankle flapping skirts, it's hard to keep her tied for long to the formal dignities which, anyway, just don't fit into our modern scheme of female activities.

And, far more forceful in argument is the difficulty of trying to get a woman to look her age after a period of short skirted, short haired illusion or delusion that she didn't look anywhere near it. So, I'm not surprised at all at the rumblings of long haired discontent.

From Paris direct comes word that the long bob is growing shorter and shorter. While it is still a considerable cry from the shingle stage, the hair ends are hugging that "back shore line" of neck more and more suspiciously. The shingle stage just won't do with spring dresses, but I'm told on the latest authority that scissors are being put to work to snip off the very long ends which sometimes descended shoulder or semi-shoulder length.

The approach of summer may have something to do with this. The relation of new spring hats to the hair probably has just as much to do with the new hair edict. But the crowning argument is for the youth and charm that women found in a sharply outlined, well shaped head not bowed down, distorted or hidden by hair. So, if you've been bemoaning the fact that your growing hair would only grow so far and no farther, you're probably right in the 1931 spring and summer swim, coiffure-ishly speaking.

DOCTORS TRACE 90% of common ailments to poisons that spread from sluggish intestines. ▼ DR. KARL GRUENFELD, of Vienna's famous Mariahilfer Hospital, finds fresh yeast actually strengthens weakened intestinal muscles. ▼ THREE CAKES of yeast a day correct internal sluggishness. ▼ TRY IT! It's a food. Eat it any way you like—before or between meals and at bedtime.

"Its effect on SLUGGISH INTESTINES is Remarkable . ."

—declares DR. GRUENFELD, noted Vienna clinic head. Read his full statement about this simple food that keeps your system "regular"

An unclean internal condition of the body demands serious attention, you know. For it lies at the source, physicians say, of the great majority of our common ills. So read carefully what this eminent Vienna authority, Dr. Karl Gruenfeld, advises to correct it:—

"Constipation," he states, "is a stasis (stagnation) in certain parts of the intestines . . . It afflicts more than half the human race—women especially.

Isn't that authoritative medical opinion worth acting upon? Think what it means! No more constant "dosing." No more enslavement to violent cathartics, to harsh laxatives, to habit-forming drugs and pills!

For yeast, you know, is a food . . . a simple, three-times-a-day addition to your diet. Eaten regularly, it attacks the accumulated waste matter in the intestines. Softens it. Stimulates the muscular contractions of the intestines that help your body clear it away naturally.

And when intestines start functioning normally, your whole health responds. Eyes brighten, color returns, appetite picks up. You are less subject to those terrible sick headaches, to frequent sore throats and colds. You are peppier, cheerier—more alive!

But a warning! Don't expect yeast to make a new person of you "overnight." Your troubles have been developing for years. So give yeast time to correct them. Eat it for several weeks at least, longer if necessary. It can never hurt you.

And start today! Get it—Fleischmann's Yeast—at your grocer's or at a restaurant or soda fountain and eat 3 cakes every day, plain or in a third of a glass of water (hot or cold) or any way you like. Each cake, you know, is rich in the indispensable vitamins B, G and D.

Remember, it's important to ask your grocer for Fleischmann's fresh Yeast (with the yellow label) . . . the only yeast that contains the Sunshine Vitamin D! Every cake is "irradiated" to give it this added element so important for sun-starved indoor workers. It is rich in Vitamins B and G, too.

Cermak Going to Spa

Hot Springs, Ark., April 14.—A request for hotel reservations was received here today from Mayor Anton J. Cermak of Chicago. He is expected here next week.

By A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.

Coral Beach, Fla., April 14.—(Special.)—The creation of new powers for the Chicago city council committees that would make it the retire year and give it authority over all legislation initiated in the council was considered today by members of that committee, vacationing here.

The suggested new duties for the committee would give it the power to act in advance of council meetings to hold working committee each ordinance, resolution or communication should be sent for consideration. Under the old council rules this is acted on the floor of the council, where all fifty aldermen can lift their voices.

Asks Publicity Maneuvers.

The directions met the proposal in the committee's deliberations, according to reports. Each member of the committee, which is here to make up plans of working committee assignments for the next two years, was asked, it was reported, that there have been such a steering committee in the last two years he would have been saved much embarrassment resulting from the introduction of measures by aldermen for politically publicity seeking reasons.

Among the arguments advanced against the proposal, however, was the charge that the steering committee would be in a position to muzzle reports, or to shelve any committee reports submitted, through this method of committee selection. It was argued that this argument has temporarily delayed a decision by the committee.

In favor of the proposal it was said that it would permit the council to work more efficiently and with less waste of time at council sessions, and that it would prevent aldermen from speaking through resolutions without the colleagues knowing the subject matter of them.

It is said the committee in its work outlined would be adopted making it necessary that communications be submitted to the city clerk before being before the council committee.

A proposal that has been rejected by the committee, the reports have it, was that the membership of working committees be reduced and that the committees be limited as to the number of committees on which they serve. Some aldermen serve on as many as seven committees, with the result that their activities, they say, are too diversified. Some action is to be taken also to publish the records of councilmen at committee meetings as a whip to encourage better attendance.

RUSSIA WILL START ON NEW FIVE YEAR SCHEME NEXT YEAR

MOSCOW, April 15.—(AP)—Vyacheslaff Moloto, chairman of the council of people's commissars, and Valerian Kuibyshev, president of the supreme council of national economy, addressing the national scientific congress today declared that the soviet five year plan has been entirely successful and would be concluded in its entirety in 1932.

They also revealed that a new five year plan has been prepared which will be launched as soon as the first one is finished.

Of the huge sum, $229,600,000 was expended in relief of temporary disability of workers, $193,050,000 for pensions to the aged and orphans, and $214,550,000 for free medical aid to workers and employed. Smaller sums went for maternity allowances and unemployment benefits. The latter was obviated in the last quarter of 1930, when unemployment disappeared and workers came at a premium.

Summer at White House; Use New Cooling System

Washington, D. C., April 14.—(AP)—It's not only spring, it's summer at the White House. The cooling system, installed in the President's offices after they burned on Christmas eve, 1929, was put into action today because of the heat. The system takes in air from a secluded spot in the White House lawn, washes it and cools it and pumps it into the various offices.

LEAGUE RECEIVES PLEA TO STUDY CUSTOMS UNION

GENEVA, April 14.—(AP)—The request of Foreign Secretary Henderson of Great Britain to have the proposed Austro-German customs accord placed on the agenda of the council of the league of nations session, which begins May 18, was published today by the secretariat of the league.

No specific article of the proposed customs accord was cited, but the question seemed to be whether or not the accord violates the obligations of the Austrian government under the protocols of Oct. 4, 1922. These were negotiated under the auspices of the council of the league and the British government.

In his note Mr. Henderson declared that he considers it "of the highest importance that all such doubts as have been expressed over the accord should be cleared up at the earliest possible moment." The matter will be inserted in the council's agenda in accordance with Mr. Henderson's request, it was said.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUSSELDORF, April 14.—"Even psychiatrists cannot fathom me," Peter Kuerten, the vampire of Dusseldorf, who is on trial for nine murders, sneered today as 80 hardened crime experts gasped at the revolting crimes he was describing before the Dusseldorf court. The bulk of the public was excluded, and only a small group of newspapermen was allowed to listen in.

"I was 8 years old when I killed two boys," Kuerten declared. "I knocked them off rafts and clubbed them to keep them under water until they drowned."

Drank Blood of Victims.

The court asked for details and Kuerten rose with dignity and said:

The influence of reading about crimes was pointed out by experts today after Kuerten told how he had revelled in stories of "Jack the Ripper," his favorite literature while he was in prison for various crimes.

Reveals His Cunning.

Kuerten's cunning was revealed when he explained how he varied his murderous technique, using alternately scissors, hammers, knives, and strangling to convey the impression that several murderers were working in Dusseldorf. To show the court his tender feelings, Kuerten described how he cared for the hidden graves of his victims, decorating them with flowers.

Kuerten completed his life story today and the first girl witness, who was attacked by Kuerten but escaped, told the court of her experience. One hundred and fifty other witnesses are waiting to give evidence.

POLICE SAY FAMILY IS IN TOUCH WITH KIDNAPERS OF BREWER

Monroe, Wis., April 14.—[Special.]—Five days have elapsed since Fred J. Blumer, Monroe brewer, was lured from his home here by an anonymous telephone call.

Since then, so far as authorities are aware, no word has been received from his abductors other than their demand for $150,000 ransom, made two hours after his disappearance, to Archie E. Wells, principal stockholder of the Blumer Products company.

With the family still opposed to interference of the district attorney, sheriff and police, reports that negotiations for Blumer's release are under way appeared well founded. The delay, it is believed, has been occasioned by attempts of Blumer's associates to convince the kidnapers he is not a man of wealth.

Randal J. Elmer, 23 year old district attorney of Green county, interviewed the Blumer family and company officials in order to prepare a report at the request of Gov. Philip F. La Follette. He learned nothing.

"I don't know what to do next," said Elmer, who has held office since Jan. 1. "This is beyond me. I don't know that there is much I can do. I have arrived at no decision."

TRIBUNE SHIPS OPEN NEW LAKE SEASON TODAY

Two TRIBUNE vessels, the motorship Thorold and the steamship New York News, will leave this morning from Thorold, Ont., for Chicago via the great lakes. The two boats, loaded with paper for THE TRIBUNE, will race throughout the 830 miles of the voyage for the honor of bringing the first 1931 load into Chicago.

Keen rivalry exists between the crews of the Thorold, commanded by Capt. George Ferguson, and the News, commanded by Capt. F. V. McIntyre. The Thorold, built especially for freightage of paper, will carry 3,000 tons of paper from the warehouse at Thorold and the smaller News will carry 1,300 tons.

The race will end some time Sunday morning, under normal conditions. The 1931 season begins with the opening today of the Welland canal to lake traffic.

TORTURE ROBBERS GET $150.

Two robbers entered the grocery of Tony Filippo at 875 East 97th street yesterday and tortured the proprietor by cutting him with a knife until he disclosed where his safe was kept. The pair escaped with $150.

HARTNETT'S BAT DELIVERS GOODS IN TWO PINCHES

Gabby Hammers Out Homer and Double.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Charles Root and Gabby Hartnett were the main men in that 6 to 2 opening day licking our Cubs gave the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday, but everybody on the nine did his bit in noble fashion for the 43,000 customers who attended.

Root's act consisted of pitching a four hit masterpiece, while Gabby figured heavily in two of the scoring rallies with a homer and a double. His homer in the second drove in Riggs Stephenson ahead of him for a pair of runs that broke a scoreless tie and his double was a heavy factor in a three run splurge that put the game on ice after the Pirates had threatened in their half of the eighth with a two run outburst.

Stephenson Bats 1.000.

Stephenson was no slouch with a batting mark of 1.000—two hits and two walks—and a neat bit of blocking on a potential double play executed by the reliable Alabaman gave the Cubs a run in the fourth when they were glad to get it. Lester Bell got into the hero column with a double which drove in two runs in that eighth inning ruckus.

In their stellar roles Hartnett did not confine his excellence to the batting department and Root did not give all his strength to pitching. The most stirring fielding play of the day was executed by Gabby when he picked Hemsley off second, where the Pirate catcher had landed because of a double in the third, the first hit off Root. Root led off the third inning with a single and he led off the fifth with a double. Both efforts went to waste, but that was no fault of Mr. Root's.

Wildness Root's Only Fault.

Root's only fault was wildness—he walked five—but he balanced this shortcoming with four strikeouts. Except for a couple of times that Charley Grimm had to extend himself, once on a ground ball and once on a foul near the boxes, Root tamed the hitters to the point that the fielders had the softest workout of the spring.

Only three batters for each nine stepped up in the first inning, but in the second inning the Pirates threatened to break through, and after the visitors had allowed their captain, Pie Traynor, to die on second the Cubs got their first two runs on the aforementioned Hartnett homer.

Traynor started off the Pirate second by walking, then he stole second. But he got no further because Comorosky flied to Cuyler in short right, Suhr popped to Hornsby and Thevenow fanned.

Hartnett Knocks Homer.

Hornsby opened the fourth with a grounder which Traynor found too warm for fielding and Wilson singled to right. Hornsby pulling up at second. Stephenson walked, after a three and two count, and the bases were full with no one out. Hartnett fanned and Bell hit into what might have been an easy double play, but Stevie neatly blocked Grantham, middle man in the effort, with the result that he was forced at second for the second out of the inning, enabling Hornsby to score. The inning ended with Grimm's fly to P. Waner.

ESTELLE SAYS SHE'LL FILE SUIT AGAINST JACK

Los Angeles, Cal., April 14.—(AP)—Estelle Taylor said tonight that her mind was made up and that she would file a suit for divorce from Jack Dempsey in the Los Angeles Superior court "very soon."

Pressed for some hint as to when her suit would be filed, Miss Taylor said, "I have a feeling something will happen within 48 hours."

The actress said the charges she will make in her complaint will not be sensational.

JACK GOES FISHING.

Reno, Nev., April 14.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey prepared today to go fishing tomorrow, the opening of the season, and to leave behind him temporarily the prospects of a court divorce battle with his actress wife, Estelle Taylor.

"I'm just here for a nice, quiet little divorce," the former champion said. "I'm in Reno now, and I want to get this thing over with as quickly and as quietly as possible."

Dave Shade Outpoints Larrivee in Ten Rounds

Boston, Mass., April 14.—(AP)—Fighting under wraps most of the way, Dave Shade, California middleweight, outpointed Leo Larrivee of Waterbury, Conn., here tonight in the Argonne A. A. 10 round feature. Shade had the edge in all but the opening rounds.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., April 14.—Bill Hunnefield rather avenged his grievances today against his old employer. His hits brought home the runs that sent his one time White Hosed companions sprawling before the Cleveland Indians in the season's inaugural by 5 to 4. Bill may fail later, but now he's basking in the favor of 25,000 who watched him this afternoon and decided he was pretty good after all.

In his own little fashion, Hunnefield took the play entirely away from Wes Ferrell. Ferrell pitched with all the skill at his command, but was not particularly baffling. The Sox had a 3 to 0 lead on him at one time. But Tommy Thomas, who had been carried along by sensational fielding, finally fell apart in the face of prosperity in the fifth. A double by Hunnefield brought on the downfall. He wasn't content with that. He came back with another damaging blow in the eighth and started a rally that scored two runs off Garland Braxton and settled everything.

Sox Fielding Great, But—

If the Sox need any consolation for starting the race in the wrong direction there is plenty over which to ponder. They hit fairly well, considering one of the best pitchers in the business was functioning against them. Their fielding, at least for a time, was nothing less than dizzy. Appling, Cissell, and Kamm took turns in making plays that amazed. But toward the end their supply of sensations became exhausted. Watwood dropped a fly, but it proved harmless. Then Simons failed to get a ball he should have caught, Kamm was handcuffed on a line drive, and Braxton let an easy roller trickle past him. It was this series of incidents following Hunnefield's hit in the eighth that ruined the day.

Tomorrow Pat Caraway will endeavor to make amends for today's misfortune. Hudlin will oppose him.

The pecking at Ferrell's throwing started so quickly that he was in CROSSING BATS.

FRIEND Arch: Well, Arch, I went out to the Cubs-Pirates baseball opening at Wrigley field just like you said I should do and tried to gather "impressions" for a secondary story because, as you said, Ed Burns was going to write the "lead."

Well, the first impression I received was how so many people could be there so early in the afternoon. Either they had a big stand-in with their bosses or there is more unemployment than I thought, because there were 43,000 persons present and all except those with reserved seat tickets were there before 2 o'clock. And I don't believe 43,000 people have a stand-in with their bosses because I know how hard it is to get a stand-in with a boss.

Take our cases, for instance. You're my boss. Well, I like you and I try to please you, and I work very hard whenever you send me to Florida, and yet whenever I turn in an expense account you look it over very carefully. And what kind of a stand-in has a bird got when his boss looks over his expense account?

Well, Arch, as I went along Addison from the "L," a lot of fellows kept asking, "Any extra tickets to sell?" They must have been scalpers. Of course, I didn't have any to sell. In fact, I wondered how was I going to get into the press stand. Of course, as you know, one has to be a member of the Baseball Writers' association to get into the press stand. Well, I belong all right, only this year Harry Neily made a rule that no membership cards would be issued until the annual dues had been paid, so I didn't have any 1931 ticket, but I climbed over a gate where there wasn't any usher and a fellow in the press stand opened a private door—but as soon as that last expense account comes through I'll pay my dues.

Of course, I got by the pass gate into the park all right, for I've known Al Campion for 20 years, and the first person I met was President Bill Veeck, who used to be a sports reporter just like you and me, and he was smiling about something, and I asked him what he was so happy about and he said because it was such a nice day and so many people could enjoy the health giving outdoor air, but I noticed he kept looking at the gates where the turnstiles were clicking merrily—one always says merrily when turnstiles are clicking overtime.

So then I went up to the press coop because I read in an afternoon paper that the Cubs and Pirates would "cross bats" at 3 o'clock. Well, Arch, I've been following baseball for 36 years and I never yet have seen two baseball teams go through the formality of crossing bats. Maybe the Cubs and Pirates crossed bats, but all I saw was a bunch of flowers at the plate, and then there was a parade with a band leading and the Cubs and Pirates in their uniforms marched around the field and down to the flagpole, where an American flag which I took to be the second place pennant of 1930 was hoisted, and everybody took off their hats and the season opened.

Well, Arch, I heard something about friction among the Cubs. If it was friction they had in the "inaugural contest," again to quote from an afternoon newspaper, I suggest they keep up the friction. I forgot to tell you the score was 6 to 2, but I thought Ed Burns would do that because he is writing the lead and I was only giving impressions.

And my impression is that Rogers Hornsby did as good a job of managing as Joe McCarthy possibly could have done except possibly in the eighth inning. That time Bell knocked a long fly into the center field crowd, scoring two men, but he was held on second by ground rules. I think Joe probably would have told Lester to knock the ball into the bleachers and then he would have scored, too. Aside from this I thought Rogers did all right. Whenever you want any more impressions, let me know. Regards. HARVEY T. WOODRUFF.

THOMPSON STOPS FREEMAN IN 12TH; REGAINS TITLE

Opens Cut Over Tommy's Eye; Bout Halted.

It was a poor fight and a disappointment to the ten thousand who paid $46,877.50 to see it. Thompson was well in front when the fight was stopped. He had given Freeman a fine boxing lesson. The customers sat back and watched the performance in silence for eight rounds, but when Thompson began missing with rights that should have scored had he taken any time to gauge his distance they booed and hissed.

Opens Cut Over Eye.

Thompson made no effort to do any real fighting in the third. But it was here that he opened the gash over Freeman's left eye which eventually led to Tommy's downfall. After that Thompson gave a splendid exhibition of mixing and feinting, thus permitting Tommy to take the only round that he won up to the ninth.

Freeman Stages Rally.

Freeman was full of fight in the ninth and tenth and had Thompson backing away from a withering fire of lefts and rights to the head and body. Thompson lost his balance after missing a vicious right in the tenth and sprawled to the floor.

Nice Work, Charley!

ESTABLISH NEW RECORD OF 243,000 FOR OPENING DAY

All attendance marks for the opening day of the major league baseball season were broken yesterday as 243,000 persons crowded the parks in eight cities. The best previous opening day attendance was 233,000 in 1925.

A turnout of 70,000 at the Yankee stadium for the New York Yankees-Boston Red Sox game was chiefly responsible for the new record. The best mark in the National league was at Chicago, where 43,000 filled Wrigley field for the Cubs-Pittsburgh Pirates contest. Only 7,000 saw the opening game at St. Louis.

Beau Pere, King George's Horse, Wins Swaffham Plate

NEWMARKET, England, April 14.—(AP)—King George's Beau Pere today won the Swaffham plate over a mile and three-quarters for the first royal racing victory of the season. Synot was second, only a nose behind the winner, and Saint Gall was third. Four others also ran. The race put $1,000 in the royal treasury.

WHEN CHICAGO'S "HELLO, CUBS" WAS ANSWERED WITH BASE HITS AND VICTORY

Gabby Hartnett registers annoyance after striking out in the fourth inning. But what has he to kick about? His hitting in the pinches went a long way toward whipping the Pirates. His homer in the second inning with Stephenson on base sent the Cubs away in the lead and his double in the eighth was a vital factor in a three run attack.

Harold Traynor, third baseman for the Pirates, steals second with nobody out in the second inning. He didn't get any further, however, because Comorosky flied to Cuyler, Suhr popped to Hornsby, and Thevenow fanned. The other player in the picture is Woody English. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

do some business in the fifth, but fell short of their purpose. It started with Root's double, after which Cuyler walked. The pair of runners moved forward on English's perfect sacrifice bunt, but Hornsby popped to Traynor and Wilson tapped to Grantham.

With the score 3 to 0 going into the eighth, the Pirates got pretty frisky, but were squelched short of a tie. Mosolf batted for French and walked, then L. Waner doubled to right, Mosolf stopping at third. Mosolf scored and L. Waner went to third on Grantham's fly to Cuyler and L. Waner counted while English was throwing out P. Waner. Traynor fanned.

The count of 3 to 2 was not to the Cubs' liking, so in their half of the eighth they got busy and embalmed the contest. Wilson walked, after Grantham had thrown out Hornsby, and went to third on Stevie's second hit, a single to left. Hartnett then got his double to left, Wilson scoring and Stevie stopping at third.

Cubs Argue for a Homer.

Bell drove the ball into left center and Manager Hornsby and his staff argued it was a homer, but Umpire Scott ruled the ball hit short of the bleacher screen. At any rate Stevie and Gabby scored and the ground rule put Bell on second without the necessity of hurrying. Les went to third on Grimm's out, but Root fanned.

The teams will line up against each other again this afternoon and Manager Jewel Ens will ask Glenn Spencer to do his best in the matter of evening the series. Hornsby's rebuttal will be the assignment of Robert Smith, who will make his first start in Chicago in a Cub uniform. Robert understands the lights and shadows of Wrigley field, however, as witness his many triumphs over his present mates during the six years he worked as a pitcher for the Boston Braves.

While Mr. Hornsby plans to shoot his very best at the Pirates in the remaining three games of the series, he also is obliged to do a bit of concentrated contemplating in the matter of the four game series with the champion Cardinals, which opens at Wrigley field Saturday.

CUB NOTES

The Cub-Pirate opener was played with the thermometer jogging a few points above 50. Much better day than the fans usually have for the pushoff in Chicago.

Some day some one will put over a novel feature in connection with the pre-game parade. It will be discovered that formations look better if the lines are dressed up and the marchers are in step. Yesterday it was every horn tooter for himself, while the players herded behind with every gait and waddle known to the art of human walking.

One hundred members of the Midwest Athletic club attended the game in a body, and the victory put them in fine fettle for a stag given at the club as soon after the contest as the bunch could be hauled there is buses.

Owner Wrigley was in his box an hour and a half before game time. The big boss knew the photogs had worked up a brand new idea—to have him make off like he was throwing out the first ball. Some of the smarter photogs also figured out it would be a good stunt to have Mr. Wrigley shaking hands with Rogers Hornsby.

Commissioner K. M. Landis did not attend the opener here. He was double-crossed by the weather man, who told him the box rail would be too cold for him to rest his chin on it.

There were more radio fellows around the premises than groundkeepers. Both radio fellows and groundkeepers are very useful around a ball park on opening day, and it is said their work was appreciated by all.

Al Campion and Heads Crandall, the demon bosses of the pass gate, reported that the same old pests were around trying to crash without credentials. Yesterday, however, they were not worried by flat-footed policemen and smoky firemen, the same being too concerned with post-election matters to be gadding about.

John O. Seys, in charge of Wrigley field concessions, announced he never has seen such a fine crop of popcorn and peanuts. Cuban songs have not turned the fans against peanuts, as feared, Mr. Seys gave out in a formal statement.

POJELLO ADDED TO STADIUM MAT CARD ON APRIL 21

Karl Pojello yesterday was added to the Stadium wrestling show, April 21. He will meet Charley Fox, Cleveland policeman, in one of the five supporting matches to the Jim London-Kola Kwariasi world's championship battle.

Pojello, a Chicagoan, has returned here to make his bid for a title chance against London after campaigning almost exclusively in the east the last few years.

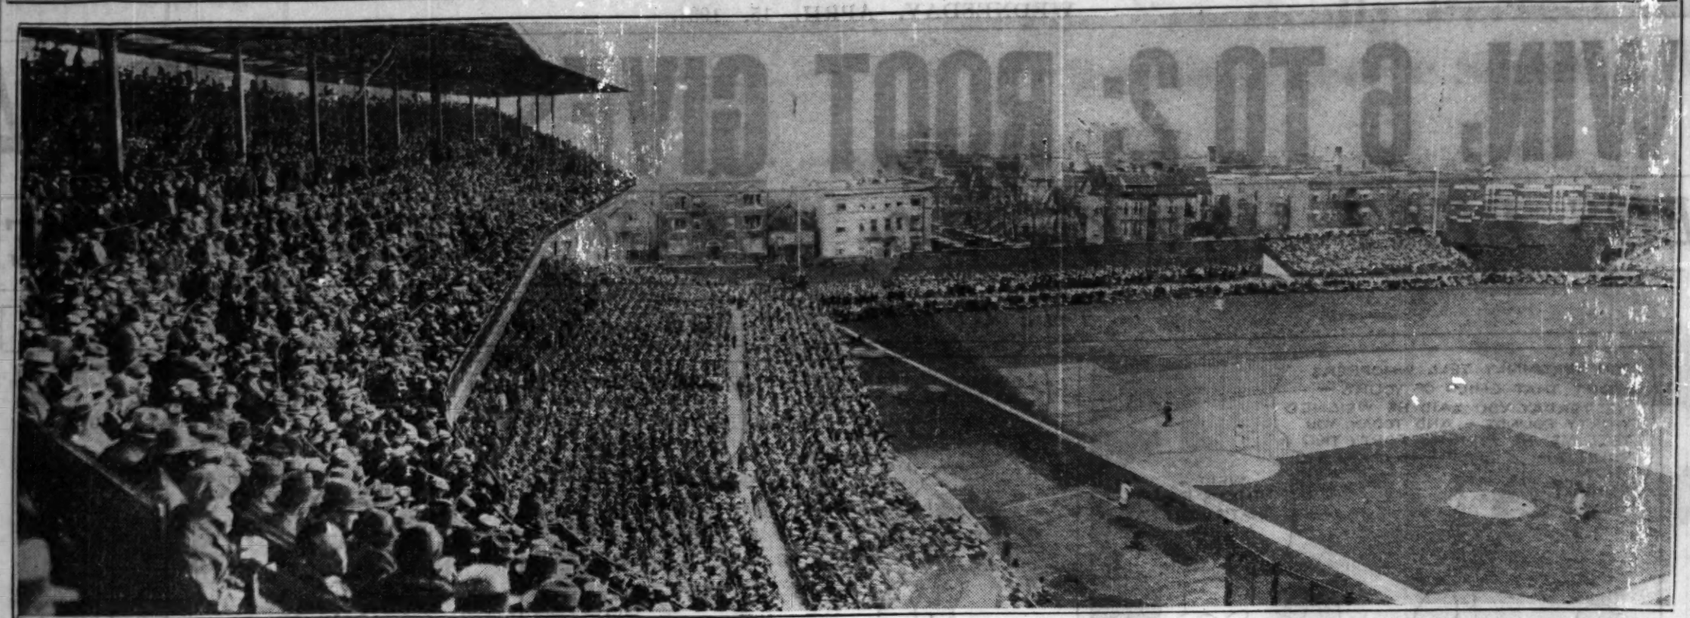
WHEN 43,000 WISHED THE CUBS GOOD LUCK ON A NEW PENNANT CHASE



These packed stands greeted the Cubs yesterday afternoon when they trotted out onto Wrigley field to open the National league season against the Pittsburgh Pirates. Before the game was over the 43,000 fans found plenty to cheer about, for the Cubs came out on top, 6 to 2. Charley Root and Gabby Hartnett were the outstanding heroes of the day, Root holding the Pirates to four hits and Hartnett coming through in pinches with a home run and a double. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

trouble as soon as he had pitched one ball. Blue hit it down the right field line for a double. Simons bunted him to third. The infield was drawn in for a play at the plate, but Reynolds rolled a slow one to Hodapp and there was no time to cut Blue down at the plate. Reynolds, however, was thrown out. Appling popped to end the inning.

Indians Serve Warning.

The Indians also were a bit busy in their first inning. They didn't score, but they did provide the first of a series of hints that Thomas was going to get something he didn't expect, unless removed in time. Fonseca singled with one out. Averill cracked a twisting liner toward short and Appling, after juggling the ball momentarily, threw to first to double Fonseca, who made the mistake of thinking Averill's drive was going to be a hit.

After three Sox had walked up and back in the second, the Indians devoted their half to serving another notice on Thomas. This was where Appling came to the rescue again. Hodapp led off with a single to center. He stayed on first while watching Falk pop to Appling and Seeds fly to Simons. Then Hunnefield bounced a hard one so close to third that Kamm should have had it. It hopped over his hands. Appling tore behind him, grabbed the ball with his bare hand back on the grass and while still doubled up like a jack knife threw it to Cissell in time to get Hodapp on a force out. By this time Bush had two men rushing to the bullpen to prepare for eventualities.

Simons and Reynolds collaborated to score the second Sox run in the fourth. Simons opened with a sneaker just inside the first base line. It was good for two bases. Reynolds followed with a fly to right. Mr. Bib Falk, who would have dearly loved to hamper his old team by making the catch, reached up against the wall, but his hand was in the wrong place. The ball plunked to the ground and by the time Falk recovered and threw Reynolds was on second. Simons went only as far as third. Appling then fanned, but on Cissell's infield out Simons dashed home.

Ground Rules Help Sox.

Ground rules functioned in behalf of the Chicagoans in the fifth and they profited to the extent of a run, which raised their lead to 3 to 0. Kamm was the first man up and he hit with such fervor that it sailed over Seeds into the crowd for a double. Willie hustled to third while Ferrell was tossing out Tate. With the infield drawn in Thomas bounced to Hodapp. The latter fumbled just long enough to lose his chance of stopping Kamm at the plate, so he threw out Thomas at first.

Just what might have happened to Thomas in the fourth if Cissell hadn't intervened with his fielding sparkler isn't known. Fonseca started the inning with a single to center. Averill gave the ball a terrific bounding ride toward a spot midway between Blue and Cissell. Spider Bill dashed over to his left, threw his body in front of the ball, picked it up and tossed to Blue for an out. Hodapp then died on a roller to Appling and Thomas embarrassed Falk by fanning him.

The final and complete collapse of Thomas in the fifth, when the Indians pushed over their three tying runs, began when Hunnefield was given two bases on a hit to right after one was out. He scored when Sewell doubled to left. Ferrell drove a single through Kamm's hands and Sewell ran home. Burnett singled to center. Fonseca did the same, Ferrell scoring, and that was the end of Thomas. Braxton hastened into action and restored quiet.

Hose Regain Lead.

It was Ferrell's own fault that the Sox regained the lead with a run in the sixth. He hit Reynolds on the pants with a pitched ball after Simons had rolled out. A wild pitch moved Reynolds to second and he went to third while Hodapp was throwing out Appling. Cissell came through with a high bounder straight over second. Hodapp grabbed the ball with his meat hand and tried to throw out Cissell at first, but was too late, and Reynolds scored. Cissell died stealing to close the inning.

A beautiful back-handed stop by Kamm brought on a double play and stopped a budding Indian rally in the sixth, but the luck denied them in this instance came to their rescue in the eighth and culminated in the two runs that won the game. Hunnefield's single and his theft of second were the initial happenings in the winning rally. Kamm failed to hang onto Sewell's liner and it went for a hit. Ferrell's fly to center fell in front of Simons for a single and Hunnefield scored the tying run.

The situation was relieved a bit when Burnett's grounder to Appling led to the extermination of Sewell between third and home. As a matter of prudence, Fonseca was passed. Averill hit a soft roller straight at Braxton, who should have grabbed it, but didn't. It rolled on toward second and Appling stood back of the bag ready to get it for an apparently cinch force play. But the ball hit the sack, bounced to one side for a hit, and Ferrell was home with the winning run.

A Night Letter from Ring Lardner

Tucson, Ariz., April 14.—"Dear friends," writes Willis Clough. "This is the big day we all been waiting for and in ½ of a hour we will be leaving the hotel and starting for Rigler field to open up the regular season vs. Roger Hornsby's Cubs and I was planning to lay in bed all the morning and kind of rest up in the case Manager Ens would call on me to pitch at lease part of the game in case Larry French or who ever starts the game should happen to find himself in trouble though when he was practicing yesterday some of the Cubs strolled into the park including Hornsby and he asked me whom I was and I told him and I says maybe you will know me better tomorrow but he says he guest there was no chance of me pitching because Manager Ens was pretty srewd and would probally save me to pitch vs. the clubs who was really our rivals and I says what clubs do you mean and he says Boston and Cincinnati and the Phillies.

"Anyway my plans about resting was broke up because when we was at breakfast this morning Bill Hinchman one of our coaches asked me has I boughten myself a baseball and I says what did he mean and he says if I wanted to get into the ball park I would have to go down to a baseball store and buy myself a new baseball signed by Judge Heydler the president of baseball or else they would not let me in through the players' entrance but would make me pay to get in like I was just a fan.

"He says that during the regular season all the players has to furnish their own baseballs and I asked him what happened if one of the pitchers pitched a ball and some men on the other club hit it out of the park and he says the pitcher would have to borrow a ball from somebody else on the club. Any way I had to go down town and buy a baseball and it cost me $2.00 besides $2.20 for the taxi."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., April 14.—The usual opening day preliminaries were observed. A squad of United States marine sergeants raised flags, which afterward were lowered to half staff in memory of Ban Johnson and E. S. Barnard. Billy Evans, the Indians' business manager, talked over a microphone from home plate. Mayor Marshall threw out the first ball. His aim was bad.

A number of fellows grouped on the second floor back of third base entertained with old songs between innings. They were led by a large-jowled gentleman who gave unmistakable signs of having at one time been associated with a sangerbund. When not singing the boys would refresh themselves from hip containers.

The Sox again have gone in for the navy blue uniforms for road duty. White identification numbers on the backs of the shirts are so large that purchasers of score cards will have no trouble detecting which is which.

Manager Bush would like very much to know something about the possible date of Smead Jolley's return, but no information has been forthcoming from the Chicago office. Jolley was sent there more than a week ago for repairs made necessary by an attack of boils.

STADIUM SIGNS 6 LIGHTWEIGHTS TO CLASH APRIL 24

Six of the outstanding lightweights in the country are included in the supporting card to the Tony Canzoneri-Jack (Kid) Berg championship, announced by the Stadium yesterday.

Ralph Lenny, Jersey City star, will meet Lud Abella of Spain in one of the three eight round bouts. Lenny's two performances at the Stadium stamped him as one of the cleverest fighters in the ring today.

Abella has not been in the United States three months, but has defeated Pete Nebo, Joe Glick, and Young Firpo.

Tony Herrera, hard punching Mexican, will tackle the conqueror of Sammy Mandell, Steve Halaiko, who is considered by eastern critics to be the best lightweight prospect in the country. This also is at eight rounds.

The third eight rounder again will bring together Harry Dublinsky of Chicago and Roger Bernard of Detroit. They fought recently and Bernard got the decision, although the referee declared for Dublinsky. It was extremely close and both boys want another chance to make it decisive.

Two four round bouts will complete the program, which will have as its feature the double championship bout between Canzoneri and Berg. Berg is at present at Waukesha, Wis., attempting to make weight, while Canzoneri is due here tomorrow. Berg plans to return to the city Friday to have a full week of gym work before the fight a week from Friday night.

Lewis to Appear on Coliseum Card April 28

PETERSON PIN MEET TO DRAW RECORD ENTRY

A record entry is expected for the seventeenth annual individual championship bowling meet at Louis P. Peterson's alleys May 1, 2, and 3. The alleys are located at 35th street and Archer avenue. Entries close next Tuesday.

Eight games will be rolled by each contestant on four regulation alleys. Total pins will decide the winners. First prize will be $2,500 and a diamond medal. There also will be prizes for those traveling 250 miles to compete, and those who travel from 70 to 250 miles.

The tournament was arranged to give all bowlers a medium through which they can share in a big cash prize list. During the sixteen events which have preceded this year's tournament many of the winners have been men who have never won prizes in tournament competition.

MANUFACTURERS TO MEET.

hockey supremacy, went to Winnipeg.

The team which kept the Stanley cup here proved itself a clever, stout-hearted aggregation and one of the greatest "money" teams in the history of the game. The players came out of a five game series with Boston bruised and spent. They held on grimly until their invalids recovered, and, after being at the losing end of two matches to one, swept through the Hawks Saturday and tonight to win the series, three matches to two.

The Hawks started tonight like potential winners and for a period had the Canadiens backed up. They missed their shots, however, and when they did get a full drive on the goal they ran into Hainsworth, who was at the top of his form.

In the second period the Blackhawks were forced to bow to a superior attack. A penalty to March for tripping gave the Canadiens the break they were seeking. Morenz robbed Gottselig of the puck and sent it to Auriel Joliat, who crossed the blue line and pushed the puck accurately to Johnny Gagnon. The latter faked his shot until Gardiner dove and lifted the puck high over the goalie into the top of the net.

Morenz Scores Goal.

In the last period the Canadiens were beset with a furious Chicago drive, but responded with attack for attack and eventually Howie Morenz broke clear at center ice. He raced in around Wentworth and whistled the puck past Gardiner for his first goal since the regular season ended.

GIANTS SCORE 5 RUNS IN 7TH TO BEAT PHILS, 9-5

Philadelphia, Pa., April 14.—With a seventh inning rally that smashed an early Philadelphia lead, the New York Giants defeated the Phillies, 9 to 5, today. A crowd of 20,000 filled Baker bowl for the opening game.

Ace Elliott started on the mound for the Phils. Aided by two home runs by Chuck Klein, he held the lead until the seventh inning. Klein clouted a four bagger in the third and another in the fifth. But Hughie Critz did some home run hitting for the visitors, placing a circuit clout in the middle of the seventh inning rally that drove both Elliotts, Ace and Jim, from the mound and netted the Giants five runs.

OLD FAVORITES AWAIT AURORA RACE OPENING

While there will be many new horses running at Aurora when the racing season opens on May 1, Chicago turf goers wil not be without their old favorites.

B. A. Jones of Parnell, Mo., owns Taddywawa and Bob Rogers, in addition to a sizable string, mostly of his own breeding and by Cloister. Bob Rogers accounted for a half dozen races during the winter at all distances.

Bumpkin started only four times last winter, but won twice, and Trainer J. McAuliffe expects to win several purses with him. McAuliffe also has King at Arms and Folamile in his barn.

The Bahr starting gate, sponsored by John Schank of the Hawthorne track, and which is almost standard equipment on Illinois tracks, again will be in use. It has already been installed and schooling races for juveniles, with Johnny Morrissey in charge, will commence this week.

CENTRAL A. A. U. TOURNEY OPENS WITH 24 FIGHTS

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Boxers in four divisions, flyweights to lightweights inclusive, started the annual boxing tournament of the Central A. A. U. last night at the Illinois Athletic club. Twenty-four bouts cut this field to the quarter finals.

Tonight the remaining four weight divisions will enter the lists, starting at 7:30. Tomorrow night the quarter-finals will be held in all weights, and then, a week later, at the Chicago Stadium, the semi-finals and finals will be held. The eight champions will represent Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota in the national tournament at New York.

Minneapolis Sends Team.

Minneapolis, for the first time in several years, has a team of boys in the Central A. A. U. meet. Last night Joe Chovatero, Minneapolis featherweight, won his first round bout, defeating William Lorenz in three rounds. Woodrow Chancellor, the bantamweight, drew a bye, while Jerome Chapman, lightweight, was defeated in four rounds by George Holden, runner-up in the Golden Gloves tournament.

Holden, who also won his intercity Golden Gloves bout, was hard pressed and needed an extra round to nose out the Minneapolis fighter. Then, in the final bout of the evening, Holden came back to whip Solly Dukelsky in the regulation three rounds.

Esposito Wins Slugging Match.

NEW YORK CITY PUTS A LIMIT ON BABY GOLF

New York, April 14.—[Special.]—Regulations under which miniature golf courses may be operated publicly in this city hereafter were prescribed in an ordinance passed today by the board of aldermen.

It provides for the licensing of public courses for an annual fee of $50, prohibits courses in residential sections or within 250 feet of a public school, church or hospital, and regulates the hours during which the courses may be open.

DENUDED LANDS TAKE THEIR TOLL OF WILD GAME

BY BOB BECKER.

"Michigan is the only state so far to apply game management in her public holdings," claims Aldo Leopold, wild life investigator, in a report just published on his two year survey of game conditions in eight north central states. Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan were included in this survey, which in many respects is comparable to the intensive searching study of southern quail conducted by Herbert Stoddard, formerly with the U. S. biological survey. In fact, Leopold's survey is by far the most comprehensive and practical investigation of our wild game resources that has been conducted in Chicagoland and adjacent territory.

In view of the acute situation which faces the American sportsmen with respect to a supply of game birds, Leopold's findings are of especial interest. Here is one of his conclusions:

Birds Need Cover.

"More game would be produced by paying the farmer a bonus on hedges and brush covers than by spending thousands of dollars a year, as at present, on foreign game birds." In other words, expensive purchases of Mexican quail and costly bird farms are not nearly so efficient as going to the landowner and having him provide natural cover for birds.

As the most important factors in the destruction of wild life in the north central region, Leopold pointed out the debrushing of woodlands, the cutting away of timber, the cleaning up of game cover in the belief that it shelters insect pests, and the removal of osage orange hedges formerly used as fences. At present we are expecting quail and pheasants to thrive on barren ground, denuded fields and concrete pavements. It can't be done. They must have cover.

Landowner Is Key.

Bringing the farmer into game production is the chief remedy proposed by the investigator for game restoration in the north central states. In other words, recognize the landholder as custodian of public game, protect him from the irresponsible shooter, poacher and pothunter, and compensate him for putting his land into productive condition.

This whole question of farmer relationships will be covered by Mr. Leopold next week in Chicago when he addresses a session of the game conference and the annual convention of the Izaak Walton league, which opens the morning of April 23. Conservationists, game breeders and sportsmen will be on hand to hear details about a possible game policy which will assure good hunting in the future.

BURNHAM ISSUES ARE PROMINENT IN CHICAGO TRADING

Other Gains Are Reduced by Late Liquidation.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The "Burnham stocks" were given a whirl on the Chicago exchange yesterday. Shares of several companies which have banking affiliations with the Burnham interests moved forward briskly with aid of aggressive market sponsorship. Their gains stood out against a ragged background of narrow irregularity in other sections of the list.

The sharpest gains in this group occurred in Kalamazoo Stove, National Standard, and A. M. Castle. The dividend on the latter issue was recently omitted with the explanation that the uncertainty in the steel industry made the action advisable. There have been no recent reports on the business of Kalamazoo and National Standard. Hall Printing was also strong following approval by stockholders of plans for the acquisition of an eastern property.

Large Block Changes Hands.

Minneapolis Moline Power sold at 5 as a block of 10,750 shares changed hands. It was the first trade in the stock in several days and the only transaction made during the day. The price was slightly below the previous quotation.

Early gains in a wide selection of shares were washed away by the liquidation which increased as the day progressed. Many issues had waxed strong in the morning trading under the stimulus of short covering. Some increase in commission house buying had been reported early in the day but at no time during the session did such buying prove a paramount factor. The trading continued largely professional. Volume of business was swelled moderately from Monday's total with transactions aggregating 160,000 shares.

Three additional stock issues of the Associated Telephone Utilities company were listed yesterday by action of the board of directors. The new listing comprise 30,128 shares of $7 cumulative preferred stock, 27,297 shares of $6 cumulative preferred, and 50,000 shares of $6 convertible preferred series A. The common stock of the company is now listed.

Is Holding Concern.

The concern is a holding company whose chief interests are in the securities of operating telephone companies. There is no offering contemplated in connection with the present listing, as nearly all of the stock is now outstanding.

A reduction in the listing of American Radio and Television corporation was approved. The reduction consisted of 30,371 shares, which have been surrendered in liquidation of claims against former owners of companies taken over by American Radio.

Burlington to Speed Up Chicago-St. Paul Day Train

St. Paul, Minn., April 14.—(AP)—A faster running time between here and Chicago for the Burlington railway's day train was announced today by B. W. Wilson, district passenger agent. It will be effective April 26. The trip will be made in 10 hours and 10 minutes, 35 minutes less time than now required, Wilson said, and which, he claimed, would make the Burlington the fastest daylight train on the run.

I. C. C. FIXES FLAT RATE OF 10 CTS. PER 100 LBS. UPON INBOUND GRAIN

Washington, D. C., April 14.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission today ordered a minimum inbound flat rate of ten cents a hundred pounds on grain from points west of St. Louis to Minneapolis and St. Paul, Duluth, St. Louis and Missouri river points.

The action was taken in a supplementary report on grain and grain products in the western district and for export modifying and correcting commissions in a previous order. The new rates become effective June 1.

The order specified that carriers by water subject to the interstate commerce act are to be included in the terms of the previous revision of rates. The commission said they were inadvertently omitted at the time.

The commission explained it allowed the inbound rates to avoid departures from the fourth section of the transportation act resulting from the flat rates from markets exceeding the combinations in those markets.

The commission denied all petitions not previously disposed of for reopening or reconsideration of the record in this portion of their general investigation of the freight rate structure of the country.

The commission held that any increase in the proportional rate of 19 cents a hundred pounds on grains from St. Louis to New Orleans would not be justified and ordered that where an inbound flat rate to St. Louis was less than ten cents the total through rate to New Orleans should be a minimum of 29 cents.

On grain shipped through Kansas City to Texas points the commission held that the minimum through rate from points of origin by way of Kansas City should be not less than 35 cents a hundred pounds.

Public Service of New Jersey.

Is the following preferred stock considered high grade: Public Service of New Jersey 5 per cent series?—F. D. U.

Public Service Corporation of New Jersey is a holding company supplying utility service through subsidiaries to about 90 per cent of the population of New Jersey. The bulk of its revenue is derived from the sale of electricity and gas through its subsidiary, Public Service Electric and Gas company. A portion is also derived from the furnishing of transportation service by Public Service Coordinated Transport. Strong stock interests in the holding company are owned by United Gas Improvement company and United corporation.

Consolidated net income has shown a steady upward trend since 1923. For 1930 net income was $30,163,302 or 3.49 times dividend requirements on all classes of preferred. For 1929 net profit was $29,544,617 or 3.86 times preferred dividend requirements.

Public Service Co-ordinated Transport showed a loss for 1930, against a profit in 1929, reflecting in part public hostility toward the increased fare effective Jan. 1, 1930. Net of Public Service Electric and Gas company, however, more than made up the difference.

Net after taxes and depreciation for January, 1931, was $4,611,840, against $4,034,785 for January, 1930. For February, 1931, similar net was $3,912,726, against $3,637

FIRST QUARTER BRIGHTENED BY A.T.&T. REPORT

Shows More Income than a Year Ago.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The drab array of earnings reports for the first quarter of this year was brightened yesterday. The American Telephone and Telegraph companies reported larger earnings than a year ago and its quarterly dividend fairly comfortably covered.

WALTER S. GIFFORD.

While the telephone operating revenues were a shade lower than during the first quarter of 1930, this reduction was more than offset by dividends received from American Telephone's subsidiaries. Net income for the first quarter of this year was $6,185,412, equivalent to $2.51 a share on an average of 17,994,829 shares outstanding, compared with net income of $40,616,929, or $2.96 a share on 13,720,564 shares in the first quarter of 1930. The quarterly dividend requirement was $38,201,693, and surplus earning after dividends were $2,183,719.

Effects of Depression.

Naturally, the general depression has had some effect on the telephone business. President Walter S. Gifford reported that the Bell system had a net loss of 38,5000 telephones during the first quarter of this year, although this amounted to only one-fourth of 1 per cent of the total number of telephones in services. Total revenues were about 1 per cent less than a year ago but substantially larger than for any other previous year.

About $105,000,000 was expended during the last three months, compared with $144,000,000 in the first quarter of 1930. Stockholders numbered 880,000 at the end of March, an increase of 12,000 since the first of the year.

OIL OUTPUT GAINS

Other news of trade and industry was less satisfactory yesterday. Despite the varied measures to bring stability to the petroleum industry, production again turned upward last week and gasoline in storage increased. The daily gross crude oil output was 2,308,250 barrels, an increase of 56,150 barrels a day over the preceding week, according to the American Petroleum institute. Practically all of the expansion took place in the east central Texas field.

Refiners took more oil and operated at 66.6 per cent of capacity, compared with 62.5 per cent in the previous week. Gasoline stocks at refineries increased by 681,000 barrels to a total of 46,757,000 barrels. Imports of oil declined rather sharply.

FREIGHT LOADINGS EASE

The weekly report on the movement of commodities by the railroads did not reflect any particularly favorable seasonal movement. Loading of revenue freight for the week ended April 4 totaled 728,511 cars, a decline of 11,168 from the preceding week and also a decrease of 179,548 cars from the same week last year. While the current reduction was largely due to observance of Good Friday, still it was larger than had been anticipated. Miscellaneous freight loadings totaled 294,032 cars, a decrease of 94,270 under the corresponding week a year ago.

MOVIES ARMOUR RUMORS

"The financial condition of the company is excellent and rumors of a reorganization are idle," he said. "Our inventories are ample and are moving readily into consumption. Our cash position exceeds our bank loans by $10,000,000 and our working capital is ample to take care of all our needs."

Illinois Central's Profit Drops; Dip Into Surplus

Last year's general depression, coupled with short crops because of drought and the slump in crop values, resulted in the most drastic decline of tonnage and revenue in the history of the Illinois Central railroad. The annual report, made public by President L. A. Downs last night, recites a decline of $23,974,832, or 18.14 per cent, in freight revenue and a decrease of $4,691,317, or 19.48 per cent, in passenger revenues, both compared with 1929.

Although operating expenses were reduced as the result of rigid economies, net income for 1930 declined to $9,389,590, which was equivalent after preferred dividends to $6.02 a share on the $135,799,491 common stock. Dividends totaling 7 per cent were paid, with the result that the road's surplus was reduced by $2,605,229 to a total of $92,134,966. Net income for 1929 was $13,620,383, or $9.14 a share, on the common stock.

Traffic Is Withheld.

As the result of lower prices there was in storage in Illinois Central territory at the end of 1930 more than 1,000,000 bales of cotton and 100,000,000 bushels of grain, according to President Downs. This withheld traffic also was coupled with a curtailed movement of coal, due to the mild winter, while buying power in the road's territory was impaired by the closing of 735 banks.

The present position of a number of important railroads was disclosed yesterday at the annual meetings of the carriers. Among those meeting were the Chicago and North Western, the Erie, the Northern Pacific, the Pennsylvania and the Ontario and Western.

Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and North Western, expressed his belief that the country has been on the bottom of the depression for the last four or five months, but declined to estimate when a sizeable upturn would begin. Less than carload freight, which has fallen off on all railroads since the inroads of the truck, constitutes only 3.4 per cent of all freight traffic on the North Western, he said. If all of it was lost it would not be so very serious, Mr. Sargent continued, but plans are being made to recapture a large portion of it. Additions and betterments to the extent of $16,000,000 were undertaken on the North Western last year.

Improves in March.

Charles E. Denney, president of the Erie, told the stockholders that a deficit of $100,007 after all charges for the first two months this year would be more than offset by the net income for March, and that as a result the road would show a net income for the first quarter of 1931. He added that since the end of March business of the road had continued to show seasonal improvement.

Mr. Denney pointed out that Erie earnings for the first quarter are always the lowest for any period of the year. Contrasting the first two months of 1931 with the similar period in 1927 when the present management took control, Mr. Denney showed that this year the gross revenues were off $3,474,079, but that net railway operating income was up $1,044,728 and the deficit for the period was $1,074,151 less than in the 1927 period. In the intervening years the operating ratio had been cut from 87.15 per cent to 77.52 per cent.

The annual report, issued at the meeting today showed net income of $4,171,149 for 1930, as compared with $11,677,710 in 1929. During the year there was a decrease of 13.48 per cent, or $13,161,667, in operating expenses.

The annual report showed Erie assets at $623,730,880 as of Dec. 31, compared with $601,594,903 a year earlier. Investment in road and equipment was $389,329,889, against $377,472,114 at the end of 1929.

Northern Pacific Income.

Stockholders of Pennsylvania railroad at the annual meeting in Philadelphia approved an increase of $100,000,000 in the indebtedness of the company to permit the board of directors to sell securities to that amount as may be necessary. The annual report was approved. Elections will be held April 28.

Stockholders of Ontario and Western railway voted authority to the directors to merge the Ontario, Carbondale and Scranton railway, the Morton Valley railway and the Pocksport Connecting railroad if such action was found desirable. Ontario and Western owns all the capital stock and operates these three subsidiaries. Directors of the company were reelected.

SAYS BANKERS DO NOT ASK GENERAL WAGE REDUCTIONS

Augusta, Ga., April 14.—(AP)—Rome C. Stephenson, president of the American Bankers' association, opened a meeting of the association's executive council today with a declaration that bankers as a class are not desirous of general wage cuts in industry.

He said the wages of money—interest rates and dividends—, have been markedly reduced, and remarked that he had not heard of any banker accusing "somebody else," the working man for instance, with plotting to reduce these wages of money."

Bankers are charged with the desire to cut wages in "news emanating from Washington," Mr. Stephenson said. He added that "any one who gives the matter the slightest serious thought knows that wage levels are controlled by impersonal economic principles."

"I am not saying that wage reductions should be made, but if any industry discovers that conditions call for an adjustment in cost of operation including wages, it would be a very questionable act of stewardship in respect to the responsibilities resting upon its management if it attempted to keep wages or other costs at any arbitrary level at the expense of the capital funds of the business."

Russians Negotiating for Sale of Gasoline to China

SHANGHAI, April 14.—(AP)—Soviet authorities were said today to be negotiating for importation into China of 50,000,000 gallons of petrol annually at a market price not to exceed forty cents [gold] a gallon compared to the present price of 125 Mexican cents [62½ gold cents].

AUDITOR TAKES CHARGE OF NORTH TOWN STATE BANK

The North Town State bank, 2341 Devon avenue, failed to open its doors yesterday as State Auditor Oscar Nelson took charge for an examination of accounts and protection of depositors. The action was taken at the request of the board of directors. The last call figures as of March 25 showed total resources of the institution were $1,229,432, which included cash of $147,527. Capital stock amounted to $200,000; surplus, $50,000; demand deposits, $474,473, and time deposits of $429,786.

Grain Vessels Leave City as Lake Navigation Opens

With the opening of the Straits of Mackinac navigation has been opened between Lake Michigan and Buffalo. The steamer W. F. Fitch has left Chicago with 198,000 bu corn for Buffalo and the J. J. O'Hagen started with 145,000 bu oats for Collingwood, as reported by Vessel Agent Frank E. Chamberlin. The grain fleet in Chicago and South Chicago that will clear within a few days aggregates 7,799,000 bu.

Lake rates from Chicago to Buffalo are 2½@2¾c asked, with shippers trying to get vessel agents to take 1½c. It is expected that both interests will get together soon.

STANDARD OIL OF N. J. FAVORS CURTAILMENT ON PERCENTAGE BASIS

New York, April 14.—(AP)—The Standard Oil company of New Jersey, publicly expressing itself for the first time on the agitation before the last session of congress for restricting crude oil imports, suggests that producers agree to curtail production in both the United States and the Latin American producing countries on a percentage basis.

In a discussion of this agitation in its official publication, "The Lamp," the company urges solution of the problem so that it may be removed as a source of dissension among domestic producers who are endeavoring to stabilize the industry.

Standard's proposal is "that equities between the United States and South American producers be adjusted by establishing a percentage ratio between the two areas. This was attempted by the Holmes committee in the early part of 1929 when it was urged that production both in northern South American countries [including Mexico in the group exporting oil] and the United States be held down to the 1928 level. This plan met with approval on the part of the American petroleum industry."

To make such a plan effective, Standard suggests that congress might empower the President to invoke a tariff on oil imports in the event that the agreed upon percentage is not maintained. It points out that since the United States produces two-thirds of the world output, whatever reduction in production is made here could properly be applied as a yardstick in other producing areas.

AMER. YVETTE CO. TO PAY INITIAL 25 CT. DIVIDEND

New York, April 14.—(AP)—The American Yvette company today declared an inital dividend of 25c on the common stock, payable June 15 to stock of record May 15. President Bowlan stated net income for the year, Aug. 31 1930 was $207,029 after heavy non-recurring charges and readjustment of certain phases of the company's business.

Plans for $10,000,000 Textile Merger Approved

Gastonia, N. C., April 14.—(AP)—Directors of 14 textile mills at a meeting here today approved plans for a merger that will create a $10,000,000 textile corporation. The meeting also approved plans to bring six other mills into the merger through an exchange of stock.

Claim Bethlehem Holders Will Ratify Bonus System

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 14.—Ratification of the cash bonus system originated for the Bethlehem Steel corporation by Charles M. Schwab was seen assured today when the management announced at a stockholders' meeting in Newark that proxies favoring the system had been obtained from the holders of 72 per cent of the outstanding stock.

CHARLES M. SCHWAB. [Acme Photo.]

Just before the meeting began Vice Chancellor John H. Backes had filed an opinion allowing the stockholders to ballot on the Schwab bonus system, but not to record or officially announce the result without the sanction of the court.

Attacked by Minority Group.

Twenty-two minority stockholders are attacking the system and demanding an accounting of $36,000,000 alleged to have been paid the company executives since Jan. 1, 1918. They want any sums that the court might find excessive, with respect to services rendered, returned to the company's coffers.

With tears trickling down his cheeks Charles M. Schwab this afternoon told the meeting that he had backed the corporation of which he is head with his whole personal fortune and that he had never received a bonus from it.

"I doubt if there is another official of any company in this country who would risk his entire personal fortune for his own corporation," he said in a husky voice, waving a framed note of the company to the United States government—a note for $15,000,000 which he indorsed.

Mr. Schwab was forthright in the defense of the bonus system by which other officers have profited. There never was a time, he said, when he had not boasted of the money distributed among the officers of Bethlehem and he was proud of that action.

"If you want me to get out, I'll get out, but I'll stand by the company as long as you stand with me," he declared. "In the last few years that are left to me I hope to see Bethlehem Steel grow, grow, grow.

"One object remains to me. It is the continued upbuilding of Bethlehem. Boys, I want you to go on after me. Continue a happy family.

Tells of Past Efforts.

"For a matter of sixteen years I stood back of this company with my personal fortune. I have received an average income of $86,000 a year, never any bonus. Now I'll tell you how that was made up. Up until 1917 I never got a penny. From 1918 to 1920 I received $50,000 annually. From 1921 to 1929 I received $150,000 annually. In 1930 the board of directors, without my knowing anything about it, voted me $250,000.

"In 1907 I had to go out and get vast sums of money. I had to give one-fifth of my own stock to the people who got up the money as a bonus, and I never got any of it back and I don't expect it."

Eugene G. Grace, the president of Bethlehem, told the stockholders that the company is now operating on 50 per cent rated capacity; that final tabulations for the first quarter would show preferred dividends fully covered, and that there should be "a little balance for the common."

"Wage rates have been maintained," he said, "and we have made no reductions. We have distributed work among the most men possible. There was some increase in business after the beginning of the year, but in recent weeks it has hesitated."

CITIES SERVICE MAY ABANDON RICHFIELD DEAL

New York, April 14.—(AP)—Reports that Cities Service company would abandon its plan to acquire Richfield Oil company of California were revived in Wall street today as a result of forecasts printed by financial news services that Richfield would default on its May 1 interest and sinking fund requirements on the 6 per cent bonds of 1944.

Comment was unavailable at the offices of Henry L. Doherty & Co., which controls Cities Service. Control of the voting power of Richfield common stock is generally understood to be held by Cities Service, which acquired Richfield common and preferred stock through open market transactions and through exchange of Cities Service shares.

New Life Insurance Is Down 15.9 Pct. in March

New York, April 14.—(AP)—New life insurance written last month declined 15.9 per cent from the volume of March, 1930, and the aggregate for the first quarter was 12.2 per cent less than the total for the same period a year ago.

Statistics made public today by the Association of Life Insurance Presidents showed that new business of all classes last month amounted to $1,028,328,000, against $1,222,184,000 in March, 1930; new ordinary insurance totaled $719,746,000, against $884,535,000, a drop of 18.6 per cent, while industrial insurance decreased 6.7 per cent to $246,663,000. Group insurance was off 15.5 per cent, aggregating $61,919,000.

Believe Wholesale Prices of Cigarets Will Be Raised

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 14.—Despite denials by officials of tobacco companies that manufacturers were planning an increase of from 40 to 60 cents a thousand in wholesale prices of cigarettes, reports persisted today in the financial district that action was imminent. Some went so far as to say an increase was expected over the weekend. The present price is $6.40 a thousand.

Officials of the tobacco companies most likely to inaugurate any change are unanimous, however, in disclaiming any movement in afoot for higher prices. Within the trade authorities are firmly convinced that if any change is made it is unlikely it would be effected until the last quarter.

Newsprint Production Declines in U. S., Canada

New York, April 14.—Stocks were again at the beck of fickle trade winds. Prices started out with a show of vigor and for a spell the bull elements were able to regale themselves with visions of a continuation of the rally they saw getting under way in the later dealings of yesterday. After the turn of the day, though, the tide began to run in the other direction and the last hour saw a selling wave under way that swept values down quite sharply in spots.

Losses of 1 to 3 points were common in the final checkup on the day's business.

Aside from the Spanish political upset there was little in the way of news to influence speculative sentiment, and it is doubtful if the Madrid affair had any important bearing on the market's course. Certainly that far-off event did not visibly stimulate the pace of selling nor pile up any abnormal volume of sales. The total was only about 2,000,000 shares, a good "fair to middlin'" average on the basis of figures of the last two or three weeks. And trading apparently was confined to the same old professional crowd.

Amusements Are Weak.

From a technical standpoint the action of the market suggested that perhaps the list was not so healthy from that angle as had been supposed.

Amusement and electrical equipment shares took the palm as the weak sisters of the procession today. General Electric came in for heavy selling on reports that first quarter profits were under dividend requirements, while Fox Film broke to a new low for the year with the matter of dividend maintenance under discussion there. Loew's and Paramount-Publix were substantially lower, and Warner Brothers, which has been churned about actively over the last few days, also flattened out in the end. Talk of revised amortization schedules for certain types of film inventories had some effect on the amusement issues.

American Telephone cut quite a figure on the upside in the early trading, thanks to its favorable earnings statement, but its example failed to inspire the other utilities and the bears ultimately got it down with the DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, April 14.—(AP)—Cotton goods were quiet and barely steady in the unfinished cloth division today. There was a steady demand for flannels, while worsteds and woolens for the autumn season continued steady, with prices well maintained.

FOURTEEN STORY MEDINAH TO BE MADE 'TAXPAYER'

13 Floors to Be Closed by Levy Mayer Estate.

BY AL CHASE.

Making a fourteen story loop skyscraper into a "taxpayer" by getting rid of the tenants in the upper thirteen floors, is the unusual action being taken by the Levy Mayer estate with the old Medinah building, at the northeast corner of Jackson boulevard and Wells street, it was disclosed yesterday. Tenants in all but the first floor have been notified that no leases will be renewed on May 1.

When the last occupant of these thirteen floors has gone they will be closed up, heat, light and elevator service discontinued, and the fourteen story structure virtually will become a one story building.

According to Rosenberg & Lurie, who have been agents for this old timer for several decades, this unique method of converting it from an office building into a taxpayer was decided as the best remedy for an unusual situation. The site is close to the heart of the financial district and as the original tenancy of the structure, which was made up of textile firms, has largely gone elsewhere, it is logical, as pointed out by Rosenberg & Lurie, for the Levy Mayer estate, when conditions are ready for it, to erect a major improvement in the shape of a towering office building for banking houses, brokerage firms, insurance concerns, etc.

No Plans at Present.

The trustees of the Mayer estate declare that at present no plans for any improvement are being considered and that not even tentative sketches for a new skyscraper have been made.

The old Medinah building stands on a site fronting 115 feet on Jackson and 110 feet on Wells. In 1892 work was started on the structure by the Medinah Temple association, which leased the property from William Giles who in turn had leased it from the owners of the fee, the estates of Eliza Corbidge and William L. Bradley, both lease and sublease being for approximately ninety-nine years.

Opened in 1893.

The building was opened the year of the 1893 World's Fair and was used by the Medinah Shrine and other Masonic organizations for a few years. There are several lodge halls on the upper floors. Later the Shrine built a new building on the north side and moved across the river.

On Feb. 1, 1905, Levy Mayer purchased the building and leasehold estate through Rosenberg & Lurie, and later the Levy Mayer estate purchased the intervening leasehold and the fees. There is no incumbrance on the property. As indicative of the possibility of the Mayer estate erecting a tall building when conditions warrant it, leases on the first floor stores all contain sixty day cancellation clauses.

Clarence B. Jones of Evanston has purchased the vacant 100x140, on Drexel avenue, between Greenwood and Grove, in Glencoe, from Miss Matilda E. and Miss Elizabeth Wieners, and probably will improve with a residence later on. Cutting, Moore & Sidley were attorneys.

OIL REFINERS MEET TODAY TO SEEK RELIEF

St. Louis, Mo., April 14.—(AP)—The efforts of the oil industry to maintain a balance between production and consumption are expected to receive further impetus at the mid-year meeting of the refining division of the American Petroleum institute opening tomorrow.

As their contribution toward restoration of stability in the industry, refiners voluntarily attempted to curtail their production of gasoline and other refined products during the last six months in line with estimates of total consumption by two committees.

The two committees—the volunteer committee of economics of the federal conservation board and the committee on refinery statistics and economics of the institute—virtually agreed on their estimates for the six months ending April 1, 1931. They are expected to present their estimates for the next six months' period at the meeting.

In view of their success in guessing the probable consumption of refined products—oil men say they came within shooting distance of the actual figure—refiners are expected to use their estimate as a guide to regulate their production for another half year period.

In view of the anti-trust laws the refiners are not permitted to act in concert, oil men point out, and their efforts to stem the rising tide of stocks that are a constant menace to prices must be as individuals.

Somewhat cheering news for the motorist may come out the refiners' consideration of the attempt to find a yardstick by which the anti-knock qualities of motor fuels can be ascertained.

CANADIAN RAINS RUIN BULL EDGE ON WHEAT MART

Active Futures Sustain Losses at Finish.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Reports of a few scattered showers in the Canadian northwest took the bull edge off the wheat market yesterday and, with the forecast for showers over the greater part of the winter and spring wheat areas this week around 1c after a strong rally in the forenoon, with net losses of ⅛@¼c on corn, with net losses of ⅛@¼c on active futures. July closed at 61½c; September, 61½@61⅝c, and December, 64⅝c. May was unchanged.

A weakened technical position was revealed by many traders as largely responsible for the decline in wheat prices, as the weather map failed to indicate any general breaking of the drought, which is regarded as having served to develop in the northwest. There was selling of wheat against purchases of corn by spreaders, and the selling here against purchases at Winnipeg. The latter market closed ⅛@¼c lower, with July at 61⅜c, a partial falling off in the foreign demand for cash wheat being a factor. Prices in all positions, however, were finally unchanged to ⅛c lower, with July at 61⅜@61½c; September, 61¾c, and December, 64⅝c. May was unchanged.

Expect Smaller Acreage.

Wheat traders are commencing to pay more attention to the outlook for the 1931-'32 crop, and while the increase supply from the previous crop is still of great importance as a price making factor, there have also been numerous reports of late suggesting that a liberal reduction in the acreage for the coming crop was in prospect. An Argentine cable to J. S. Bache & Co. estimated that the total crop would be reduced 30 per cent as compared with last year, suggesting a total of only 15,000,000 acres, the smallest since 1921.

A Canadian estimate received during the day claimed a decrease of 15 per cent in the three prairie provinces, which, if it materializer, would make the total 22,000,000 acres, the smallest since 1925.

Trading recent reports from Australia and the United States, there is a prospective decrease of 16,000,000 acres of wheat in the four leading exporting countries, sufficient to reduce the crop 200,000,000 bu or more as compared with 1930 on the basis of average yield per acre.

European crop reports on wheat are somewhat spotted, with the outlook in Germany less favorable than at the same last year, while in Poland, last year produced 70,000,000 bu in 1930, no crop is claimed to be poor.

Corn Holds Firm.

There was no material pressure on the corn market, with an advance of about ¼c early on scattered commission house buying and short covering but the late easiness in wheat and local pressure and the close was 1c lower, with May, 61¼c; July, 61¾@61¾c; September, 61¼c, and December, 54⅛@54¼c. Buying of corn by small sales of wheat by spreaders of considerable to do with giving the cash independent strength as compared with the latter grain.

There was some increase in country offerings of corn to arrive where it was possible to pay farmers 50c or better for No. 3 yellow at loading points, and purchases of 25,000 bu were reported to arrive. Shipping sales aggregated 54,000 bu, while receipts were down to 52 cars.

Cash outs continue to be bought freely by the east, sales yesterday aggregating 115,000 bu. Removal of stocks against the sales gave the futures market a firm understone, with prices ½c higher to ⅛c lower, with May at 39¼@39½c; July and September, 31¾c, and December, 32⅜c. Trade was light and mainly of a local character.

The Average Wheat Crop Will Result in Low Prices

The committee, established by grain executives, sketched this pessimistic forecast in a resolution adopted in Chicago last week, and filed yesterday with the farm board.

"The present indications are," the statement said, "that with an average wheat crop this year prices obtainable will be far below the cost of production, causing great loss and hardship to American farmers."

The committee called on all producers and cooperate in curtailing production and controlling the flow of wheat to the market to avert, if possible, further price declines. A crop failure among the five largest in history has been forecast for this year, which, together with existing heavy stocks, serves to complicate the whole wheat situation.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Weather conditions are expected to cut a more important figure in the grain markets from now on. It is largely a question of moisture. Good soaking rains would be beneficial all over the country, although they might delay plowing and seeding of spring grain for a few days in the northwest. The season there, however, is early and there is ample time to put in a good acreage. Wheat traders are watching weather reports more closely than in any other year, and advices of precipitation are expected to bring selling orders, while their absence tends to induce buying, particularly on breaks. It was said at the close that the technical situation in wheat has been corrected by yesterday's reaction, and that unless there were general rains a good rally was to be expected.

Traders who have been bearish on corn, in a few instances expressed the opinion that the market acted as though it wanted to advance. It is one of the peculiar features of the corn trade for years that when the market is ready prices move up or down, regardless of news or individual operations.

Broomhall reports a better continental demand for wheat. Crop conditions in Russia, the Balkan states, and Germany and Poland are reported unfavorable, but are partially offset by favorable advices from Spain, India, and the United Kingdom, while Australian reports indicate substantial reduction in acreage in many districts.

FOREIGNERS BUY LARD

Foreigners were credited with buying lard yesterday, but its effect was offset by hedging sales on the part of packers and by scattered offerings by commission houses. Prices declined and closed 2¼@5c lower. Liverpool lard was 6d lower and export clearances 503,560 lbs. Bellies were 2½c lower on May and unchanged for July, with a little scattered business. Cash trade in all products was fair. Hog supplies were ample and the market steady to 10c lower. Prices follow:

COTTON PRICES LOWER

Although cotton markets were higher early yesterday the strength did not last and the close was around the inside figure with losses of 9@22 points in Chicago, the latter on May. Other markets were 14@19 points lower, while spots lost 15 points, with New York 10.30c, New Orleans 10.00c, Houston 10.05c and Galveston 10.30c. Early strength was attributed mainly to Liverpool, which finished 7@9 points higher with spot sales 5,000 bales.

Local traders bought early, and sold later owing to commission houses taking profits. Weather conditions were favorable with rain in the central belt with indications of more. Estimates on acreage reduction indicate that it will not exceed 10 per cent. For the time being the acreage and fertilizer propositions are vital factors in influencing trading. Reports from the dry goods trade were more favorable. Consumption figures were about as expected and had no influence. Prices follow:
